Pensioner Aid Boost Proposed

OTTAWA (CP) — The government proposes to pay pensions of more than $100 a month to elderly people with no other income, Prime Minister Pearson said Friday night.

He said in a free-time CBC telecast that the Liberal government will propose to the provinces that they share the cost of higher old-age pensions for the needy.

"We have made it (the old-age pension) $75 and we will make it $100 or, if necessary, more than $100 in co-operation with the provinces" for needy cases.

'IRRESPONSIBLE'

Mr. Pearson said the opposition parties are irresponsible when they promise to pay flat-rate pensions of $100 a month to everybody aged 65 and over. This would cost an extra $800,000,000 the first year and would be too much for the economy to bear.

The Liberals proposed to concentrate higher pensions on people who need more than $75 a month and have no other source of income.

"Anybody who only has $75 from the state, and no other source of income, and needs more, even if it's $125—more than $100—should be in a position to get it.

"Now, I think this is a better way of approaching this pension scheme.

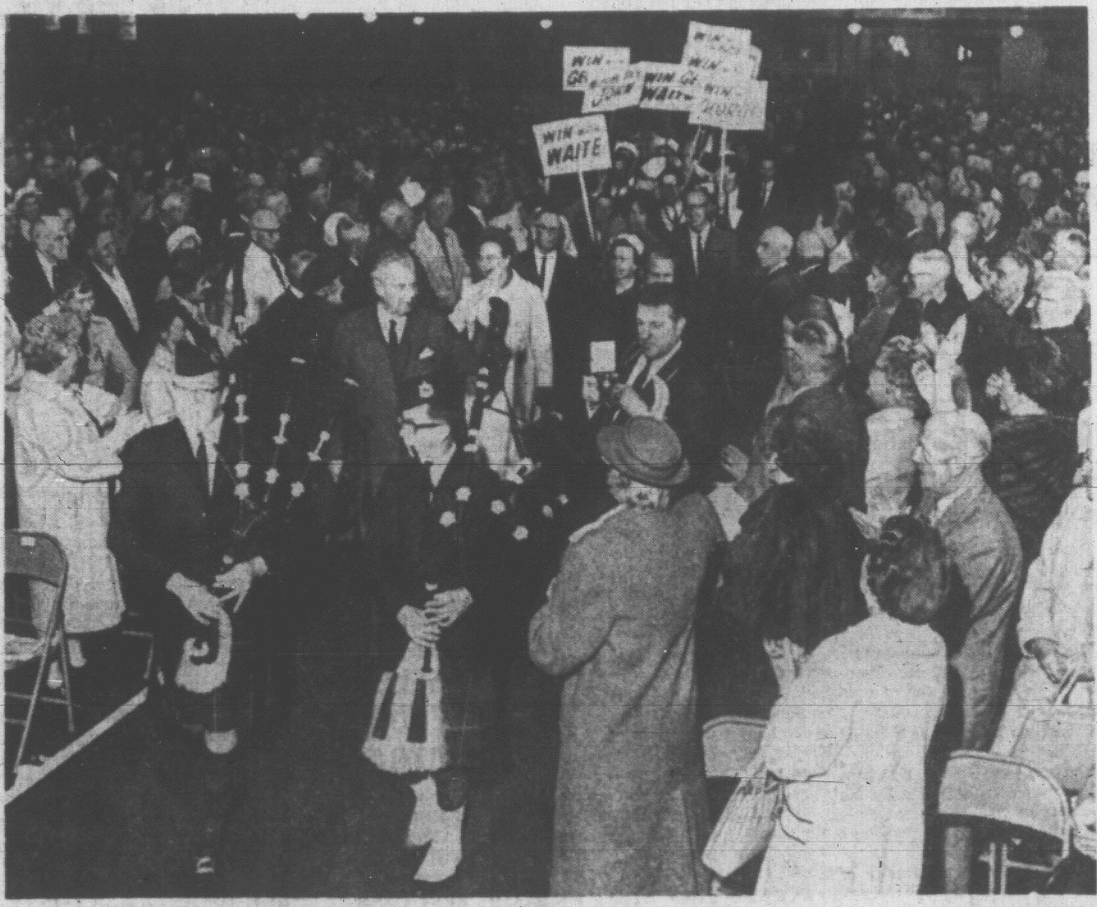
"It's so simple to say, 'all right, you gave them $75, we'll give them $100,' but I'm not going to engage in any auction of the people's money for that kind of thing.

"I think that's quite irresponsible."

COST NOT ESTIMATED

Mr. Pearson did not estimate how much the proposed "Canada assistance program" would cost. He said only that his government is prepared to pay "a large share" of the extra pensions, leaving the rest of the bill to the provinces.

He spoke during a 15-minute filmed interview with David Logan, Liberal candidate in Victoria, Ont., and Mrs. Logan. Mr. Logan said he is constantly asked by voters what the Liberals intend to do about the old age pension.



ROUSING WELCOME awaited Opposition Leader John Diefenbaker Friday night as he entered Bay Street Armory to the skirl of bagpipes. Supporters rushed forward to shake the leader's hand while others clapped, cheered and waved Conservative banners. A crowd of 2,000 crammed the hall to hear Mr. Diefenbaker's pre-election message which lasted more than two hours. (Photo by Halkett.)

Return of Ship Subsidy Promised by Tory Chief

By JOHN MIKA

Conservative Leader John Diefenbaker delivered a custom-tailored speech for Victoria interests Friday in Bay Street Armory—but both the old punch and excited crowds of his previous visits were gone.

If returned to power, he promised:

- To shipbuilders, restoration of the 35 per cent federal subsidy;
- To disabled and blind persons, abolition of the means test for pensions;
- To old age pensioners, an increase to $100 a month from $75;
- To universities, an increase to $5 from $2 in per capita operating grants to relieve the pressure on student fees;
- Consideration of increases for pensions of veterans, retired civil servants and the RCMP;
- An income tax deduction—of up to $500—for civic taxes paid by people who own their own homes;
- And incentives to exporting companies to undertake more market research, participation in trade fairs and more credit sales.

He was given standing ovations at beginning and finish, and there was enthusiastic applause mingled with the interruptions to his speech—but none of the fervid, almost wild acclaim that punctuated his every utterance here during the campaigns of 1957, 1962 and 1963.

LINED BALCONY

And the audience was about half the previous sizes, totalling 2,000 including some 300 who were sent to line the balcony while six rows of about 250 seats remained empty at the back of the main floor.

Nor were there large contingents from up-Island points that were conspicuous at the earlier meetings.

This contrasted sharply with the crowds of:

- 4,000 March 25, 1963, in the same building when there were standees packed inside and several hundred outside listening to portable loudspeakers;
- 3,800 on May 29, 1962, in Memorial Arena;
- 4,000 on May 21, 1957, also in Memorial Arena.

Mr. Diefenbaker, however, recalled that his 1957 Memorial reception was "the prelude to victory" and he assured Friday's audience it was the largest he had ever seen here—proferring this as an omen of Tory victory Nov. 8.

He also mixed vitriol for the Liberal government leaders with a quiet-toned but firm rejection of the slogans chanted by about 20 "Peaceniks" who provided most of the heckling.

Mr. Diefenbaker repeated his questioning of the integrity of

Heckler Draw Dief Into Viet Statement

Opposition leader John Diefenbaker was drawn into discussing Viet Nam by a group of Victoria peace pickets Friday night.

For what is believed to be the first time since he hit the election trail, Mr. Diefenbaker announced his support of the U.S. stand in the strife-torn country.

Against shouts of "What about Viet Nam?", "What about peace?", and "Yankee go home," the 70-year-old leader told the youthful hecklers they were taking the easy stand without knowing the consequences.

What they suggest, he said, "will not be the solution for solving the problem for them in the years ahead."

On several occasions Mr. Diefenbaker was drowned out by the chanting of hecklers who identified themselves as members of the Peace Action League.

Ignoring the interruptions, he went on to say that if the U.S. left Viet Nam, Southeast Asia would fall to the Communists.

He said it was his hope and prayer that the North Vietnamese government would agree to negotiations with the U.S., which, he said, has shown its willingness to talk settlement.

Scuffles at Meeting

VANCOUVER (CP) — External Affairs Minister Paul Martin made an appeal for a Liberal majority Friday night over the heckling of peace demonstrators at a public meeting.

Greeted with jeers and comments as he stepped up to the microphone to speak, Mr. Martin announced:

"I'm going to talk for an hour no matter what interruptions I have."

During his speech, minor scuffles broke out between demonstrators and Liberal supporters.

About 30 demonstrators picketed the theatre at which he spoke.

Four small children were in the group at the theatre door. One of them carried a sign reading: "U.S. aggressors get out of Viet Nam."

Caouette Slumps Before Liberals

By PETER REGENSTREIF

QUEBEC—What has happened to Social Credit? By this stage in the campaigns of 1962 and 1963, the non-metropolitan Quebec electorate was enthusiastically mobilizing behind Real Caouette.

Today, Creditiste strength is running at about half its 1963 level of some 27 per cent and the ardor characterizing its support a short two-and-a-half years ago is virtually non-existent.

The chief beneficiary of the collapse of Social Credit is the Liberal party which is now almost certain of at least a 60-seat province-wide total. The only solid Creditiste area remaining is the northern sector of the province which contains the ridings of Villeneuve, Chapleau, Roberval, Lac St. Jean, Lapointe, Chicoutimi and Charlevoix—and not all of these are necessarily in the Caouette camp.

●

The Liberals, with newly-acquired Jean Marchand, have now taken over the three seats in the Quebec City area which voted Social Credit in 1963. Using this as a base, they are spreading into the surrounding territory with noticeable effect.

The eight 1963 Socred constituencies on the south shore of the St. Lawrence are all likewise vulnerable to Liberal incursions.

Much depends on Sherbrooke. A well-conducted Liberal campaign with a good candidate there can have widespread repercussions throughout the region and could possibly convert even such hard-core ridings as Compton-Frontenac and Megan-

THREE WEEKS TO GO

Campaign Warms Up

The election campaign warmed up Friday night as the parties girded themselves for the three-week dash to the wire Nov. 8.

Developments were:

Conservative leader John Diefenbaker, in his address to a Victoria rally, told hecklers that withdrawal of Americans from Viet Nam would not bring peace to the world. (Page 1.)

Prime Minister Pearson in a TV appearance said his government would see that needy pensioners would get more than $100 per month. (Page 1.)

Mr. Pearson also said his government was prepared to discuss export of Canadian water to the United States. (Page 3.)

A split on the same issue between Mr. Diefenbaker and his former agriculture minister Alvin Hamilton was disclosed. The party leader opposed the idea while Mr. Hamilton came out strongly in favor. (Page 3.)

In Peterborough, Ont., NDP leader Tommy Douglas said his party advocates a "consumers' bill of rights" to patrol unwarranted price increases in goods and services. (Page 3.)

Crisis Faces Bonn Gov't

BONN (Reuters)—A two-hour talk on renewing West Germany's coalition government failed today to solve the crisis which threatens to topple Chancellor Ludwig Erhard from power.

A spokesman for the minority Free Democratic party said Christian Democrat Erhard again refused to reappoint Free Democrat Leader Erich Mende as minister for all-German affairs.

His re-appointment is the party's condition for renewing a coalition which has ruled West Germany for four years.

The Free Democrat leaders immediately left for Mainz to attend a meeting of their party's national committee which will decide future policy.

They were due to resume Monday night, the eve of the first meeting of the new Bundestag (lower house of Parliament) elected Sept. 19.

Political observers believe the Free Democrats were too heavily committed to be able to make concessions without major loss of prestige.

FEAR MENDE

Conservative elements in Erhard's party fear Mende would be too bold in making approaches toward East Germany and would too strongly support Foreign Minister Gerhard Schroeder in his flexible policy toward the Communist bloc.

If the Free Democrats, angered by the rebuff to Mende, refused to vote with the Christian Democrats on the chancellor's re-election Wednesday, the opposition Social Democrats would become the largest single party.

They have 202 seats to 196 for the Christian Democrats and 49 each for the Bavarian wing of the Christian Democrats and for the Free Democrats.

Legally, the Christian Democrats and their Bavarian wing are two different parties, and they need consent to a Bundesag majority to vote together.

Erhard would then not get the absolute majority required under the constitution for the first two votes. He still could be elected on a simple majority on the third vote—a humiliating expedient after his remarkable personal victory in the general election.

$150,000 WON BY B.C. MAN

(Times News Services)

A Mission, B.C., man was one of three Canadians today who won $150,000 top prizes in the Irish Sweepstake.

Walter T. Edwards received news by radiotelephone that he had won with a ticket on Tarqogan, winner of the Cambrideshire at Newmarket, England. (Race story on Page 20.)

His mother, Mrs. Nellie Edwards, said she talked to him by radiotelephone to Toba Inlet, upcoast from Vancouver, where he is employed as a boom man at a logging camp.

Mrs. Edwards said she does not think her son will quit his job despite the big win.

The only other B.C. winner, Bernard Rushton, operator of an electrical repair shop in Vancouver, is on a fishing trip in the Kamloops area and may not know he has won $60,000 as holder of a ticket on second-place Karelia.

The 18 ticket holders on Vancouver Island won $1,100 consolation prizes.

The two other $150,000 winners were R. L. Macdonald, a 67-year-old Toronto bachelor, and a ticket holder identified as "Curly Jo" of Edmonton.

Mr. Macdonald, now retired from the income tax office, said the money won't affect his personal life.

He said he'll buy a few books, go on a trip and give the rest away to charity and his brothers and sisters.

"It's too late to change my way of life," he said.

Seven Canadians won $60,000 prizes and there was one third place $30,000 winner in Canada.

Thousands in U.S. Protest Viet War

NEW YORK (AP) — Thousands of persons protested U.S. involvement in Viet Nam in demonstrations Friday in more than a score of American cities.

Demonstrations were planned for today in Washington, D.C., New York, Berkeley, Calif., Los Angeles, Cleveland, Cincinnati, Columbus, Ohio, Ann Arbor, Mich., Salem, Ore., and Bennington, Vt.

In California, a major clash had been feared between 10,000 demonstrators and spectators in Friday's largest protest march, but there was little disorder.

The demonstrators attempted a protest march from Berkeley to Oakland, but they turned back when 875 Oakland policemen barred their way. National guardsmen had been on stand-by alert.

The marchers vowed to try again today.

A crowd of spectators estimated at 7,000 got between the marchers and police and eggs were thrown on the demonstrators from rooftops jammed with onlookers.

In New York City, David Miller, 22, of Syracuse, N.Y., burned his draft card during a rally outside the armed forces induction centre. He was one of the first to do so since destruction of the cards was made a federal offence.

Hecklers threw eggs at 40 pickets in Chicago and there was a minor scuffle. A bystander smashed a placard carried by a marcher and tried to strike him, but a policeman stepped between them. There were no arrests.

Most of the demonstrators across the U.S. were college students, but their numbers were few in comparison to the enrollments of the schools they attend.

Demonstrations were scheduled to be held by 1,000 students in Toronto today before the U.S. consulate.

An all-night vigil at Portland, Ore., by 20 students fizzled out before 11 p.m. They gathered Friday afternoon in the cold and wet before the army induction centre.

By HAL MALONE

FIRST RACE: With all the early speed here—Mac Man, Mr. Spree, Magic Eve and possibly Avons Jr.—the winner could conceivably come from out of the pack. Cor-Asia has met better and has a late if not always potent kick. Morro Velko and Timely Tony are the other latecomers who should appreciate the early duel. In a close one . . . TIMELY TONY (Cor-Asia).

SECOND RACE: In Advance and Bossy Belle should set scorching early fractions here, dry or wet. But they might choke each other in the process. Some Royal Flush has been trying longer but is dead fit. So are Kimboy and Commander Joe. But when the real running begins we look for Broomfield to bring Rondocal flying. Bay Toe is a threat from behind if he draws in. . . RONDOCAL (In Advance).

THIRD RACE: With no Tommy Can looking over his shoulder, Who's Haydn may never look back with these. He's beaten most of them and the three pounds he picks up shouldn't bother him too much. Listo Librar will make him run, though, and from the inside seems the main danger. Golden Drake, quick but not the most consistent, could throw a scare into them. The others, unless we miss our guess, are mostly along for the fresh air . . . WHO'S HAYDN (Golden Drake)

FOURTH RACE: Exacto players will probably do considerable head-scratching here. The race is packed with possibilities. Some Standard and Brown Wheat appear to be the early clock-breakers and off her fine try with Johnie Hawk, the former has a big shot at it. Foxy Rover takes a dip in class but the way he's been running he's a question mark. Miss Quito is in the same category Patricia Bam and Border Spy. neither of whom we have considered as routers, could be mean in the lane as could Dark Bug, particularly if it rains. Of the eligibles Highdorn and Alice Kaput add to the contention. In a grab-bag . . . BORDER SPY (Patricia Bam).

FIFTH RACE: He hasn't run a bad race and will probably be the post favorite, but Chekaj Chekaj picks up eight pounds and a different boy today. Mil Easy should lead them out of the gate but unless she can set a false pace and be rated the stretch could look 10 miles long to her. Melody Man showed a flash of speed and used to be able to handle these. Whaang Leather has run two corkers on off tracks, drops two, and belongs. Pepperoni is hard to figure; with his best he's on the board. Top Bracket has been going well enough to be a threat especially if the leaders falter. In a squeeze . . . CHEKAJ CHEKAJ (Whaang Leather)

SIXTH RACE: The farther he goes the better he seems to like it, but Why Him, who beat most of these in the slop, has his work cut out here. Hamish switches riders and hits hard in this company. Rush Call may try to steal it but she's hardly a proven marathoner. Flying Sea Spray closed resolutely in her last and then hung. Gay Bond wasn't a runaway winner of his last two but his manner was impressive. If Marsh, who knows him well, can rate him the first part it looks as if he could be posing for the photographer . . . GAY BOND (Why Him).

SEVENTH RACE: There are few sophs who can go with Rebel Hawk from the gate and none of these qualifies. But much depends on how much Saturday's effort takes out of him. Tommy Can steps up after three facile victories—all sprinting—but he's never been better and can lay close to the pace and then come on, the sign of a good horse. Joey Lark has an age advantage and looks them in the eye in the stretch. Peaceful Nite and Esperante both come from out of it and will need strong finishes to get on the board. It should be barn-blazer . . . TOMMY CAN (Joey Lark).

EIGHTH RACE: Sunrise Gal outfigures these for us, although Fifteen Freckles rambled in high gear from off the pace and Lady Flag could be prominent from this post. Adios Afficionados! SUNRISE GAL (Lady Flag).

Ex-Premier Back

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Vladimir Shcherbitsky, a former Ukrainian premier who lost his post under Nikita Khrushchev, has been restored to his old position, the Communist party newspaper Pravda reported today. He had been relegated to the Communist party secretaryship in the Dnepropetrovsk region in 1963, apparently after clashing with the former Soviet leader.

. . . DIEFENBAKER

Liberal leaders—recalling the Rivard affair, the admission of reputed Mafia leader Joseph Bonanos to Canada, the Harry Stonehill case and recent allegations of an arson-bankruptcy racket link to Quebec politics.

SILENCE AN ANSWER?

He also charged that his questions this week about allegations that bribes were offered to six Creditistes to support the Liberal minority have not been answered—promising to keep asking the questions until silence became an answer itself.

He said Prime Minister Pearson's attitude to the scandal allegations was "like the threee monkeys—see no evil, speak no evil and hear no evil—and if you do, then forget about it."

He said after the Creditiste allegations about "the mess the Liberals got into with deals with the splinter parties, one can only contemplate the result if he (Mr. Pearson) had been able to trample Parliament with a majority."

Mr. Diefenbaker said only the Conservatives and the Liberals had a chance of forming the next government.

"Vote for the Liberal candidates, give the prime minister a majority, and what's going to happen? Are they going to clean up the mess?"

PC'S "HONEST"

He said his administration even if it made mistakes, "at least was honest." But Mr. Diefenbaker said events had vindicated his stands on pegging the Canadian dollar, selling wheat to China, building northern roads for which the Liberals had ridiculed him

PACIFIC TRADE

Mr. Difeenbaker, in passing, gave approval to a recent policy statement by B.C. Conservative candidates, led by Davie Fulton, which promised to pursue a Pacific trade expansion beneficial to the whole country and especially this province.

"I'm not going to go into details but generally speaking what is stated in that policy statement is acceptable to the Conservative party in all parts of Canada," he said.

Referring to his plank for B.C. specifically, Mr. Diefenbaker said his administration spurred shipbuilding here with the 35 per cent federal subsidy and an allocation of government contracts that was fair to the west coast.

DITCH SUBSIDIES

"The Liberals came in and what did they do?—ditch the subsidies.

"We intend to restore that subsidy and we intend to ensure the west coast will expand by having its proper share of ship building in this nation," he said.

He also said that if old age pensioners wanted the $100 monthly pension in his program "you can't get that by voting for splinter parties and you won't get it if you elect the present government."

Mr. Diefenbaker said a Conservative government would implement the general outline of the Hall Royal Commission plan for medicare "but providing that there shall be freedom of choice and no regimentation."

He added that he would extend National Housing Act mortgages to older houses to assist elderly people on low incomes to improve and renovate their homes; remove the 11 per cent sales tax on building materials; and protect Canadians "from certain financial institutions which are charging high and exhorbitant interest rates."

The Tory chieftain also repeated accusations that the Liberals were intent on smashing Canadian traditions such as the monarchy and operated on a policy of creating racial dissension which would make citizens without an English or French background into second-class citizens.

90-Year Resident Here Dies In Hospital

A Victoria resident for all of her 90 years, Mrs. Mary A. Heritage died today in Royal Jubilee Hospital.

She was one of the oldest members of First United Church.

Her father, Alexander Wilson, was one of the founders of the church, formerly known as First Presbyterian Church.

She was predeceased by her husband, John Alexander (Chief) Heritage, a chief engineer on CPR Princess boats here for many years. He died in 1958.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday at 1:30 p.m. in McCall Bros. main chapel, followed by cremation.

She is survived by two daughters, Olive and Marion, both at home, 1438 Grant St.; a son, Wilfred in Powell River; sisters Mrs. Peter McKechnie and Miss Jessie Wilson, Victoria, Mrs. George McDonald, Burnaby, and a brother, Cleaver Wilson in California.

200 Attend School Opening In Langford

Some 200 persons Friday night attended the official opening of the new Savory Elementary School, Granger Road, Langford.

The opening was conducted by Dr. G. Neil Perry, newly-appointed deputy minister of education.

It was his first public appearance in that capacity.

The two-storey, six-room school has been occupied by 240 students in grades one to seven since the beginning of the school year.

Dropped Word Alters Meaning

An unfortunate typographical error in Friday's paper changed the meaning in the introduction to the Vatican City report of the ecumenical council's historic decision regarding the church's attitude toward Jewish people.

The word "anti-Semitism" was in advertently dropped.

The sentence should have read "The Vatican ecumenical council voted final endorsement today of a historic Roman Catholic declaration deploring anti-Semitism and declaring that the Jews as a whole cannot be blamed for the crucifixion of Christ."

HMCS Malahat Inspection Set

Commodore Gordon C. Edwards of Hamilton will make an informal inspection on Monday of HMCS Malahat, Victoria's naval reserve division.

He is the newly-appointed commanding officer, naval divisions.

Commodore Edwards was formerly in charge of personnel on the Atlantic coast and a former commander of the naval air station, HMCS Shearwater.

He has had a lengthy career as a naval aviator.

WORKERS SUED

Strikers Suspended By Firm

TORONTO (CP) — Seventy-three strikers were suspended from their jobs and six others were sued for damages in major developments Friday of the wildcat strikes that broke out nearly two weeks ago, halting operations of 85 Ontario trucking companies.

Inter-City Truck Lines Ltd. of Toronto announced the suspensions of eight employees in Toronto and 65 others at its Windsor operations for refusing to obey union orders to return to work.

Inter-City was the first firm to be hit by the wildcatters, who are demanding an eight-hour reduction in the current 48-hour week without reduction in the basic $2 hourly wage rate. The companies refuse to negotiate until the men, members of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters (Ind.), return to work.

Estimates varied—600 to 2,000—of the number of strikers involved. But a spokesman for the Automotive Transport Association of Ontario, which represents 1,500 trucking firms, said Friday only companies in south-western Ontario now are affected by the unauthorized walkouts. Many of the wildcat members have been voting through the week to return to work.

A Teamster official announced that six members of Toronto Local 938 are being sued by Direct Winters Transport Ltd. for $100,000 in damages arising from picketing activities at the company's premises.

Meanwhile, the Automotive Association announced a $20,000 reward fund to "stamp out acts of violence and malicious damage" in connection with the strike. It said rewards will be given for information leading to the arrest and conviction of those responsible for any acts of arson, assault, intimidation or obstruction.

Premier to Attend Annual CS Dinner

Premier Bennett and his cabinet will attend the annual civil servants' dinner in the Empress Hotel Dec. 14 honoring those with 25 years of continuous service.

The dinner is sponsored by the government and awards are presented. Premier Bennett usually announces the government's stand on the coming year's salary requests by civil servants.

'Turn From Brink' Rhodesia Urged

BRIGHTON (Reuters)—Edward Heath, Consevative opposition leader, today urged Rhodesian Prime Minister Ian Smith to "turn back from the brink" of a unilateral declaration of independence.

Heath, in a major speech at the final session of his party's annual conference here, declared:

"I would like to send this solemn message to Mr. Smith and his colleagues.

"We believe that a middle way must be found. If there are still thoughts of unilateral action, then turn back from the brink."

Heath clearly set out his party's position on Rhodesia less than 24 hours after the conference averted a major split by agreeing not to take any vote on the issue of possible sanctions against Rhodesia in the event of a unilateral declaration of independence by the white-ruled colony.

Heath said the British Labor government had followed the line of the previous Conservative administration, but the handling of negotiations was the responsibility of the government alone.

Heath stressed:

"It has not, and cannot have, a blank cheque from us on that. We are free to criticize the conduct of a negotiations."

PLEDGE EFFORT

He pledged his party to concentrate all its efforts on securing a negotiated solution in Rhodesia and added:

"Everyone here prays there will be no unilateral declaration of independence by Rhodesia. With all our hearts, we pray that."

Heath again underlined the party's new policy of directing all its efforts to a fresh bid to join the European Common Market. France vetoed British membership in 1963.

Debate Postponed

Dief, Hamilton Split On Exporting Water

Opposition Leader John Diefenbaker and his former agricultural minister, Alvin Hamilton, split Friday on exporting water to the U.S.

Speaking in Victoria, Mr. Diefenbaker came out strongly against the plan.

In Nelson, Mr. Hamilton supported the idea.

Said Mr. Diefenbaker during a two-hour speech: "The proposed export of Canadian water is not in keeping with the constitutional rights of the provinces and forgets the demands of our young citizens in the next 30 years."

He said he would oppose any move to bring the plan into effect.

Meanwhile, Mr. Hamilton was taking the opposite stand.

He said Canada should agree to an American plan to syphon huge quantities of fresh water to the U.S.

However, he did add a proviso—that Canada obtain in return guaranteed markets for industrial products.

One compensation, he said, would be a guaranteed 15 per cent annual growth rate for the steel industry. This would mean Canadian mills could produce half the entire North American steel output.

Canada should also produce half the machinery and equipment required to produce steel in North America, he said in an interview.

He was referring to an American proposal known as the Parson Plan, which would cost $100,000,000, to build a series of canals to carry fresh water from Northern Canada to the parched areas of United States.

'U.S. Very Anxious To Get Our Resource'

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Pearson said Friday night his government plans to discuss with the United States arrangements to export water south of the border.

"This can be as important as exporting wheat or oil or anything else — exporting water — and one day we'll find out how important this resource is," he said in a free-time CBC telecast.

Mr. Pearson added that Canada would have to be "awfully careful" to meet its own water needs before exporting water to the U.S.

"The U.S. is finding that water is one of its most valuable and becoming one of its scarcest resources, and we have, well, we have lots of water.

". . . We will be discussing this with the U.S. who are very anxious to work out arrangements by which some of our water resources are moved down south.

"This can be one of the most important developments in our history."

Mr. Pearson did not refer to recent charges by Conservative leader Diefenbaker that the government plans to "surrender" Canada's "vital" water resources to the U.S.

. . . CAOUETTE SLUMPS

tic to Liberalism. In fact, the latter is in the doubtful category, tending Liberal, even now.

Liberal strength across the province has all the earmarks of the majority style.

In 1963, the Liberals were strongest among the better-off, better-educated and over-45 voters, with the Creditistes, riding the crest of a lower status movement, trouncing them among the less skilled, young segments of the population.

Today, the Liberals dominate across the entire social spectrum, showing no group-specific weaknesses.

The motivations underlying this basic shift in the 1963 Creditiste vote are a product of the breakup in the ranks of the movement and the improved economic situation. It should never be forgotten that the depressed economic conditions of the late 1950s and early 1960s account for much of the success of Social Credit in this province. All recognize that things are much better now and this has taken much of the drive out of Caouette's present campaign.

These are obvious plus factors for the Liberals and the recent addition of Marchand, Pelletier and Trudeau to their ranks reinforce their advantage.

Caouette is also personally suffering a loss in popularity and by his recent attempts to capitalize on what there was of a nationalist ingredient in his movement, he has overplayed his hand.

What about the NDP? The New Democrats have taken over some of the protest elan of the Socreds and they can conceivably double their 1963 showing of 7 per cent of the popular vote this time.

However, it is highly unlikely that they will capture any seats.

The NDP has come along at least one election too late in this province. As they argue their doctrine of a better economic deal, they have been somewhat bypassed by events. The economic climate is much improved now and liberalism is experiencing a recovery.

As for the Conservatives, they are even lower than they were in 1963—if that is possible. Diefenbaker is simply no longer acceptable here.

Only the most hard-working and popular of local candidates can stand against this antipathy.

While there is no doubt that there is record indecision, the verdict ultimately seems to favor the Liberals. All agree that Pearson will be in office after Nov. 8. This contrasts sharply with the situation elsewhere in the country.

The only disagreement is over whether he will have a clear majority or be left in a minority position again.

At the same time, the consensus is that Caouette is on his way out. Even his staunchest supporters predict that, at best, the movement will hold its own.

This, in itself, signals a fantastic change. During the last two campaigns, it was the rare Socred who did not claim 50 seats in Quebec for his party at every opportunity.

Now Creditiste voters will settle for what they can get. And all the signs are that it won't be much.

●

Of course, something bizarre can happen between now and election day to alter some of these developments. While this does not appear likely, the voters in non-metropolitan Quebec have now become so accustomed to wild goings-on in the world of politics that they are waiting in anticipation of something extraordinary before making a final commitment. This accounts for some of that high indecision.

Once again it should be emphasized that reduced turnout is in the offing.

To sum up: the partisan pattern has now settled down to a situation in which the Liberals have a firm grip on over half of that support which is committed with the rest distributed among the three opposition parties, none of which has over 16 or 17 per cent of the vote at this juncture.

The Liberals are once again in their traditionally dominant position.

The seat prognosis: Liberals 60, Creditistes 6, Conservatives 2, doubtful 7.

The prime minister is one big leg up in his quest for a majority.

'Darabaner Not Liberal'

QUEBEC (CP)—The chief Quebec organizers for the federal and provincial Liberal parties said at a press conference Friday that Quebec businessman Moise Darabaner, awaiting trial here on fraud and arson charges, "has never been a member of the Liberal organization at any level whatsoever."

'Eldercare Not Enough Protection'

MONTREAL (CP) — Dean Charles I. Schottland of Brandeis University, Waltham, Mass., said Friday it is "a fiction to say all people in the United States get equal medical care."

Giving the second Dorothy King Memorial Lecture at McGill University, he said:

"Free medical care is not necessarily good medical care. Health is a public commodity like education and should be available for all persons, not just those who have the purchasing power."

Dean Schottland, who heads the Florence Heller graduate school for advanced social studies in social welfare at Brandeis, said recent passage of a bill in the U.S. providing medical care for the aged relieved much public pressure for a national health insurance plan.

He said, however, the situation still is "not completely adequate."

Although approximately 140,000,000 Americans had some form of health insurance the coverage was limited. Only 20,000,000 of these had "rather complete coverage" as a result of collective bargaining agreements or co-operative planning with employers.

STRIDING TOWARDS what they hope is a Progressive Conservative victory on Nov. 8 are Rev. Clifford Waite, Victoria riding candidate, PC Leader John Diefenbaker and George Chatterton, Saanich-Esquimalt. The local candidates met Mr. Diefenbaker at the airport Friday afternoon prior to a rally that night at the Armory.

MAJOR PARTIES UNDER FIRE

NDP Says Underworld Invading Government

PETERBOROUGH, Ont. (CP) — A self-imposed blackout on references to political scandal by New Democratic Leader T. C. Douglas was lifted momentarily here Friday night as he charged that the "tentacles of the underworld" were reaching up into the councils of the nation.

This was his only mention of crime in a 70-minute speech to an overflow rally in an 850-seat high school auditorium.

While Mr. Douglas, in his press conferences, has commented on questions such as the Quebec bankruptcies and the affair of six Social Credit MPs who pledged support to the Liberals, in his campaign speeches he has carefully avoided such issues.

But he lapsed from this policy Friday night as he was listing for his audience a number of reasons why he said voters are fed up and disillusioned with the old line parties — the Liberals and the Conservatives.

"You see the tentacles of the underworld reaching up into the councils of the nation, and the government doing nothing about it except trying to sweep it under the rug," he said.

It was his only word on the matter.

LIMIT INTEREST RATES

Mr. Douglas said an NDP government would put a ceiling on interest rates charged by finance companies and would force disclosure of true interest rates in instalment buying.

One of the first things an NDP government would do would be to present Parliament with a consumers' bill of rights, establishing a prices board to "prevent unjustified increases in the prices of goods and services which affect our cost of living."

"Our party believes that the Canadian consumer has the right to protection from the gyps and frauds and extravagances which are forcing up the cost of living, creating hardship for millions of Canadians on fixed incomes, pensions and annuities."

The New Democrats would establish a national industrial development corporation which would use personal savings for investment in the economy, stressing the processing of primary products at home.

Mr. Douglas also reiterated NDP promises to provide free university education at a cost of $85,000,000 a year, arguing that in the event of war the government would unhesitatingly spend hundreds of millions to train fighting men.

* * *

CLC Urges Support For NDP

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian Labor Congress Friday urged "the strongest possible support" for the New Democratic Party in the Nov. 8 federal election.

"It has been the view of the vast majority of delegates to Canadian Labor Congress conventions that the New Democratic Praty is the party which has a program in accord with the aims and aspirations of the Canadian labor movement," the congress said in a statement.

The party had been effective in the last Parliament in bringing in legislation of benefit to all Canadians.

"The forming of the government, or the strengthening of the NDP representation in the Commons is, in our view, the manner in which workers, in common with other voters, can best express their urgent desire for the adoption of such pending legislation as medicare and the introduction of collective bargaining for civil servants," the statement said.

Aid for Cubans

WASHINGTON (AP) — The state department plans to send Fidel Castro a note today aimed at setting up orderly evacuation of an estimated 30,000 to 50,000 Cubans to the United States.

'Survey Sparked November Vote'

CAMROSE, Alta. (CP) — National Social Credit Leader Robert Thompson struck at the Liberal and Conservative parties in a speech here Friday.

He scored Prime Minister Pearson for calling the Nov. 8 election before redistribution of Commons seats could be completed.

Mr. Pearson called the election, "against the advice of much of his cabinet, and his party caucus, after a private organization took a poll and said he would get 165 seats," Mr. Thompson said.

"This is so ridiculous it is almost impossible to believe he took it seriously. The same poll said I wouldn't take Red Deer this time." (Red Deer is Mr. Thompson's home constituency.)

He said the Liberals' medical insurance scheme, offered in July to provincial premiers, was "drafted by socialists in the Liberal party-Kent (Tom Kent, a top Pearson aid)), Marchand, and Pelletier—who are not responsible to Parliament for their actions."

(Jean Marchand and Gerard Pelletier, both from Quebec, are running for the first time as Liberals in the coming election.)

He said a majority Liberal government "would put Canada into the arms of socialism as fast as the NDP would, if they were in office."

Outside the cafe where he addressed 100 persons, Mr. Thompson told a group of Bible College students they could blame the prime minister for the loss of their voting rights.

"If he had waited five days to call the election, most students would have been back on the campus and able to register as voters," he said.

One of the things of which he was "most ashamed" in the House of Commons, he said, was Conservative MPs from Alberta, "berating and misrepresenting the province and its government." They viewed Parliament as a political arena rather than a place to carry out their responsibilities.

"We get opposition instead of support when we protest unfair federal policies." Unlike most provinces, Alberta MPs had no provincial caucus.

"Why isn't Mr. Diefenbaker standing with us on things that ought to be mutually agreed between Conservatives and Social Credit?" he asked, referring to the federal medical insurance scheme.

Looking Ahead

ONE OF THE FIRST PROBLEMS facing a newly-elected prime minister is the choice of a cabinet. It is a problem which would cause Mr. Diefenbaker much more trouble than it will Mr. Pearson.

Mr. Diefenbaker gathered several able and energetic ministers about him while he was in office, although the Conservative Party had been in opposition so long it could not call on any cabinet material with experience in federal administration.

The trouble for the Conservative leader lay in the fact that he very soon found himself in conflict with some of his leading ministers. Their policies were not his policies, and this divergence of view led eventually to an open rebellion in Mr. Diefenbaker's cabinet ranks.

For the purposes of the election campaign, Mr. Diefenbaker now announces that the Party has been unified and that all is harmony and co-operation within the Tory organization. He says this even while Conservatives speculate on how long Mr. Diefenbaker would remain as leader whether or not he was able to win the election. But his problems would be only beginning, for some of the men he would have to call on for cabinet posts would be the same who two years ago questioned his leadership to the point of resignation.

Mr. Pearson is on much better ground. His return to office in Ottawa would find him with a much wider choice of ministerial timber — a width of choice of which he should take full advantage. The election of Mr. Marchand, Mr. Trudeau and Mr. Pelletier in Quebec — and political observers give them every hope of success—would provide valuable cabinet representation from the French-speaking province. The return of Mr. Winters, added to the continuing presence of such ministers as Mr. Pickersgill, Mr. Sharp, Mr. Laing, Mr. Martin, Mr. Hellyer and others, would provide the nucleas for a strong government.

But beyond that Mr. Pearson's choices might well enter upon new territory. This would be his opportunity, with a majority government carrying the people's wish, to drop those ministers who for one reason or another proved an embarrassment to him in the last parliament, and approach the national problems ahead with a strengthened team.

Teacher and Taxpayer

THIS YEAR THE MILL RATE for school purposes in the city rose about 3½ mills above 1964 and the amount allocated to public education up to and including the secondary levels represented approximately 40 cents of every municipal tax dollar collected in Victoria.

This, in simple form, is the budgetary background against which teachers have presented their request for 1966 salary increases averaging 10 per cent, by school board estimate, and representing nearly three mills.

At this point the request has been presented amicably by the teachers' representatives to the board and has been received amicably by the trustees. Next week the board is scheduled to reply to the request. Then the bargaining begins.

At present school board authorities report their minimum scale to be $3,150 a year. This is paid to the person who has successfully completed the university entrance course in high school and has taken one year of teacher training.

At the other extreme is the scale for those who hold professional advanced certificates, requiring a university arts degree and teacher training. For them the local rate is $9,750.

The highest paid principal — whose earnings include allowances for administrative duties—receives $14,907.

The average for all teachers is computed at $6,839.

Some teachers supplement their pay cheques with night school earnings, some with vacation employment that varies in length of time during July and August.

Local teachers' salary scales are rated by Victoria trustees among the highest in the province, along with those paid in Vancouver, New Westminster and Burnaby.

City taxpayers, with two-fifths of their civic taxes going to the schools, will watch with particular interest this year as negotiations proceed on a new basis. Under recent legislation, the board has been empowered to engage an expert negotiator. How he fares in the days ahead will determine to a substantial degree the depth to which the property owner will dig into his pocket to meet the educational bill.

Newspaperboy Day

TODAY THIS NEWSPAPER, with others on the continent, salutes the young men who form the last and vital link in the complicated chain which brings news to the readers from the points where it is made.

This is National Newspaperboy Day—an occasion on which to think with appreciation of the service performed, day in and day out, by the responsible corps of youths who convey the finished product to the porch of the subscriber.

These are boys who, at an early age, are learning sound principles of business, and recognizing the obligation placed upon them to see that their job is well done and that their patrons are satisfied with the service.

It is a task that calls for discipline and for a realization by the newspaperboy that failure on his part can render useless all the costly and painstaking labors which have gone into the production of an edition. That he recognizes the role he must play is attested by the fact that the appearance of the paper on the doorstep is taken almost for granted by the public.

As he performs his service, he learns valuable lessons in dependability, in perseverence and in courtesy. This is a year-round form of education recognized publicly today —his day.

The Shopper's Pass

THE BRITISH COLUMBIA Hydro's transportation department in Victoria does not suggest that its three-months' shopper's pass experiment, due to start November 1, is a major or significant move to reduce fares to the public.

It is an effort to determine if there are sufficient people in this community to justify low-cost shuttling privileges in a restricted downtown area between 9 in the morning and 3:30 in the afternoon. Provided they board a bus homeward bound before the latter hour, the unlimited shuttling in the specified area will cost them only five cents more than would trips to and from home.

In Vancouver, with a larger shopping area, the shopper's pass has proved to be a modified success.

The pass may be purchased here only in the area designated — the city blocks bounded by herald, Humboldt, Blanshard and Wharf Streets. It can be used for transportation only within that area, except for the final trip home before 3:30.

A significant advantage, if the plan works, would be its encouragement of shoppers to use the public transportation system in the off-hours. The service does not extend to shopping centres outside the downtown core, but it appears to meet in part a prevalent request from the public for a service similar to that in Vancouver.

TROUBLE FOR LEADERS

BY WALTER LIPPMAN

Waning Game of Power Politics

THE fog has lifted just enough to make it reasonably certain that Red China has suffered a sharp setback in Indonesia. Whether or not Sukarno connived at the rebellion it is fairly clear that, had the rebellion succeeded, Indonesia would have been even more aligned with Red China than it has been up to now. This confirms the general impression that Red China is finding much more opposition to its military foreign policy than it expected. Thus, it has had to fall back from intervention in the Pakistan-India conflict. There are some indications that its influence has declined somewhat in Hanoi because it is sending less military assistance to North Viet Nam than are Moscow and some of the other nations of the Soviet bloc.

Lippmann

In the struggle at the United Nations over the admission of Red China, the favorable votes are at present insufficient to overcome U.S. opposition, and among the missing votes are, significantly enough, some of the African states which once belonged to the French colonial empire.

Nevertheless, it would be a mistake to inflate this agreeable news into a daydream about the impending defeat or collapse of Red China. That daydream is an old chestnut. The daydreamers have been as wrong about it as were their forerunners in the 1920s who talked to a few emigres and refugees and then knew for sure that the Soviet Union was going to collapse.

The setbacks that Red China is experiencing abroad are not unique. One general experience in this age is that all the great powers are finding it increasingly difficult to influence and control events, especially when they are in distant places.

Thus, Great Britain is confronted in Southern Rhodesia with a dilemma from which she can extricate herself, it would seem, only with miraculous political skill. The Soviet Union has recently gained some influence in Southeast Asia. But it is a long way from being able to direct and control or influence decisively the policy of Hanoi. The United States is deeply entangled in Viet Nam. But only the reporters who swallow the official briefings raw are telling us that we are winning the war.

The decline of the external power and influence of the big nations is a significant phenomenon in human affairs. We are as yet in no position to appreciate it fully, much less to understand its consequences. But it is an obvious fact that as the great powers are losing their influence the turbulence in the world is increasing. All this needs to be looked at and pondered. As we do this, we shall do well to keep in mind what is happening among our principal allies in Western Europe.

Moral Support

Britain, for example, which has given us moral support in Viet Nam, is nonetheless compelled to take the path of military withdrawal — at least in Asia from Aden to Singapore and possibly also in Europe from the Rhine to Cyprus. The pressure for this withdrawal is no doubt lack of money. But if the British people believed that the remnants of the old empire were vital to their own survival and to the peace of the world, they would do what they have done before—they would put defence above affluence.

The Germans can be said to have no extra-European foreign policy. That may well be because the Germans long since lost their colonial empire and because they are still partitioned as a result of their defeat. But they are rich, and in their international actions they avoid any serious participation in world affairs or any adequate contribution to economic development.

Power Politics

Besides preferring to keep their money at home, it has probably occurred to them that the game of power politics, especially in other continents and distant places, shows signs of becoming out of date in addition to being very expensive, rather dangerous and increasingly ineffectual.

The experience of France throws an interesting light on this phenomenon. When Gen. Charles de Gaulle decided to liquidate the Algerian war, an act requiring supreme moral courage, he did not try to hang on to the bits and pieces, the shreds and tatters of the French empire.

The effect of the purge of French imperialism and colonialism is that French prestige in the world is higher than it has ever been since the wars of this century began, and the international influence of France is now felt in the mainstream of the world's politics.

Dated Globalism

I wish I could feel that United States globalism is not isolating us from the living realities of world affairs. But our globalism, so recently adopted, is becoming quickly out of date.

We are being isolated in the sense that, while we are enormously extended, we are compelled to rely more and more on military power and upon money rather than upon the influence of our example, which was once our greatest asset in human affairs. In this development of our attitudes we are in danger of being bedazzled with the illusion that the ultimate solution of the intractable issues of the world is enough bombing to pulverize the opposition.

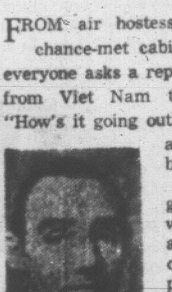
FROM WASHINGTON

By JOSEPH ALSOP

A Hope for Victory

FROM air hostess to taxi driver to chance-met cabinet member, almost everyone asks a reporter newly returned from Viet Nam the same question: "How's it going out there?" This is an attempt to give a balanced answer.



Alsop

"It's just begun to go, so you'd better wait awhile and then ask again," would certainly be the most prudent answer. For the whole pattern of the war is being transformed by the constantly increasing commitment of American strength. And that commitment is by no means complete as yet.

By the beginning of December the last-planned increment will have reached Viet Nam. By that time the United States will have 200,000 troops on shore, plus the men of the Pacific fleet on Yankee station off the coast.

Enormous Gain

Some weeks are needed to acclimatize the newly-arrived troops, moreover. Hence, the full-scale offensive effort will not begin until about Christmas time. And it is not easy to predict the result of an offensive many weeks before the major action has even started.

Already, however, an enormous gain has been made. From autumn a year ago until late last spring, the situation in Viet Nam trembled on the naked brink of catastrophe. Today, in contrast, the dank menace of imminent catastrophe has been replaced by a bracing climate of well-founded hope.

This simple, basic change has in turn changed all sorts of other things. The morale of the Vietnamese Army has improved sharply, and the Viet Cong are now the people who have a grave morale problem. One side's desertion rate has dropped while the other is beginning to suffer from the first wave of defection that could later turn into a flood.

Intelligence is coming in much better. There are small sign—such as villagers rescuing a downed American pilot with VC cadres angrily but impotently looking on—that the people of the countryside are beginning to throw off their former passivity and to give positive support to the government. This is a very big step for Asians to take.

Political Change

Along with these militarily significant changes there has also been a perceptible though not easily definable political change. It is far too early to throw any hats in the air, but the government of Premier Nguyen Cao Ky at least gives more promise of stability than any of its predecessors since the fall of President Ngo Dinh Diem. In all the necessary ways, in sum, the requirements for eventual success are seemingly being fulfilled, albeit at varying rates and in varying degrees.

A convincing recipe for success has also been developed. Under this recipe the entire burden of pacifying the countryside is to be carried by the Vietnamese Army, while American troops are to carry the main burden of offensive action in the fortified base-areas in which, hitherto, the Viet Cong have always enjoyed immunity from serious attack.

This recipe for success, it should be noted, is squarely founded on the published works of Mao Tze-tung and his disciple, the Viet Cong's directing strategist, Gen. Vo Nguyen Giap. In "Guerrilla Warfare," Mao defined a base-area as an "area strategically located in which guerrillas can carry on" training and all the other normal, rear area activities of an army.

Immune Areas

"Guerrillas," Mao went on, "cannot exist and function over a long period of time without . . . base-areas." Lacking such immune areas, he declared, a guerrilla movement must inevitably deterriorate to the status of a mere peasant revolt," of the sort that it was "fanciful to suppose could possibly avoid defeat."

Thus, the aim of the new recipe in Viet Nam is to destroy the immunity of the formerly immune VC base-areas, while simultaneously taking the countryside in hand. Neither of these objectives can be attained easily, or rapidly, or without cost.

People here should brace themselves for a long struggle, which will, alas, produce lengthening casualty lists. If miracles could ever be hoped for, the kind of men this country has now sent to Viet Nam would surely work miracles. But miracles are not to be hoped for, especially in such a war as this.

Yet victory in the end, by long, hard toil and courage and endurance, can certainly be hoped for. The means for winning in Viet Nam are now in place. That is the great difference to date.

Nature Rambles

By FREEMAN KING

AT THE north end of Langford Lake there is a peat bog surrounding a small lake where the lodge pole pine grows straight and tall. There is a profusion of bog Cranberry, with its tiny leaves and there are abundant supplies of berries still on the vine.

There are many examples of the insect-eating plant, the Sundew. Its sticky hairs on the leaves trap the unwary insect. These fascinating little plants grow on the sphagnum moss that shows a variety of colors.

Around the lake edge is a fringe of crabapple trees, while on the south side of the lake the high rocky ridge comes almost to the water's edge. Here the Douglas firs rise in splendid array.

There are many varieties of sedges and rushes at the edge of the bog, each one of the plants in its chosen environment. The ground is springy and there are many little open pools in which the water lily has established itself.

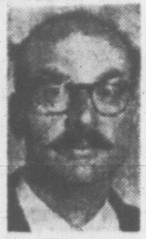
The little lake is like a mirror reflecting the surrounding trees in its twenty-foot depths. Around the margin the water lily and the pond shield plants are found, while in the water there are many plants that live just under the surface.

Here is a place where one can see and study the ecology of a small area, from the fresh water through the bog to the marsh and up a gradual slope to the highlands of the conifer growths.

Ancient Grudge

By TONY EMERY

DRIVING homeward across the United States last year, after a year and a half away, we knew we were on the last lap when we came down into Oregon and smelled the pinewoods. After the infinite vistas of the great central plain the green-clad hills and valleys rested the eyes and comforted the mind; the noon-day temperature dropped from three figures to two, and the evenings were refreshingly cool. We felt, from the moment we neared the Pacific coast, that we were as good as home.



Emery

I don't believe we are alone in feeling that the Pacific states and British Columbia belong together: that the inhabitants have more in common with one another than they do with their neighbors and compatriots across the mountains. There is a sort of mutual admiration society, with flowery compliments from Washington to B.C., and from B.C. to Oregon, and from Oregon to both—a society which must astound the dedicated plainsman by its complacent sympathy for those less fortunate people who cannot, through force of circumstances, live in this coastal paradise.

Note of Regret

I am interested to notice, though, that when the smug denizens I have mentioned are praising the beauties of the land across the border from their own, a perceptible note of regret creeps into their compliments, a hint of angry impatience with the politicians who made the great mistake of allowing the frontier to be drawn where it is today. Indeed from time to time voices have been heard suggesting that perhaps the line between the countries was drawn too firmly and too hastily: that B.C's "natural grouping" was with Washingotn and Oregon.

I don't have to tell you that a hundred years ago this question was by no means the fodder for idle academic speculation that it may seem to be today. If you need reminding, let me recommend to you a book that has just come into my hands. It is called "The Re-Annexation of British Columbia to the United States—Right, Proper and Desirable," and it contains the text of an address by the Hon. Elwood Evans to the Tacoma Library Association in Olympia in January, 1870.

The speaker seems to have been willing enough to speak on the question, when a committee approached him with the invitation. "Fix any evening next week, and if health and life are spared me, I am cheerfully at your service," he says genially in the letter pre-fixed to the text of his address. How different is this bluff acceptance of the orator's duty from the evasions, the shilly-shallying of speakers today. How easy the lot of program chairmen if all were so easy to persuade as Elwood Evans.

Rhetorical Traditions

He was a good speaker, if one may judge by the printed text, and if one makes allowances for the rhetorical traditions of his own time. His address has the sweep and thunder of one of William Jennings Bryan's more baroque monologues, but under the flourishes and orotund embellishments it is clear that he is powerfully persuaded of the justice of his cause and the sweet reasonableness of his claims.

It is interesting to compare the very literary devices of his speech, and his considerable command of the language, with the lame, tame balance-sheet banalities that most politicians are content to drop, half-formed, from their lips in the great parliaments of the English-speaking world today.

There is a reminder of old grievances in Evans's reference to "deep-seated feeling (between the U.S. and Britain), liable at any moment to rankle into hate, to burst into hostility, to bring a clash of arms," and a (prophetic?) reference to "a foreign war upon our hands, popular but not enthusiastically endorsed by the people. . ."

The address has been reprinted, with an introduction by R. D. Hilton Smith, by the Morriss Printing Company of Victoria, from the original pamphlet in the Provincial Archives. The name of Charles Morriss on the colophon of any printed book is a guarantee of presswork as distinguished as any to be found in Canada, but in this limited edition he has really surpassed himself. If you are looking for a handsome present for someone who cares for fine bookmaking, or is interested in the history of this province, I believe your problem is solved.

STIMULUS TO RESEARCH

I'm firmly of the opinion that research can only flourish if it is stimulated by frequent contact with students, and of course I regard myself and my colleagues as students as well. We find that often the research is given an unsuspected impetus by some particular question raised by a student who is just trying to understand the field. Secondly, we feel that teaching becomes sterile if it is provided by people who are relying solely on second-hand information. It can only flourish in an atmosphere where the student feels that the teacher himself is desperately, passionately, concerned with the question which is being discussed and is making an effort to try to solve it himself.

THREE ESSENTIALS

Tht main characteristic of a scientist is curiosity. This is the real fundamental quality, and the other one is perseverance. Perhaps I ought to add a third—an extremely good memory—because the scientific process does depend a good deal on memory.

Can NATO Adjust to Prospect Of Total Break With France?

By WILLIAM R. FRYE
Times UN Correspondent

FRYE

UNITED NATIONS — The foundation stone on which the North Atlantic community has built its defences over the past 50 years is in the process of being dislodged.

That foundation stone is France.

For at least half a century, military planners have assumed that without French geography, the countries bordering on the eastern Atlantic could not successfully resist a land-based attack.

France has been regarded as essential whatever the enemy to the East—the Germany of Kaiser Wilhelm, the goose-stepping legions of Adolf Hitler, or the Russia of Joseph Stalin.

NATO was built on this hypothesis. France was its geographical and administrative core.

Now, in the light of policies and attitudes of Gen. Charles de Gaulle, the West—with the greatest reluctance—has set about adjusting itself to the prospect of a total or near-total break with France.

Treaty Expires

Every sign is that by 1969, when the original 20-year treaty expires — provided, of course, that de Gaulle is still President of France at that time — France will no longer be a member of NATO.

De Gaulle has not put his challenge in terms of withdrawal. What he is demanding is a sweeping reorientation of the alliance so that, in his words, "the subordination known as 'integration' . . . which hands our fate over to foreign authority shall cease. . . ."

This demand has not been spelled out in public, nor indeed, in specific detail in private. The general's terms are due to be presented formally to the NATO Council next year.

A Minimum

Preliminary indications, however, suggest they will include, as a minimum:

- Dismantling of SACEUR, the integrated NATO command.
- Placing of American units on French soil under French command.
- An end to what Paris calls the "extraterritoriality" of NATO and its activities.

In effect, therefore, what de Gaulle seeks is to dismantle NATO as an integrated military and political institution, and make of it a loose 19th century coalition of nations.

These demands could be merely a bargaining manoeuvre, designed to produce agreement on something less—such as a French supreme commander. Some non-French members of NATO would be relieved if this turned out to be the case. But no one really believes it.

It is far more likely that de Gaulle's demands spring, not from a desire to bargain but from a very deep-seated conviction as to the proper role of the nation-state and from an utter abhorrence of all supernational institutions.

Faced, therefore, with a choice between reconstituting the alliance on the one hand and doing without France on the other, NATO has reluctantly opted for the latter.

With minimum publicity, the alliance has begun in recent weeks to plan the adjustments that will be necessary if and when it must do without its continental cornerstone.

It is not an easy task. Indeed, what is involved is a military, political and strategic convulsion.

Communications, transport, logistics, deployment — virtually every calculation bearing on the efficiency of an alliance—must be thought through anew.

It would be easier if NATO were to negotiate a bilateral treaty with France providing for France to be both in and out, as it were, simultaneously

Stall for Time

If the real truth were told, it is likely that many in NATO are groping for ways to stall until de Gaulle leaves the scene—are "sweating out the general," seeking to keep an integrated NATO intact for post-de Gaulle France to rejoin.

It is not a happy state of affairs. What western diplomats find particularly incredible is that de Gaulle, who obviously wants continuing protection from a possible German resurgence, cannot see that an integrated alliance is the safest and most effective way of accomplishing that result.

'Experts' Will Work Things Out Once Diefenbaker Is Elected

By GERALD WARING

Prithee, sire, the peasants complain,
What manner of men can these be—
Who plead for favor with speeches
That thresh so much chaff to the grain?

Waring

The English-speaking voters to whom John Diefenbaker is making his sales pitch are, largely, descendants of Europe's peasantry. They have in them a lot of the attributes of those hard-headed horse traders who never bought before examining the teeth, feeling the cloth, pinching the fruit, or having the village scribe read them the fine print.

And that, I think, is why Mr. Diefenbaker is having a hard time selling his wares, and why, if he wants to be prime minister again, as of course he does, he has to come to better grips with hard policy than he has done up to this writing.

* * *

Ever since he produced his plan for "home-owners' loans" in Halifax, he's been under pressure to spell it out, disclose details, tell how it'll work. He airily dismisses questions. "All in good time," or "I'm talking about policies; the experts can work out the details." And at one press conference he transfixed a newsman reproachfully.

"You asked that question in Halifax."

The reporter nodded.

"And you asked it in Saskatoon."

The reporter nodded.

That was at Moose Jaw. The reporter intends to ask again at Vancouver.

It's the same with many of Mr. Diefenbaker's other planks, such as his promise to take money out of the Canada Pension Fund to raise old age pensions to $100 a month, his plan for a Confederation conference, and his promise of "consumer loans" that would be comparable to government-guaranteed farm loans.

No one has yet been able to get much enlightenment from the Conservative leader on just how he would go about these things—or, for that matter, about where he stands on medicare.

These are all matters that "have to be worked out," by unidentified "experts" who, one gathers, are standing by impatiently waiting for the voters to give Dief the green light on Nov. 8 so that they can get at their challenging tasks.

* * *

While the Liberals don't have a "truth squad" with the Tory leader this time, their campaign chairman, Finance Minister Walter Gordon is filling in.

At his Monday conference Mr. Diefenbaker was hammering the Grits over the matter of the allegedly incriminating "secret report" on Quebec bankruptcies, with its juicy connotation of more political scandal.

"I also want to see the letter from Judge Macdonald asking for action to keep out international thugs," he thundered.

At his Tuesday press conference in Ottawa, Mr. Gordon smugly pointed out that the letters from Judge Macdonald had been tabled in the Commons last Dec. 17.

And at his Tuesday press conference, at the Swift Current railway station, Mr. Diefenbaker was asked how about this?

"You misunderstood me," he told reporters. "I knew the letter was published. I have a copy of the letter with me."

What he really wants to know, Mr. Diefenbaker explained, is "why the letter was not answered for five months."

But what Mr. Diefenbaker wants to know is almost inconsequential beside what the reporters, and the voters, want to know about Mr. Diefenbaker's promises.

All Mad But Thee and Me Behind the Steering Wheel

By ART STOTT

Stott

THE young man who taught me to operate a car many years ago completed his volunteer teaching with a short and impressive lecture on safety precautions.

"Just assume," he said, "that all the other drivers on the road are crazy. Do not expect them to do the normal thing. Be ready in case they do something irrational. They probably will. They're not all crazy, but you're better prepared if you think they are. And remember that they probably think you're nuts too."

Admittedly that's an unflattering concept of fellow travellers on the highway, but there have been occasions when I have been thankful for my friend's counsel.

I have driven frequently with him since he cautioned me. He has pointed out some of the crazy things other drivers do. We have, for instance, been four or five back in a line at a stop sign. "Look at the damfool at the head of this line," he has said. "Bet it's a woman. Why doesn't she move?"

She hasn't moved because the passing stream of cars has seemed too dense for her to penetrate. She has probably operated on the theory that all other drivers are crazy and she doesn't want to take a chance on their unpredictable behavior.

* * *

Also, when we have been caught in a slow flow, my friend has whipped out and passed—usually with great dexterity and with only a few cusses for the "damfools" ahead of him who seemed disinclined to make a hole for his return to the stream.

I certainly don't consider my mentor crazy when he drives a car. But, a little inconsiderately, I have thought that at times he has shown something less than absolute caution.

To the "crazy-man-at-the-wheel" principle of my teacher I have added a theory of my own. I believe that much of the danger could be removed from traffic if drivers practised the accepted courtesies of driving.

Two gestures of particular consideration appeal to me. When I'm trying to get through a steady line of traffic at a cross street, I remember that it is an accepted courtesy in a bumper-to-bumper procession for the third or fourth car to stop and let the driver, waiting to get through, cross.

I am immensely grateful when this happens to me—and it happens about once in 100 instances.

* * *

The other is a simple highway act of grace by a driver who cannot, or does not want to, make his car go faster and hence leads a parade. When such a person draws to the side, I applaud him silently, sometimes even toot a "thank-you" on my horn.

Never let it be said that I lack appreciation.

Oddly enough, though, when I happen to be a member of a long line of traffic and others at a cross street are waiting for a break, I'm always convinced that the man behind me wants to be the one who stops and earn a mark of grace. I'm not the one to deprive him of the opportunity.

On the other hand, when my car-top carrier has been heavy-laden, I have drawn onto the shoulder of the road, to let the procession go by. I just can't stand all that tooting behind me.

All of which probably helps to explain some of the bad temper which leads to unnecessary automobile habits.

Behind the wheel, most of us are prepared to accept the belief that other drivers on the road are idiots, crazy and incompetent. And all of us appreciate a courtesy when it is shown to us. Paying it back is another matter. We intend to, of course, but so often we don't get around to converting intention into action.

It's an interesting transformation that occurs when a person sits behind the steering wheel.

Little Illumination On Great Issues

By PETER C. NEWMAN

Newman

Seldom, at this late date in any previous Canadian campaign, have the party leaders achieved so little toward illuminating the great issues of the day.

None of the vital questions on which the Canadian future hinges are being answered, or even debated. Discussion on the forces that threaten to overwhelm us as a nation has hardly protruded into the noisy realm of hustings rhetoric.

Instead, this election seems to be taking on some of the aspects of a dramatic stage play, with its two main characters revealing more and more about themselves as the plot unfolds.

Lester Pearson's attitude of leisurely part-time campaigning is confirming him in the public mind as a curiously disengaged politician who can not be brought to bay by the urgencies of the moment. His behavior, as the campaign progresses, marks him as a unique kind of politician: a gregarious, often persuasive figure, yet possessed by a profound sense of personal detachment which allows him to move through many worlds, without fully belonging to any but his own.

No Passion

He gives the clear impression in this campaign of having made a political and intellectual commitment to his policies, but at no point has passion clamored up to reveal the extent of his emotional commitment.

At the same time, Pearson seems to be making some remarkable breakthroughs in popular appeal. This may be largely due to a recognition of the Liberal leader by an increasing number of Canadians as the reasonable man, forever trying to make the best out of a bad situation.

There is something in our national character that clings to sweet reasonableness as the only possible posture in the face of our geographic, economic, social and military dilemmas.

Another area of identification that the prime minister is finding with the voters is in the sphere of international affairs. Many Canadians have a fine moral concept of how international relations on the planet should be run, and they readily espouse the kind of "honest broker" approach still epitomized by the Liberal leader.

John Diefenbaker is also achieving empathy with the voters, but the nature of his appeal is undergoing a subtle, though highly significant change.

Mystical Rapport

Just as he did in the past four elections, he is attempting to establish a mystical rapport with "the average Canadian." All of his speeches and most of his promises are aimed at multiplying this relationship.

The fact is, of course, that there is no such creature as "the average Canadian." There may be an average Newfoundland outport dweller," an "average Quebec farmer," an "average Toronto suburbanite," etc. But the country has too many regional, social and economic differences for there to be any national composite.

As this campaign develops, its becoming clear that when he talks of the needs and desires of "the average Canadian," the Conservative leader is actually thinking of a very special group of citizens: the elderly, economically underprivileged dwellers of the Prairies.

To place the federal power on the side of these people is a vital and valuable undertaking, but such an approach will not satisfy the nation's youthful, urban aspirations.

The new generation is inspired, not awed by technological advances. It is no longer fighting (or even particularly concerned with) the battle against second-class citizenship for those of mixed racial origins, which has been a motivating purpose of Diefenbaker's life in politics.

Rhodesia Independence Threat Endangering Peace in Africa

By PETER MURRAY
Times Wire News Editor

Despite a continuing series of threats, Prime Minister Ian Smith of Rhodesia held off from making a final break with Britain.

Smith met almost continually with his cabinet after returning from futile talks in London but did not set any deadline on his demand for complete independence.

He said only that the White-ruled colony would likely be on its own by Christmas.

In the meantime Prime Minister Harold Wilson of Britain marshalled other Commonwealth members behind him in his bid to prevent a rupture which would deprive the Rhodesian Negroes of their majority rights.

All but Malaysia backed Wilson's proposal that a mission of senior Commonwealth prime ministers attempt to find a solution.

Wilson coupled this suggestion with a threat of economic sanctions if Smith takes precipitate action.

He warned that the crisis posed a threat "not only for Rhodesia but for a far greater area of Africa."

Canada was quick to back the suggestion of economic pressure.

Prime Minister Pearson sent a message to Smith which said in part:

"You should know that Canada would join the other members of the Commonwealth in refusing to recognize a unilateral declaration of independence and would also join in certain practical measures that would inevitably follow."

The U.S. also issued a stiff warning.

In a rare action, the United Nations urged Britain to use force if necessary to block Smith.

By a vote of 107 to two (Portugal and South Africa) the General Assembly approved a resolution drawn up by the UN trusteeship committee.

African and Asian delegates formed a majority on the committee and found themselves in the unusual position of urging a "colonial power" to hang on to one of its possessions.

●

Leaders of Britain's Conservative party, meeting at their annual conference in Brighton, approved Wilson's Rhodesia policy over the objections of a right-wing faction which is backing the White settlers.

The party also unveiled a new policy aimed at cutting back Britain's commitments abroad.

Defence spokesman Enoch Powell said in effect that British national interest lies today in Europe, not in Asia or Africa.

EDWARD HEATH
. . . Leadership confirmed

The new Tory leader, Edward Heath, was given an overwhelming vote of confidence at the conference, but he faces a formidable task in unseating Wilson despite Labor's narrow margin in Parliament.

Wilson is beginning his second year in office today and the latest polls show his popularity climbing steadily.

When Wilson dashed dramatically to Balmoral Castle to brief Queen Elizabeth on the Rhodesian crisis, it was assumed at first that he was preparing to call a snap election.

The Labor government also disclosed plans to set up an ombudsman to protect individuals against unjust government actions. The ombudsman system is already used by New Zealand and the Scandinavian countries.

●

Thousands of disenchanted Cubans were reported waiting for transportation to take them to the U.S.

There was still no explanation why Fidel Castro had decided to let them leave, but it was assumed he regarded them as a drag on the sluggish Cuban economy and a threat to the future stability of his regime.

Mostly older people, they gathered at the embarkation point designated by Castro while refugee groups in Florida rounded up all available small boats to speed the exodus.

●

The Congo was threatened with more turmoil as Premier Moise Tshombe was ousted by President Joseph Kasavubu.

The controversial Tshombe, former leader of the breakaway Katanga government, said he will challenge Kasavubu in the presidential election next February.

Kasavubu has served as head of state since Belgium granted independence to the Congo in 1960.

●

A significant victory was scored by the U.S. civil rights movement in Natchez, Miss.

After six months of sit-ins and demonstrations, city officials agreed to meet several of the Negroes' demands.

The mayor said six Negro policemen would be hired and complete desegregation of the local hospital was promised by the end of the year.

Stores in the Natchez area agreed to hire more Negroes and upgrade those already on their staffs.

Daughter of a duke, wife of an ambassador, and mother of a prime minister, she was considered the most beautiful, witty woman of her day and her brilliant letters were treasured and published. As she died, she summed up her varied life appreciatively: "It has all been very interesting.

THE GALLUP POLL

Diefenbaker's Popularity Continues to Decline

By the Canadian Institute of Public Opinion

Opposition Leader John Diefenbaker's popularity continues to decline before the court of public opinion. Today 29% of the voters say they are satisfied with his performance; 44% are dissatisfied.

Just after the 1962 election, when Mr. Diefenbaker was prime minister of a minority government, 37% approved of his leadership and 41% disapproved.

It is in the western provinces that the greatest number (36%) express satisfaction, although even in that part of the country more (45%) are dissatisfied than satisfied. Only 19% cannot offer an opinion on the Opposition leader's performance, whereas in Quebec and the Maritimes 35% are undecided at this stage in the election campaign.

Almost half the voters in Ontario claim they are not satisfied with Mr. Diefenbaker's leadership.

The question: "Are you satisfied or dissatisfied with Mr. Diefenbaker as leader of the Opposition?"

	National	Maritimes, Quebec	Ontario	West
Satisfied	29%	27%	27%	36%
Dissatisfied	44	38	49	45
No opinion	27	35	24	19

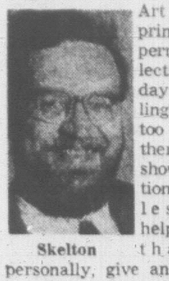
LOOKING AROUND AT ART

By ROBIN SKELTON

Arresting Contrasts Noted at Gallery

I had not the space last week to comment upon more than a fragment of the show at Victoria Art Gallery of prints from the permanent collection, and today I must not linger over it too long for there are other shows to mention. Nevertheless I cannot help confessing that I would, personally, give any one of the Barbizon School paintings exhibited in the gallery's largest room, for the feather-subtle little Chagall in the print collection.



Skelton

For one thing, it seems to me that the Barbizon painters were almost all trying to prove something. There is an effortful earnestness about some of their works which I find mildly soporific.

The landscapes are all pleasant, but rarely surprising. They do not have the almost trenchant vision of Constable, and they lack the sensual boldness of de Wint, and the deceptively innocent charm of Cotman.

I am not, in a word, surprised, whereas I am always surprised by Chagall. His vision is, of course, essentially interior. He draws and paints transfigurations of reality, and there is an astonishment in the very unexpectedness of his line.

Zadkine, too, in his vivid lithograph, astonishes me with the sensuality of his vision, and the way in which the colors mingle and clash their way towards a previously unsuspected harmony.

* * *

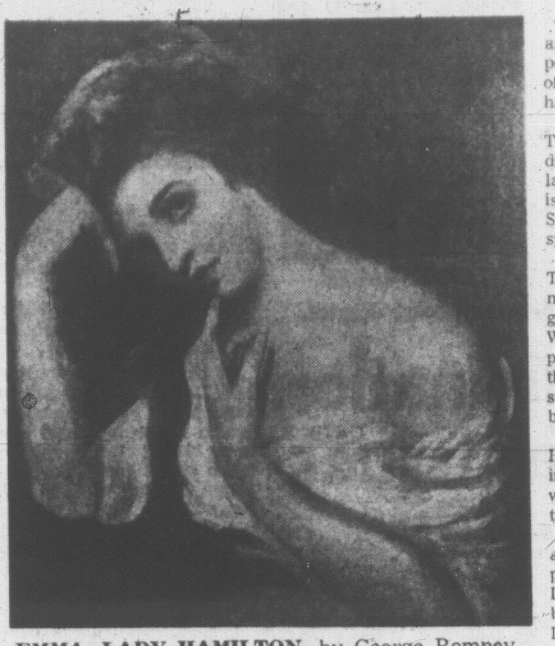
Herbert Siebner's Riders I also find stimulating. It is so simply contrived; two horse and rider figures blocked out crudely against a blue blackground, each meshed with a network of lines that hint at some kind of articulation, stand stiffly before us, incontrovertible and solid as rock.

And yet it is not so simple; there is a distance between the two of them; they are poised in some relationship, and we cannot tell whether they are about to encounter or about to separate.

We do not know if they are waiting for a third, considering a joust, or simply meditating. They are enigmas, and as full of possibilities and histories as any myth. Whether they are human or not no one can say.

Consequently this print, like so many of Siebner's works, does not simply state a vision; it enquires of us how we wish to relate it to the vision we already possess. It is therefore a vital and life-enhancing thing.

In this it contrasts sharply with the majority of portraits from the Elizabeth Holz Fisher Collection on show in the next room.



EMMA, LADY HAMILTON, by George Romney. On show at Victoria Art Gallery.

The Raeburn is vital enough, and the personality of the lady portrayed is as much a quality of the painting as the delicate handling of the rather thin paint.

The Canova attributed to Sir Thomas Lawrence has a splendid head and a goodish pair of lapels on the coat, but the rest is skimped, and one wonders if Sir Thomas was completely responsible.

I'd hazard a guess that Thomas Hudson was certainly not responsible for the background of his portrait of Peg Woffington; something has been painted out here, I think, and this probably accounts for the stiff discomfort of the actress' back.

The portrait of Emma, Lady Hamilton, also arouses doubts in my mind, for surely, Romney was never quite as casual as that in his handling of paint?

My doubt becomes something approaching certainty with the picture attributed to Sir Peter Lely, however. I'm no expert, but isn't it the most un-Lely-like Lely you've ever seen? And the most recent?

These are, however, the dross one must accept in order to get the gold.

* * *

I would class the Zoffany family portrait as golden. Delicately whimsical, it poses its subjects elegantly beside a river which is so charmed by their pastoral affectation that it allows them to catch several splendid fish without making the slightest effort, or in anyway discomposing themselves.

It is a tribute to the simple good nature and careless comfortableness of the family that, like the good fairy in the pantomime, they transform everything about them into simple-minded serenity.

Zoffany was a master of the delicate compliment, and this picture is, as usual, saved from sentimentality by wit, and by the sheer dexterity of some of the brushwork. Another portrait I am drawn to is that of Arthur Maiser of Hull. It is no more than a competent piece of portraiture, but as a small boy I used to visit his grand-daughter, so it pleases me.

Perhaps, come to think of it, we ought not to be too critical of other peoples' portraits; after all, how many of our friends really relish our own family albums?

Important Facts Well Marshalled But Book Lacks Depth and Fluency

GERMANY 1918 - 1945, by Richard Grunberger. The Copp Clark Publishing Co. Ltd. 208 pp. $4.60.

Reviewed by Frederick Kriegel,
University of Victoria

The German philosopher Theodor Lessing (assassinated by the Nazis in the year 1933) once defined the essence and aim of history as "die Sinngebung des Sinnlosen," i.e., making sense out of a course of events that, regarded singly, are senseless.

In other words, the task of the historian is not only to establish facts beyond doubt, but also to interrelate and assess them in such a manner that their inherent significance is brought to the fore, that light is made to shine where otherwise darkness would prevail.

No wonder, then, that the years since 1914 with their wars, social upheavals, and ensuing chaotic conditions should introgue historians and entice them to probe again and again into the turmoil of this time.

Richard Grunberger's Germany 1918-1945 is one of the innumerable books that have been written to this purpose. The author obviously strove for completeness; within the limits of 200 pages he has assembled most of the important facts as far as they are known today. Therein lies the principal merit of his work.

It is astonishing, however, that he has foregone the opportunity to describe and assess the leading personalities of this period; the book lacks any coherent characterization and evaluation of men like Churchill, Roosevelt, Stalin, Hitler or Mussolini, to name only some protagonists of this world-wide drama of history.

This omission constitutes a great, perhaps the greatest shortcomng of Grunberger's work because in the years from 1930 on—far more than during the preceding three decades — men of an almost superhuman stature dominated and shaped the historical scene.

The book also contains a number of poorly worded statements and over-simplifications that could easily mislead an uninformed reader.

Only three of these will be mentioned here: Francis II, the last emperor of the Holy Roman Empire, was not "deposed"; in 1806 he renounced the crown which had lost all power. And the first president of the Weimar Republic, Friedich Ebert, did not "arrest the incipient revolution" of 1918 because "he hated it like, sin," but because there was no other way of action open to him.

In the last chapter on "the Third Reich" the author tries quite successfully — considering the space at his disposal —to lay bare the intellectual roots of the national-socialist state.

However, in speaking of a Nazi philosophy he gives too much honor to Hitler and his followers.

A philosophy needs a well integrated system; what the Nazis called their philosophy was nothing but a hodgepodge of propaganda slogans to be used and discarded according to the exigencies of the changing political situation.

This is true even of Hitler's conception of race, the alleged foundation of all national-socialist thinking.

MADE DEALS

It was put into effect for political and economic reasons against helpless and hapless minorities like Jews and Gypsies, but this race-theory never prevented Hitler from making deals with the obviously non-Aryan" Hungarians and Japanese and also with the French who according to the Fuhrer had become a bastardized "negroid" people.

The style of the book is rather dry, in places almost pedestrian. The author obviously shuns big words; he neither gives praise nor does he lay blame.

Perhaps he rightly thinks that the unprecedented facts of tragic folly and depraved barbarism he relates do not need a historian's indignation; they carry their own indictment as well as their own condemnation.

OPEN SHELF

By John Mika

I am stunned.

Having just put down a 341-page book by Charles Rivett-Carnac, astonishment and admiration fill me.

He lives in Victoria now but a long time ago he came to this country as a next-to-destitute young immigrant with a vague idea of joining the Northwest Mounted Police—he didn't even know the name had changed to the RCMP—and became the first man to rise from raw recruit to commissioner of the force.

His book is entitled Pursuit in the Wilderness and it has just been brought out by Little, Brown and Company.

Reading the dust jacket's blurb about his experiences as a 16-year-old ambulance driver at the front in First World War France, as a jungle manager of elephant camps in India before he reached voting age, his service in the bleak snowscape of Canada's Arctic, I expected a story of adventure.

I even expected a story adequately recounted by a man who had had the talent to propel himself so far upward.

I did not expect a literary gem—but that's what I found.

"Hazarika grinned, a nasty smirk that fell down each side of his mouth behind the long black moustache."

* * *

That's not the language employed by a policeman in the field or behind a command desk. It's just one of the brush strokes of an artist painting the picture he saw of the world.

"The convoy rushed on and on, threatening never to end, until incredibly the night swallowed its tail and the noise of its passing grew fainter and at last, fading to a whisper, was gone."

I can almost see this column of ammunition carriers hurtling desperately towards the front as it passed the 16-year-old boy "until incredibly the night swallowed its tail and the noise of its passing . . ." — can't you?

"The sun moved across the sky, delicate pink in the first light of dawn but quickly changing to a blowtorch of red as it crept slowly upward. Then, the shadows of the buildings and the long dark shadow of the kilns gathered themselves slowly together and retreated step by step until they disappeared like children hiding in their mother's skirts. The land lay flat and bare . . . Farther out, the country went to the horizon in soft, rolling hills in the sweltering haze. They did not even break the sense of the land's immensity."

* * *

That's heat in India.

"The snow fell, a thick, shadowy curtain of flakes, enveloping everything. The river was now a silvery desert, its snow dunes towering, clouding the air as the frigid wind breathed and tore them in pieces."

That's Arctic cold all right.

Just one more, the jungle this time.

"So thick was the jungle that one seldom saw the sun. And yet there was life there; monkeys swung chattering through the trees; wild beasts moved silently on their excursions, slowly, almost hesitantly, a paw raised from time to time in question, a head turned to peer suspiciously around a bamboo clump or tangled growth of vines, ready at an instant's notice either to attack the prey they stalked or vanish in a streaking, jumbled flash of color when danger threatened. Snakes, coiled, winding through the labyrinth, their forked tongues licking the air as they slid noiselessly past the mounds and depressions of the ground and thrust their blunt, triangular noses inquiringly before them, searching every dip or hillock, hole or corner, with hard, diamond eyes."

* * *

Commissioner Rivett-Carnac doesn't write about landscapes all the time—I chose these passages because they are easily excerpted for a column as short as this—but he does write well almost all of the time, exceedingly well.

His life has been full of adventure—far beyond the usual measure for a single man—and significance for Canada. He was the man who handled the Igor Gouzenko case, who helped solidify the RCMP's reputation in the North, who supervised the difficult transition of police duties in B.C. from a provincial force to the hands of the RCMP in the 1950s.

I'm sure you'll find the story absorbing.

As for myself, I would say that if he keeps writing, he may achieve an even greater fame than that he already possesses as one of the chiefs of a world-renowned force of MEN spelled with capital letters.

Bird Lore of Britain Richly Represented

THE OXFORD BOOK OF BIRDS, by Donald Watson and Bruce Campbell. Oxford University Press, Toronto. Pp. XVI plus 207. $7.75.
Reviewed by A. R. Fontaine.

The Oxford Book of Birds carries on in the tradition of its earlier companion volumes, The Oxford Books of Wild Flowers and Garden Flowers, in providing lovers of natural history with a set of magnificent colored plates coordinated with an informative and lively text.

Every bird ever recorded from the British Isles is figured against a background of its natural habitat and is discussed at length.

Nevertheless, the work remains more suited for the study rather than the field because of its size, which is bulky, and because the illustrations emphasize the natural appearance of the birds at close view rather than their salient field characters at a distance.

The authors provide more behavioral observations than is usual and this helps to bring the birds alive to the reader. They have also employed a simple but elegant graphic device to make obvious at a glance the most important aspects of the annual life cycle of each bird during its residence in Britain.

The book is rounded out by a sequence of chapters dealing with various special features of bird biology, such as anatomy, flight, migration, breeding behavior, etc.

The authors have succeeded in putting together a beautifully illustrated compendium of the bird lore of the British Isles which, despite its geographic limitations, should have wide appeal to both amateur and professional ornithologists throughout the world.

Unique Display Of Arts, Crafts Starts Oct. 22

The mother and wife of internationally-known bird painter Fenwick Lansdowne will hold a two-week arts and craft exhibition at Ego Interiors, starting on Oct. 22.

Mrs. Edith Lansdowne, who like her son is an artist, will exhibit small terra-cotta and glazed oriental figurines.

Mrs. J. Fenwick Lansdowne will have on display enamelled jewellery.

An additional and unusual attraction will be a display of Venetian hand-blown glass door handles owned by Mr. Lansdowne's wife.

GRIPPING TALE

THE THOUSAND PLAN, by Ralph Barker. Clarke, Irwin & Co. Ltd. $7.25.

Reviewed by A. F. Greenwood

This is the story of the first thousand bomber raid on Cologne in 1942.

It will be news to many that before the raid less than one bomb in 10 dropped from aircraft was falling within five miles of major targets.

The thousand bomber raid was conceived by Air Marshal Harris to prove his profound conviction that the heavy bomber, properly used, could change the course of the war.

Ralph Barker writes a lucid, and at times gripping account of this raid from conception to assessment; from the motivation and high-level planning to the political and inter-service feuds which nearly killed Bomber Command.

The author adds the personal and frequently poignant touch by following individuals from the warm embrace of young wives who could not be told of events, over the target to their flaming deaths, miraculous escapes or deeds of everyday heroism.

A good book. Although expensive, well worth every cent. All old bomber boys deserve one for Christmas.

'Unrehearsed Garbage' But Director Likes It

By NICK FILLMORE

WOLFVILLE, N.S. (CP)—The controversial Acadia Summer Playhouse ended its fifth annual summer season amid criticism that it was a disgrace to staid Acadia University, but the man in charge says it will be back next year.

Jack Sheriff, youthful, bearded professor of English, says this summer's eight productions were of high amateur quality. What's more, they provided the only live theatre for tourists and residents in the Annapolis Valley.

"We're here to provide entertainment," says Sheriff. "You have to expect criticism. Many of the persons in the show are teen-agers just learning theatre. We're not professionals.

"Five seasons isn't very long to try to build a good summer theatre. We like what we're doing and we'll be back in '66."

But critics, some of them connected with the university, say the production should be much better.

"It's nothing but unrehearsed garbage," said Duncan Fraser, professor of political science. "A bunch of school kids could do a better job. The whole thing is a disgrace to the university. Imagine short little Tommy Common playing Lancelot!"

Common, who appeared in the musical Camelot, was one of two professionals at the Playhouse. Pam Hyatt of Toronto, one-time Spring Thaw regular, had the lead in Sound of Music.

The Playhouse, which performs at the white-domed University Hall, runs a new show each week. This summer, along with Camelot and Sound of Music, it put on Guys and Dolls, Five Finger Exercise, Critic's Choice, Dark of the Moon, Death Takes a Holiday and Blithe Spirit.

"We like to have a new show each week because we're operating in an area that hasn't the vast population of Toronto, Montreal or even Halifax," Sheriff says. "The kids usually have three or four months to prepare for their parts and we don't use professionals unless there is a definite need—as in the case of Tommy Common playing Lancelot."

The university sponsors the Playhouse and "we don't usually go very deep in debt," he adds. The hall seats 1,200 but only 800 tickets are offered for sale and the musicals, which "get the best response," usually play before a house of 400.

SOME TURN PRO

Members of the cast of 30 came from various parts of Canada and the Eastern United States, and some have gone on to professional theatre.

The senior member of this summer's company, Conrad Wright, a retired university professor from Ottawa, said Camelot hadn't been properly prepared for production.

"Jack didn't study Camelot in detail before we started rehearsals. The music and choreography weren't up to par in this one."

But Wright, who appeared as King Pellinore, added that four other shows in which he had roles in the last three years were good amateur standards.

While the argument goes on, Sheriff is preparing for next season. He has scheduled The Fantastics, South Pacific, Ten Little Indians, Girl Crazy, Enter Laughing, 110 in the Shade, Barefoot in the Park and The King and I.

TOUGH ACTOR SHUNS GLAMOR

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — No two movie stars are alike, and maybe it's a good thing.

Perhaps the most distinctive personality off-screen today belongs to Steve McQueen. He's his own man in the sense that the late Humphrey Bogart ascribed to no particular code but his own.

Like Bogart, too, McQueen could not be described as handsome.

He has a mop of unruly blond hair. His face is lumpy and scarred. He has a speech impediment and his language would impress a bosun's mate. The actor is hard-muscled and hard-living and the kind of man who enjoys the prospect of a fist fight.

NOT DULL

McQueen stands out, too, among his peers for having no intellectual pretensions. Which is not to say that he's dull-witted.

He's simply a tough-minded individualist who scrapped his way out of youthful trouble with authority to gain stardom, wealth and a measure of respectability — that latter through no design of his own.

Actually, he's something of a roughneck who sets great store by the obvious manifestations of "manhood."

Anything dangerous—motorcycle and car racing, brawls or drinking bouts—appeal to him. Yet he is gentle with his young son and daughter. He adores his wife, Neile.

During the filming of his new picture, "Nevada Smith," Steve lived in a self-contained trailer bus. You know, one of those off-beat contraptions that has sleeping, cooking and toilet facilities back of the driver's compartment.

EXTRA SLEEP

The vehicle was parked on location at about 8,000 feet in the rugged mountains near Bishop, Calif. The rest of the cast and crew lived in semi-luxury at a resort 50 miles away.

"I stayed in the trailer near the location site so I could get 45 minutes extra sleep," he explained. "I hate to get up in the mornings. I'd lie there at night reading sports magazines, and sometimes I'd do a little hunting and fishing."

One night he was flushed out by a lightning storm that scared him out of his wits. Jagged bolts of lightning rocked his trailer after striking nearby trees.

"I pulled on my pants, jumped on my motorcycle and got the hell out of there," he grinned.

McQueen has developed a father-son relationship with director Henry Hathaway, a tough old codger himself. McQueen admires Hathaway for his willingness — at an age near 70—to do anything his young star attempts in the picture.

"I complained one day that I was freezing to death during a scene in an ice cold stream," McQueen recalled. "I told Mr. Hathaway he had it easy on dry land. So he marched right into that icy water with his clothes on. Now that's what I call a real man.

"He always keeps his word, and he knows it all. He's a great director and I think he's also part mountain goat."

McQueen has his own set of values. He lives by them, and if the esthetic sophisticates in Hollywood don't like it, McQueen couldn't care less. And if they want to do something about it, McQueen would as soon "punch them out," as he puts it.

Production Mill Speeding Up For 'Red Mill'

With six more weeks to go before production date, preparation is going ahead rapidly for the Victoria Operatic Society fall presentation of Victor Herbert's The Red Mill.

Stage rehearsals occupy a big cast under directors Howard Denike and Alan Purdy; Wynne Shaw is busy with choreography and off-stage committees are concerned with costume and scene design execution.

Principals in the cast are Tony Wilkins, Leona Hanley, Roy Silver, Robert Orr, Bernice Irwin, Harry Elsdon, Clive Yoxall, Mimi Robertson, Gerry Guest, Barry Grimshaw, Bill Broadhead and Janet Senior.

Red Mill will be presented at McPherson Playhouse Nov. 30 to Dec. 4.

VON KARAJAN CONDUCTS

Boheme in la Scala—At Royal

How many opera lovers have dreamed that some day they might attend a performance at the world's most famous and beautiful opera house—Milan's La Scala.

For these, and they must be the majority, the film coming to the Royal Theatre for two days only, next Wednesday and Thursday, is a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity to revel in the very best the operatic world has to offer.

The Warner Brothers presentation of Puccini's La Boheme is an exact photographic reproduction of a brilliant performance by the La Scala opera company conducted by the great German maestro, Herbert von Karajan.

Utilizing newly developed sound techniques, the complete musical range of the opera has been captured on technicolor film for the first time.

Stage director and set designer for the production is Franco Zeffirelli.

The cast of singers is headed by Mirelli Freni as Mimi and Gianni Raimondi as Rudolfo.

There will be four performances on the two days, beginning at 2 and 8 p.m. Seats will not be reserved but the number of seats sold for each performance will not exceed the capacity of the theatre, thereby guaranteeing a seat to each ticket holder.

SWEET AND SAVORY . . . . . . WITH ASPIRIN ON THE SIDE

If Critics Can't Agree What Price Criticism?

By JOAN MASON HURLEY

What is the function of a critic? How critical should he be? What terms of reference should he use, his own presumably more informed standards, or those of the average person in the audience?

As I see it a critic has two loyalties. One is to the public who will read him, the other to his own integrity. These should be synonymous. His pure and simple business is to tell the truth.

Ah, but there's a catch. As Oscar Wilde says, the truth is seldom pure and never simple. Indeed what precisely is the truth?

Here are two opinions on Stratford's production this summer of The Cherry Orchard:

Nathan Cohen in The Toronto Star says, "the play is denuded of its . . . vitality . . . and rich human quality."

Ronald Evans in The Toronto Telegram writes, "one of the special attractions of (the) production: the vitality about it . . . life is very tender and tangible . . ."

One would almost think they had agreed to differ, wouldn't one?

And who is to say which opinion is right? If the case comes to be tried, the court of final opinion is the public, and the judgment must come not from the critics but from the grand jury of average play-goers.

Ernest Newman, the music critic of The Sunday Times for 50 years, said "the public quite rightly mistrusts the critics, because they all say different things about the same work."

George Jean Nathan wrote that there was no such thing as an impersonal critic because there is no such thing as an impersonal person.

So it is a matter of taste after all, and G.B.S. cites the undiscriminating pundits of his youth who disparaged the works of Ibsen and Wagner.

Ken Winters, music critic of the Winnipeg Free Press and one of Canada's best, said over the CBC that the function of the critic is to make people think.

This seems to me nearer the mark. If a critic can't do any better himself, and how many can compose symphonies or write plays, what more useful purpose can he serve than stirring up the brain cells of his readers.

Mr. Winters in his review of the National Youth Orchestra when it came to Winnipeg, instead of treading the flowery path of extravagant praise walked by everyone else (myself included), and went boldly out into the rough.

He said he was not thrilled by the orchestra, but he was satisfied that musical education was taking place. The orchestra was "certainly competent, it also jolly well ought to be." Here is food for thought.

The criterion for reviewing amateur or professional productions is always a thorny problem. The same will not do for both. But if amateurs are charging for tickets they must take the consequences.

The alternative is to invite their friends to suffer in the cause for free.

Two essentials, I believe, are necessary for criticism. One is the courage of conviction and the other an innate enthusiasm.

For the critic every play or every concert should begin as a banquet, even if it ends with aspirin. The cynical critic without enthusiasm, who goes to the table preparing to take a dose cannot view with the same eyes or hear with the same ears as the more unsophisticated diners, who outnumber him.

From surfeit his tastes may change. While he prefers savory he should be aware that many like sweet, and in taking this into account, his appetite for either should never diminish.

A FINE CANADIAN pianist who is also a native Victorian, and who recently left a full musical career in London, England, to accept the role of assistant to Victoria School of Music director, Otto-Werner Mueller, appears as soloist with the Symphony Orchestra under Mueller's baton, Sunday and Monday. Robin Wood, who rejected a senior post with the Royal Academy in favor of his native city, will perform with the orchestra, Brahms' Concerto No. 1 in D minor. Rimsky-Korsakoff's Scheherazade Suite and Weber's Oberon Overture complete the program.

Role for Cinderella

NEW YORK — A change in plans has brought 18-year-old Lesley Ann Warren into the leading role of "Drat! The Cat!" the fourthcoming musical comedy for which Joey Heatherton originally was signed.

Miss Warren will be remembered by television viewers as the girl in the title role of the Rodgers - Hammerstein video "Cinderella" of the past season. She appeared on Broadway as ingenue in "110 in the Shade" two seasons ago.

YOUNG SEATTLE OBOIST JOINS CITY SYMPHONY

There can't be too many 18-year-olds under professional contract with a "foreign" symphony orchestra.

But John de Jarnatt is one. He is new first oboist with the Victoria Symphony this season.

Besides being only 18, John is also an American whose home is in Seattle. This summer Otto-Werner Mueller heard him play and invited him to join the orchestra.

So John left his family, which includes two sisters and a brother, and found himself a place to stay in Victoria. He enrolled at Oak Bay High School for pre-college courses and began rehearsals with the Symphony.

John, an attractive, friendly young man, intends to make music his career. He is enthusiastic about the invaluable experience he will get playing the extensive repertoire of our orchestra.

He expects to commute to Seattle to continue his studies with Bernard Shapiro. Mr. Shapiro, who is one of the finest oboists on the continent, is leader of his section in the Seattle Symphony, and was invited to play in the two Stravinsky concerts this summer in Vancouver.

John has been playing for six years, three of them as first oboe with the Seattle Youth Symphony. He is greatly looking forward to his year in Victoria.

MARY, MARY OPENS TONIGHT; GUILD GOES TO McPHERSON

One of the most up-to-date comedies of the season opens tonight at Langham Court Theatre.

Curtain goes up at 8:15 on Victoria Theatre Guild's production of the Jean Kerr New York hit, Mary, Mary. The comedy will run through next week to Oct. 23.

Director is Nora Kellie.

The Theatre Guild also announces that the first week of its Christmas pantomime, Aladdin and His Wonderful Lamp, will run in the McPherson Playhouse, starting Dec. 6.

Guild members are no strangers to the McPherson stage but this will be the first occasion upon which they will appear under the banner of their own organization, which is, incidentally, the oldest theatre group in the city.

Preliminary View Sets DDF Entry

Two decisions affecting groups to enter the Regional Festival of the Dominion Drama Festival in Vancouver, March 21 - 26, were made at an executive meeting of the B.C. Drama Association held in Kamloops recently.

The first was a move to encourage drama groups to enter a new Canadian play for special contest prizes offered this year.

To this end an extension of deadline for entries has been made for this year only, to Dec. 1.

Secondly, a festival regulation in the Constitution and By-Laws has been amended as follows: Preliminary adjudications must be made at a regular performance of any production applying for entry.

These must becompleted not less than five weeks prior to the opening of the festival.

These adjudication reports are submitted to the regional committee, who in consultation with the advisory committee and the preliminary judge, determines the productions that shall be invited to compete in the regional festival.

SPECIAL HORSES FOR 'CUSTER'

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Producer David Weisbart is searching the country for 65 horses trained to fall down on cue for battle scenes in "The Day Custer Fell."

Director-Set Designer Fine All-in-One Role

As a change of pace, Peter Mannering, Bastion's Artistic Director, who is directing the next production 'Sound of Murder', is also responsible for the set design.

Sets he has designed during his theatrical career include a touring set for Manitoba Theatre Centre, with three plays on the program, using one basic set. The concept of the sets used for Lights Up at McPherson Playhouse, was also Peter Mannering's.

He points out certain obvious advantages when a director designs his own set, with ideas which can then be expanded by a talented design man such as Bastion's Art Penson, whose bachelor penthouse set for 'Come Blow Your Horn' was so highly praised.

In studying a play in conjunction with a set, ideas occur to a director as to how he wants to direct the play. If he has to work without visualizing a set, he sometimes misses ideas which might otherwise have been inspired.

In large theatre centres, where different and widely separated departments sometimes take care of set design and construction, such unfortunate circumstances have actually arisen as the director directing the entire action with doors, steps, etc. on one side, and the set arriving completely reversed.

And then there was the case of the director who disliked everything about the set designed and constructed for his play, and had it removed and a new one built 24 hours before the production was staged.

Nothing so critical is likely to take place with Bastion's closely integrated operation, where actors, director designer, production and construction crews work together, each aspect complementing the other for maximum achievement and effectiveness.

NORTH BREEZES

A nice couple from the mainland gazed from our poolside dining room during one of our murkier days.

"Sure rains here a lot—I guess," says the man.

We took the positive approach:

"Average hours of bright sunshine in Victoria, 2,207. Average in Fort St. John is 2,055. In Kamloops it's 2,039. In Vancouver it's 1,925 and Oliver, in the sunny Okanagan has an average of 1,950."

"By golly. Victoria sort of sets the pace for B.C.," said the man.

We just smiled as we tucked away the booklet we got from the B.C. department of agriculture.

The customer is always right when he comes to IMPERIAL for dining.

Violinist to Play Original Works

A composition entitled Poem, by Vancouver composer Jean Coulthard, is included in a program of four items that will mark the opening of Victoria Musical Art Society season, Sunday afternoon, Oct. 24.

Well-known West Coast violinist, Elfreda Sewell, is the guest artist. She will be assisted by Vancouver pianist Robert Rogers.

Mrs. Sewell will also play the Brahms Violin Sonata in D minor, Op. 108, and Sonata in C by Hindemith. Ballad by Keith Bissell completes the program.

Miss Coulthard has studied composition under the late Vaughan Williams, the noted Australian composer-pianist, Arthur Benjamin; Nadia Boulanger in Paris and Bernard Wagenaar in New York.

On the staff of the Departmen of Music at University of British Columbia, Miss Coulthard plans to take a year's leave of absence shortly to continue her work as a composer in London.

Her music is published by BMI Canada Ltd.; she has a cello and piano sonata recorded on Columbia by Ernst Friedlander and two piano Etudes played by Maria Varro on Baroque Records.

ELFREDA SEWELL

Concerning her personal concept of the composer's art, Miss Coulthard has said: ". . . unless music is able to reach the heart in some way, it loses its compelling power to minister to human welfare.

"I also think that a composer's musical language should be instinctive, personal and natural to him and not forced in any way as to specific style or technique of the moment. For if one becomes over-involved in the mechanics of one's musical thoughts, inspiration is easily lost."

Abbey Organist At Cathedral

Christ Church Cathedral, source of much excellent and inspirational music in Victoria, brings next Wednesday, Simon Preston, brilliant young organist, for his only appearance in British Columbia.

Mr. Preston, who is touring North America is sub-organist at Westminster Abbey. He played at Princess Alexandra's wedding and at the Consecration of Guildford Cathedral.

At 27 he is considered one of the most phenomenal organists of our generation. At Hamilton recently, his performance was described as electrifying the audience, who were themselves all organists.

He has recorded organ recitals on London label from King's College Cambridge and from Westminster Abbey.

His program on Wednesday is representative of many great works for the organ with both modern and classical composers.

Included are Prelude and Fugue in E minor, "The Wedge" by Bach, works by Hindemith, Britten, Tippett, Frescobaldi, Blow and Purcell.

Admission is free, but a collection will be taken.

Fall Musical Festival Planned In Citadel

A Fall Festival of Music will be presented in the Salvation Army Citadel, 769 Pandora Avenue, tonight at 8.

It will be given by the 40-piece Salvation Army band from Portland, Ore.; The Juibilaires, a tambourine precision band; the men's chorus and Major J. Ellis, organ soloist.

The visiting musicians will also be heard at the 11 a.m. Sunday service in the citadel.

Defiance Pays Off

MEXICO CITY (Reuters) — Three semi-clandestine showings of the Beatles' film, A Hard Day's Night, drew more than 6,000 fans to the National University campus recently in defiance of a city ban.

Since its release in Mexico last autumn, the film has had a checkered career.

Banned at first by the federal cinema department, it won a reprieve last December but was promptly excluded from the capital's movie houses by the mayor of Mexico City.

No lover of modern rhythm and pop singers, the mayor declared that the film "would probably provoke scandals among our young folk and set them a bad example."

But, like many Latin American university campuses, Mexico's National University is autonomous and therefore out of reach of local bylaws.

Art Gallery Offers Films

The Art Gallery of Greater Victoria, 1040 Moss Street, will feature the first program in its winter season of art films Tuesday at 8:30 p.m.

Among the films to be shown are Rodin's Gates Of Hell, Albert Marquet, Courbet, Christian Art Of Europe, Kathe Kollwitz and The Treasure of The Munich Residence.

Admission is 25c.

SURGE TO FILL VACUUM

Britain's Suburban Theatres Proliferating With Vigor

By RICHARD L. COE
The Washington Post

LONDON—As in the United States, the theatre is striving to decentralize in Britain.

Though still infinitely less throttled economically than New York, the British theatre capital is contending with the same virus. There is a great gulf between the Thinking Man's theatre and what the theatre public will pay to see.

But the striking fact is that some of the same solutions are being explored for the same reasons.

As in the United States, far fewer productions are touring, leaving vacuums where there were once fairly healthy audiences. The London suburbs are getting their new theatres and companies, so are the grimy Midland cities.

Typical of suburbia but far lovelier than most is Guildford in Surrey, one of London's bedroom counties. Its residents are typical of Cleveland Park or Westport, Conn., youngish, intellectual, well-heeled.

After the usual arduous fund-raising and dedicated to the memory of a French star who spent most of her life being adored by the British, the new Yvonne Arnaud Theatre has opened on a tiny swan-guarded island in the river Wey.

While the opening was singularly glamorous—Ingrid Bergman and Sir Michael Redgrave in A Month In The Country—the test will come through a resident company's 48-week season.

The succeeding productions have been daringly chosen, Samsan Agonistes, which Milton could hardly have expected to be acted, and Lionel and Clarissa, a musical play of 1768 by Charles Dibdin and Isaac Bickerstaff.

Seating but 574, the Yvonne Arnaud has a large proscenium stage which can also be thrust forward into the well-raked orchestra floor and very steep circle.

That the Yvonne Arnaud's price scale ranges, once the opening hoop-la is over, from 56 cents to $2.10 reflects the smaller scale of theatre on an island so unlike the vast American continent. Salaries, incomes and union demands are much less.

A recent conference on expanding theatre activities accented the same problems faced in the United States with the all-purpose hall as a chief villain.

Artistically, the all-purpose hall can be deplorable but economic facts lead to compromise. The plays of the absurd, for instance, are wholly unsuitable for big musical stages. Those desirable raked orchestra floors are not easily transformed into dance halls for village functions.

But bars, picture galleries, restaurants and shops appeal to to the British dreamers just as they do to their American counterparts.

Arts centres are definitely in. Bristol's Theatre Royal (built in 1766) became the Bristol Old Vic in '46, has now burgeoned into two theatres with a modest subsidy from the city. And the new Bristol Arts Centre has grown, in two and a half years, into a building with a theatre, art gallery, restaurant and cinema program.

Industrial Birmingham's background of theatrical distinction has spawned the most ambitious program, not to be completed for another 10 years. In that time its 14-acre centre is planned to cater to 7,000 young people at a time, offering several theatres, music, dance and swimming facilities and, its planners declare, a self-supporting budget.

This immensely ambitious undertaking stems from all the effort and money poured in by rich Sir Barry Jackson, whose Birmingham Rep introduced a whole generation of players, writers and directors.

Now the Rep is planning a new 900-seat theatre to replace the 460-seat building Sir Barry built in 1913.

Birmingham's amateur Crescent Company, one of several, also has built its own new building out of the savings of 30 years' profits. And, after a hiatus of some years, Sir Barry's Malvern Festival has just resumed for a four-month season.

John Neville of the Old Vic has been creating his own theatre in Nottingham, and if Liverpool is most famous for its Mersey sound, it also is getting on the provincial map with its Everyman Theatre, operating in a 650-seat auditorium.

The Welsh Theatre Company is in its seventh season in a temporary Cardiff theatre.

All these have help, some way or another, through the Arts Council and municipal agencies. But all the ventures seem to have a few determined sparkplugs.

What is most striking about the movement is how like it all is to what has been going on in Washington, Houston, Minneapolis, Princeton, Seattle, Palo Alto, Atlanta and Baltimore. Vacuums are being filled.

He's Executive Trainee
13 Years Old

A boy with a newspaper route actually is in a spare-time "executive training program." In business for himself, he gets a world of practical training.

- He manages the distribution of a needed product which he buys at wholesale, sells at retail. He's responsible for collections. He keeps financial records. And he pockets the profits of his enterprise.
- A newspaperboy learns the basics of salesmanship—how to locate prospects, how to approach people, how to answer objections.

Whatever business or profession a carrier salesman eventually enters, his "executive training" will always be helpful.

Too Many Tourists Discovering Spain

There is no doubt that southern Spain makes an ideal holiday destination at any time of the year. The only problem is that thousands of sun-seeking holidaymakers from all over Europe have discovered this fact in recent years and many of them are now residing there permanently.

It is common knowledge that apartment houses have shot up almost overnight on the Costa del Sol and in many places the quiet fishing villages have been replaced by teeming tourist resorts far removed from the true Spanish scene.

This state of affairs should not discourage the first-time visitor to Spain from spending a holiday in the southern part of the country, however, particularly if you become mobile and do some exploring rather than stay in one spot.

DUDE SPREADS BITE THE DUST

It's GUEST Ranch, Pardner

By LLOYD BAKER
Times City Editor

Thanks to TV westerns there are so many expert wranglers ridin' the armchairs now-a-days that dude ranches have bitten the dust.

Nope, they haven't gone to the last roundup exactly. It's the brand that we won't be seeing anymore.

Dudes are imitators, and when you've got a whole packet of folks who think they can ride and rope with the best of 'em, you don't go 'round callin' them phoneys—leastwise not if you're lookin' for their business.

★ ★ ★

So pardner, it's "guest ranch" now . . . take it or leave it.

It just so happens this versatile province of ours has corralled one of the best you can find anywhere, one that's easy to take and danged hard to leave.

It's called the Bar Q and it's only a skip and a jump from Ashcroft in the arid interior which some writers have pretty neatly described "the Arizona of B.C."

It's run by George and Kitty Field, a happy couple who have the happy knack of not showing the du—, oops, guests they're not really one of them.

★ ★ ★

The fact is, George and Kitty have got such a smooth operation they might even cut out that guest ranch stuff and go for something different again. There are not many guest ranches where, in the first five minutes a stranger finds himself part of a big hootin' happy family of young, old and in-betweeners. That's the way it goes at the Bar Q for all-comers.

First thing you know you're gorging yourself on the finest of food, up in the saddle riding the finest of pine and sage trails, splashing through the finest of swimming pools, sprawling in the ranch lounge in front of the finest of fireplaces, catching 40 winks (the finest) on a spring-filled in your air-conditioned room . . . You could go on and on with the finest and before you know it everyone's your friend and you're not a guest at the Bar Q but a part of it.

The ranch is located at 1,800-foot elevation about four miles from Ashcroft on the Highland Valley Highway. It is semi-desert country. The ranch house is surrounded by irrigated alfalfa fields which grow greener by the minute when you look beyond to the sage brush.

Its holdings cover something like 30,000 acres which give ample room for a healthy beef cattle operation along with the "guesting."

The ranch runs 1,500 head of Hereford and plans are to push the herd to 2,500.

The property is L-shaped running 14 miles on the downstroke and eight on the horizontal with small holdings in the triangle. Irrigation comes from lakes in the surrounding pine-covered hills above.

It's up thar that the Bar Q's 60-odd head of patient, well-mannered trail horses carry you and your friends on fun-filled two and three-hour rides. You can go morning, afternoon and evening if you wish and each time find all at peace with the world as the sun works varied colors on the contours of hill and valley.

On some of the rides there are cook-outs where Bar Q makes its name with barbecue. Or back at the ranch-house the charcoal might be at work for you. Every meal has variety and you'd swear it was prepared specially for you.

Living quarters are in three porched wings of the ranch-house and the rooms equal those of the most up-to-date motel. There are children's quarters in one section with separate lounge and dining facilities.

There is accommodation for 56 guests, and so spacious are the facilities you never get that mob feeling. Even the tiled swimming pool is big and the surrounding sundecks, lawns and patios give plenty of stretch.

The Bar Q has a season longer than most resorts—it's the healthy hilly climate that allows it, they say, although it's probably because of the warmth of the hospitality.

★ ★ ★

Opening is the first weekend in April or Easter, whichever comes first, with closing October 31. Reopenings come on Grey Cup (Canadian football) weekend with the game seen on television, and for the festive season, from Dec. 28 to Jan. 5. To see out the old and welcome the new there are horse rides, sleighing, skiing, skating, dancing and movies with a big masquerade on New Year's eve.

Rarin' to go? The call of the Bar Q reached far and wide in the season just ending. And already it's being answered for 1966 when close to 500 are expected to get at least a taste of the old west at its modern best.

THIS ONE IS AND HAS, but you don't have to be an expert or have all of the proper "duds" to enjoy the riding at the Bar Q Guest Ranch. "Just come as you are," says pretty Jill Morgan of Vancouver, a regular trail rider. Horses are provided to "fit" your experience or lack of it, and the rides are supervised by ranch wranglers.

Vast New Armadas Approaching To Fill U.K. Coffers With Gold

By HAROLD MORRISON

LONDON (CP) — On the ramparts looking to the sea, the tourist men of Britain shout a warning of the great invasion. More tourists from Canada and other countries are flowing into Britain than ever before. And on the horizon they see vast new armadas, to fill British coffers with more gold.

Despite all the complaints of snarled traffic, overcrowded beaches and outdated hotels, the visitors are flocking to the ancient relics, the great spires and awesome ritual in such numbers that soon tourism may threaten Britain's leading exports as money earners.

"In less than two decades," says the British Travel Association, "tourism has grown from practically nothing into one of the most powerful economic forces in the country."

FACES COMPETITION

Here, as in other areas, Britain is meeting increasing competition from other tourist meccas, but the trend is expansive. Britain earns more American dollars from tourists than from any export commodity, including whisky.

In 1964, a total of 2,456,000 visitors came to Britain, a rise from the 2,159,000 of 1963. The number from Canada increased to 160,000 from 145,000. This year the association expects the overall total to rise to 2,700,000. By 1970, it could climb to 4,000,000.

Visitors to Britain are estimated to have spent about $570,000,000 in 1964, a figure that is expected to increase to $1,500,000,000 by 1970.

Many of the spenders are attracted to the British hinterland; to the Scottish games and festivals; to the Welsh and Irish countryside, and to the picturesque fishing villages and superlative beaches along the Cornish coast. But the bulk of the visitors—about 50 per cent—head for London.

FACILITIES NEEDED

"The development of recreational traffic, particularly for sporting activities outside London, deserves more attention," the association suggests in its latest report.

Travel from Commonwealth countries, notably Canada and Australia, "still accounts for over one-third of the total tourist spending in Britain," the association says. But it notes that a lot of overseas traffic is moving to Europe. Britain gets a large share of the outgoing European tourist trade.

Britain's share of the European market in 1964 was 1,167,000 visitors, the association estimates. They spent about $165,000,000.

"There is much to be done," says the association, "before we can be satisfied that the country is receiving an adequate share of European traffic."

Spanish Heritage Retained

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. — This charming seaside resort is becoming more and more popular as the ideal place for a winter vacation.

Temperatures run in the 70s, sandy beaches are uncrowded and there are varied activities for young and old.

Many visitors are attracted by the 18-hole municipal golf course which is considered among the finest in Southern California.

Fishing is excellent from a pier which stretches out into the blue Pacific. Swimming, surfing and skin diving are also popular. Lawn bowling is a favorite sport as are tennis and shuffleboard.

San Clemente is a fine modern town while still retaining much of its Spanish heritage, with excellent all-year-round facilities for visitors. Hotel, motel and apartment accommodations are available to fit every budget.

A new freeway connects the city with all Southern California attractions. Minutes away are Disneyland, Knott's Berry Farm, Melodyland and the famed San Juan Capistrano Mission.

An hour's drive brings visitors to the Mexican border with its colorful foreign atmosphere. Hollywood, Santa Anita race track and the new cultural facilities of Los Angeles are close via superb freeways.

Special tours to these and other points of interest are arranged for visitors.

218 Cruises Set For South Trips

NEW YORK — Arranging a winter cruise to the sunny Caribbean can be almost like shopping at a diamond centre where there's plenty to choose from at reasonable prices.

According to the travel industry, the 1965-66 cruise season through the port of New York, offers one of the most varied programs for the vacationer ever conceived regardless of time or budget.

Between now and next April, some 21 steamship lines, offering 38 luxury liners, have scheduled a total of 218 cruises. Your travel agent will gladly outline, at an all-inclusive price, an unforgetable vacation.

The Empress of Canada, flagship of the Canadian Pacific Steamships, has added two additional sailings from New York, for a total of six, with three of the departures on Saturdays. Itineraries with shore excursions, range from a 10-day trip to a leisurely 15-day cruise, each sailing at 11 a.m. from the foot of West 55th Street.

The sleek 27,300-ton White Empress under British Registry, is no stranger to New York, as she enters her fifth straight season of winter voyages to the popular islands along the fabled Spanish Main.

Normally, the "Canada" carries 1,050 passengers, but it's different for cruising, when the capacity is limited to 650, all one class, allowing ample room for relaxation, and pampering throughout each voyage.

It Never Rains, Just Mists, In Peruvian City of Kings

Have you ever wanted to visit or live in a place where there has never been rain in the memory of living man? Try Lima, capital of Peru, City of the Kings.

Blessed by a moderate year-round climate (temperatures range between 64 and 85), the closest Lima ever comes to having rain is during the fall and winter months when a heavy mist, known as the Neblina, rolls in over the city.

Lima was founded in 1535 by the Spanish explorer Francisco Pizarro, accompanied by a small force of 400 men and 200 horses. Today it is a magnificent city of 1,200,000, located on a narrow coastal plain, just 12 degrees south of the equator and seven miles inland from the coast.

It is regarded by many as the most beautiful city in Latin-America, where the graceful charm of old Spanish colonial architecture has been blended with many new buildings of modern design.

★ ★ ★

The main streets and avenues are broad and beautifully laid out. Branching off these main thoroughfares are hundreds of smaller streets where one is immediately transported into an old world atmosphere by such names as the "Street of Scriveners," where letter writers and scribes once plied their trade, the "Street of the Sabremakers" and the "Street of the Seven Sins."

Life in this stately old city progresses at a leisurely pace, adhering to the traditions of the old Spanish culture introduced 430 years ago. Formality is the keynote.

The hotels and restaurants of Lima are among the finest in the Western Hemisphere and the cuisine is an interesting as any in Latin-America. Peruvian seafood is exceptional and comes from the cold, teeming waters of the Humboldt Current.

★ ★ ★

Among the many specialty dishes, some of the most popular are cebiche, which is Red Snapper marinated in the juice of fresh limes or lemons and served with onions and red peppers; camarones, a species of large freshwater shrimp, and conchitas, a tiny oyster found only in Peru.

No meal in Peru would be complete without sampling a couple of Pisco Sours beforehand, a delightful cocktail concocted from pisco, a native grape brandy, which is inexpensive and can be served in a variety of drinks.

Peruvian beer is also highly regarded by connoisseurs of the brew. There is also a good selection of local wines, including champagne.

From Lima there are a number of interesting side trips one can take, depending on the time available.

For instance in Pachacamac, about 20 miles south of Lima on the Pan-American Highway, there are some very interesting ruins dating from pre-Inca times. These include the Temple of the Creator-God and the Inca Temple to the Sun which is built on the top of a huge sun-baked pyramid.

★ ★ ★

The latter was ravaged by the brother of Pizarro in a fit of rage after he discovered the temple idols were made of wood and not gold as he had hoped.

Another interesting side trip is to Paracas, a pleasant summer resort, an easy three-hour drive from Lima. For those who would like to spend a few days in this relaxing place there is the fully modern Hotel Paracas.

For the sports fisherman Peru is paradise. Lake Titicaca, the highest lake in the world, and the various rivers flowing into it, offer record trout in great abundance.

Long Wait for a Ticket

MOSCOW (AP)—At a hole-in-the-wall ticket office near the Kiev railway station here, hundreds of people wait expectantly in a straggly and tortuously slow-moving line.

They fill the cramped waiting room and overflow onto the sidewalk, a chattering and sometimes fretful crowd, collectively vigilant to ensure that no one usurps a place in the queue.

They are waiting to buy train tickets to take them on vacation. Like workers anywhere they want a holiday in the sun and are prepared to wait all day—and sometimes come back the next day—in order to arrange transportation.

Similar scenes this fall are re-enacted at ticket offices in other parts of the city.

Not all vacationers have to buy their tickets the hard way. Many can apply for them through their offices, factories or trade union organizations.

Trains out of Moscow this fall, and during the summer months, were holiday-makers heading for the fashionable resorts in the Baltic republics and on the Black Sea.

Sochi, a Black Sea resort situated just inside the Russian federated republic near the border of Georgia, is the Miami Beach for what might be called Russia's middle classes—office personnel, junior executives and some professional men.

LEGENDARY BIKINIS

Pert young office girls come back from vacation after a couple of weeks with tans any Californian would be proud of and when asked where they got it the usual reply is Sochi.

With its bikinis and fat women—and gruesome combinations of the two—Sochi has become legendary among the fad-conscious younger set.

Less crowded and a little more exclusive are Sukumi and Batumi on the Georgia coast of the Black Sea. Farther along the coast are Yalta in the Crimea, where Stalin once spent the summers, and Odessa.

All the resorts have an array of sanatoria and rest houses where vacationing Russians arrange to stay through their trade union or office organizations. They range from palatial residences in well-groomed grounds to small hostels for working families.

A young Muscovite girl explained the standard travel pattern for vacationing Russians:

"Moscow people go south or to the Baltic republics. People from the Baltic republics go south or come to Moscow. People from the north or Siberia come to Moscow or go south."

UNFAMILIAR BENNETT OOZES BEAUTY PLEA

'Don't Spoil Salt Spring With Blacktop!'

By JOHN MIKA
Times Legislative Reporter

GANGES—In a complete turn-around here Friday, Premier Bennett held up a warning hand against the damage highway bulldozers can wreak on a beautiful landscape.

In an uncharacteristic posture, he pleaded that Salt Spring Island never change its graceful style of living or spoil its beauty with pell-mell development.

The short "chat" with his neighbors here which took the place of a standard "dynamic society" speech, may signal a new outlook after 13 years of straining for material progress.

But before the unexpected message came, his unfailing luck with sunshine held at opening ceremonies for the government's new office building here.

A crowd of about 150 Salt Spring Islanders laughed and applauded when their neighbor triumphantly welcomed the sun after it had avoided four speakers preceding him.

The premier officially opened the $247,412 building which accommodates a court room, magistrate's office and waiting room, social welfare department offices, assessor and tax collection offices, RCMP office and two cells within a total of 7,560 square feet.

Located next to the Lady Minto Hospital, it features several innovations for a public works department - designed project.

The court room includes one wall of glass looking out onto a delightful enclosed garden. The exterior bears attractive wood screens to give protection from sun and rain to the stucco-finished, concrete building.

It also is the first government building to be heated entirely by electricity.

Premier Bennett, whose weekend retreat is located near Vesuvius Bay, fulfilled his promise not to make a speech to his neighbors but give a short chat.

He recalled that the beauties of Salt Spring Island first were drawn to his attention by a financier in Chicago who believed it the most attractive spot in B.C.

"When I came back I decided to look it over closely and soon we bought our place at Vesuvius Bay," he said.

He pointed out people come to British Columbia points like Vancouver and Prince George to make money and get ahead, "but people come to Salt Spring Island for a different reason.

"They come here to live.

"I hope that it stays that way and we just don't have development everywhere."

Mr. Bennett recounted some of the things he had learned about Salt Spring Island's pioneers and he expressed a fervent hope "that we keep the fine things of the past."

Pointing to the country road in front, he said he hoped "we don't send the big bulldozers down there to make a highway.

"Though we need new buildings such as this, we must never forget the foundations laid by the pioneers or destroy them—on Salt Spring or anywhere in B.C."

He concluded with an appeal that the community of Salt Spring Island and the provincial government work together "in arranging that there be proper control in planning so we do not have any eyesores on this Island.

"That is the way to live and we should preserve the beauty of this Island."

Indian Centre to Open October 23

PORT ALBERNI—The Indian Friendship Centre will be opened here Oct. 23, a spokesman said today.

George Clutesi will direct opening ceremonies and will explain to the gathering something about the sacred ceremonies.

Mayor Les Hammer will make the opening remarks and along with Mr. and Mrs. Franches Charlie, will cut the ribbon.

Chief Nelson Kietlah will represent the Alberni area tribes.

Bennett In Election Campaign

Premier Bennett Friday in Ganges announced he will hit the federal election trail next Thursday with an evening rally in Prince George.

Mr. Bennett said he would come back to Vancouver Friday for a press conference and then make a swing including stops at Kimberley, Trail, Vernon, Penticton, Victoria and Vancouver.

He will travel more than 8,000 miles "shaking hands, meeting people, but kissing no babies."

He said the theme of his campaign will be "a fair deal for British Columbia that's what it's all about."

Mr. Bennett said he would share the platform with two of his ministers at each of the stops.

He said he would not campaign outside of the province but Forests Minister Ray Williston will speak in Medicine Hat, Attorney-General Robert Bonner in Lethbridge and Highways Minister Phil Gaglardi in Edmonton.

EASY TO SEE what's eating these two. Even easier to see what they'll be eating for the next few weeks—pumpkin-and-onion pie. Bob Johnstone (left) took first prize at Nanaimo Horticulture Society vegetable show with his six onions—total weight 14 pounds, while John Wallace's 60-pound pumpkin took top honors in its class. Mr. Wallace also won the potato award. Both men are from Nanaimo.

Indians Outline Big Development

DUNCAN—Cowichan Indian band plans for development of reserve land adjoining the city were confirmed Friday.

However, chief Mike Underwood said he was unable to disclose the cost of the entire development.

The plan, drawn up by Vancouver consultant Robert A. Williams, calls for a giant shopping complex, a recreational building, a housing project, apartment and a motor hotel.

This would all be included in a K-acre site bounded by Trunk Road, Cowichan Way (a new access road now under construction), and Allenby Road.

Local Indian agent Ron Sampson said Friday: "The band council hopes this plan will be worked out with the co-operation of the city."

City Alderman Hamish Mutter said: "I'm sure the council will co-operate in any way possible."

Chief Underwod said the band council is still busy negotiating with several business firms.

So far the site has one project started. Doman Industries Ltd. are building a trucking terminal on Cowichan Way.

* * *

COWICHAN Indian band has become the first in Canada to appoint a fulltime secretary-treasurer. The new post will be filled by Miss Louise Underwood, a former band chief and daughter of Chief Mike Underwood. Miss Underwood quits work in a local store at the end of the month. Indian agent Ron Sampson said the new secretary's salary will be paid from band funds and from a new government grant. Miss Underwood will work closely with the Indian agency, but the band hopes to establish its own office on the reserve.

'500 DEER STARVED' LAST WINTER

COURTENAY—Several hundred deer in the Comox Valley starved to death last winter.

Conservation officer Jim Osman, revealing these facts for the first time Thursday, put the figure as high as 500.

He said extremely heavy snow had left the animals without enough food.

Mr. Osman was speaking to the Courtenay Kiwanis Club which collects and sells deer hides for charity.

Island Balks At Regional District Talks

DUNCAN—A Salt Spring Island delegation walked out of a meeting here Friday night.

The government-sponsored meeting was discussing setting up a regional district covering mid-island.

The delegation left after assistant deputy municipal affairs minister James D. Baird agreed Salt Spring could not benefit from a regional setup.

Salt Spring spokesman C. H. Horel said: "You wouldn't get a telephone booth full of people on Salt Spring to vote for it.

"We islanders can't share in hospitals, water supply or sewerage facilities.

"If you can get rid of us the regional plan might go ahead much more smoothly."

Mr. Baird said Mr. Horel's statement simply confirmed his department's opinion.

FORM COMMITTEE

The meeting agreed to form a committee to investigate the feasibility of setting up a regional district.

Municipalities will appoint members and unorganized areas will elect delegates from further meetings to be called by the department.

Mrs. Veronica Lloyd, Cowichan Station, said: "We're trying to get away from the idea of piddling little communities. We want to be united in some way."

George Bonner, Cobble Hill, accused chairman Mayor Jack Dobson, Duncan, of trying to "railroad" the area into a regional board.

He accused Mayor Dobson after it was suggested a committee be struck at the meeting.

NO AUTHORITY

Mr. Bonner said many people present had no authority to act for the taxpayers in their area.

Like himself they had received personal invitations from the department.

Mr. Baird said any party could opt out of the regional district within the period of 60 days' notice.

18-MONTH STUDY

He anticipated it taking 18 months to complete a study of the need for a regional setup in the mid-Island area.

If there is opposition from the study committee he said he is sure the minister will not carry forward his recommendation.

Mr. Baird said: "I'm not here to ram anything down your throats."

He said that if a regional board set up a competent planning staff the government will give a 10 per cent per capita grant.

Body Found Of Ship's First Officer

NANAIMO—The body of Herolf Jenssen, 23, first officer of the Norwegian freighter Bris, was found in the harbor here Friday.

He disappeared Sept. 27 while the ship was docked here. The Bris later sailed for the West Coast of Vancouver Island.

Harbor authorities today said the ship was believed headed out to sea.

Police are still wondering why Jenssen's disappearance was not reported before the ship sailed.

However, they said they do not suspect foul play.

Plateau Skiers Promised Good Road Access

COURTENAY—Up-Island skiers have been assured the 15 acres of ski run on Forbidden Plateau will soon be easily accessible.

Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston, explaining technical snags in gaining park status for the plateau and in improving the area, said:

"Every effort is being made to bring the transaction to completion."

Mt. Becher Ski Development Society, concerned about parking and lack of good roads in the area, received a letter from Comox MLA Dan Campbell listing reasons for the delay of park status as location of duplicate land title, road and land surveys and registration.

This Sports Car Missing Its Top

Oak Bay police are looking for the person who went out Thursday night looking for the top and side curtains of a TR3 sports car.

The man found what he was looking for on a car owned by Richard Johnston, 1595 Clive, that was parked outside his home.

When Mr. Johnston went out Friday morning, he found the top missing.

JOB TRAINING OPPORTUNITIES
BASIC LOGGING
(Sponsored by the Federal-Provincial Governments)

Training opportunities are offered to suitable applicants in a six weeks pre-apprenticeship course leading to employment and apprenticeship in the logging industry.

The training will be conducted at the B.C. Vocational School—Nanaimo, where dormitory accommodation is available.

Courses run on a continuous basis with intakes every two weeks. The first commences October 4th, 1965.

Educational grade standing is not a pre-requisite.

Trainees in the six weeks course will receive basic knowledge in various phases of the logging industry such as rigging, yarding and loading, both at the school and in a timber stand provided by the Forest Service which is equipped with portable spar tree and regular logging equipment.

The course offered by experienced logger instructors will provide instruction in the safe use of hand tools, wood species and uses, types of logging operations, use of wire rope, power saws, hand and audible signals, high lead rig-up and other fundamentals. Basic fire suppression, slash burning and reforestation will be covered and emphasis will be applied to safety rules and practices.

Following the six weeks course, trainees will enter the industry as apprentices and will receive the basic salary paid to chokermen. ($2.57 per hour).

Applicants must be physically fit.

The Apprenticeship Branch, Department of Labour will pay all tuition fees, and a subsistence allowance will be provided plus one return transportation to the school from applicant's place of permanent residence. These to be paid on completion of the six weeks course.

For application forms apply immediately to:

Time to Put Plants Away Until a Frost-Free Day

By JACK BEASTALL

Now that frost has been felt over a wider area it is time to lift the tuberous begonias and prepare them for storage.

In some districts the top growth will have been damaged sufficiently for most of it to be gently lifted away before any digging is started, but the main stem will still be firmly attached to the tuber, and should be left, or cut a few inches above soil level.

In other districts the top growth will still be in good condition so that flowers may be picked for use indoors and the rest of the foliage left attached to the tubers.

No more foliage should be removed than that which breaks off or comes away naturally.

Jack

As the tubers are lifted the excess soil around the roots is gently worked away with the fingers but the roots themselves are not removed at this time.

Tubers, with roots and foliage, are placed in shallow boxes (flats) or spread on the floor of a warm shed, a coldframe, or in a greenhouse.

CHECK FREQUENTLY

Since the foliage contains a high quantity of moisture it rots easily and fungous growths are soon evident. For this reason it is necessary to check the plants frequently and remove the rotting portions.

After a period of ten days to three weeks, depending on conditions, the top growth will all be off and the soil on the roots will have dried.

The dry soil is then removed together with any roots which come with it, but roots that are still firmly attached are left to dry naturally.

Eventually all roots will rub off easily and the tubers are then ready for storage in shallow boxes in a single layer.

Place the tubers slightly apart and sift terralite or peat moss around and between them leaving only the upper surface exposed.

STORE IN BASKETS

Once a month through the fall, winter, and early spring, the boxes are checked to make sure no rotting takes place due to excess moisture, or shrivelling due to insufficient moisture.

Begonias in hanging baskets can be stored in the baskets providing the soil is allowed to become thoroughly dry and the top growth removed after it has died naturally.

Gladiolus corms are handled in much the same way excepting that the foliage is cut off at soil level before the corms are lifted and removed to the compost heap.

This is done to prevent as many thrips as possible from getting on the corms and going into storage.

When lifted there will be the new corm with a few inches of foliage attached, an old, withered corm attached to its base, and the mass of roots.

The next step is to dry the lifted plants as rapidly as possible before rot sets in between the old and new corm.

In damp weather a heated area with an electric fan blowing over the corms is necessary.

In fine weather the corms can go outside in the daytime and be brought in before late afternoon.

As soon as possible the old corm and roots should be separated from the new corms, but never with the use of force because the base of the new corm would be damaged.

KEEP SEPARATE

When dry and thoroughly cleaned, the corms are spread thinly in shallow boxes, dusted with 5 per cent DDT and stored in a dry, airy frost-free place, where the temperature is around 40 to 45 degrees F.

As with begonias, frequent checking over winter is needed to make sure no rotting or shrivelling is in progress.

Rotting indicates insufficient drying before storage or too moist atmosphere.

Shrivelling is due to the atmosphere being too dry and thereby drawing the natural moisture out.

It is important that named varieties of all bulbs and corms be kept separate and clearly labelled.

Where only a few corms of each variety are on hand they can be stored in paper bags with small air holes in the sides, the tops of the bags being left open.

THE WEEK'S WORK

By JACK BEASTALL

Cut down dahlias if frosted, and lift roots, storing them after cleaning, choosing a cool but frost-free place.

Make a mixture of screened compost and sand for top dressing all the plants in rockery pockets.

Renew plant labels while still legible. Winter often plays havoc with temporary markers, and most memories are not infallible.

Lift the tuberous begonias from outdoor beds and planters and treat as explained in detail in today's article.

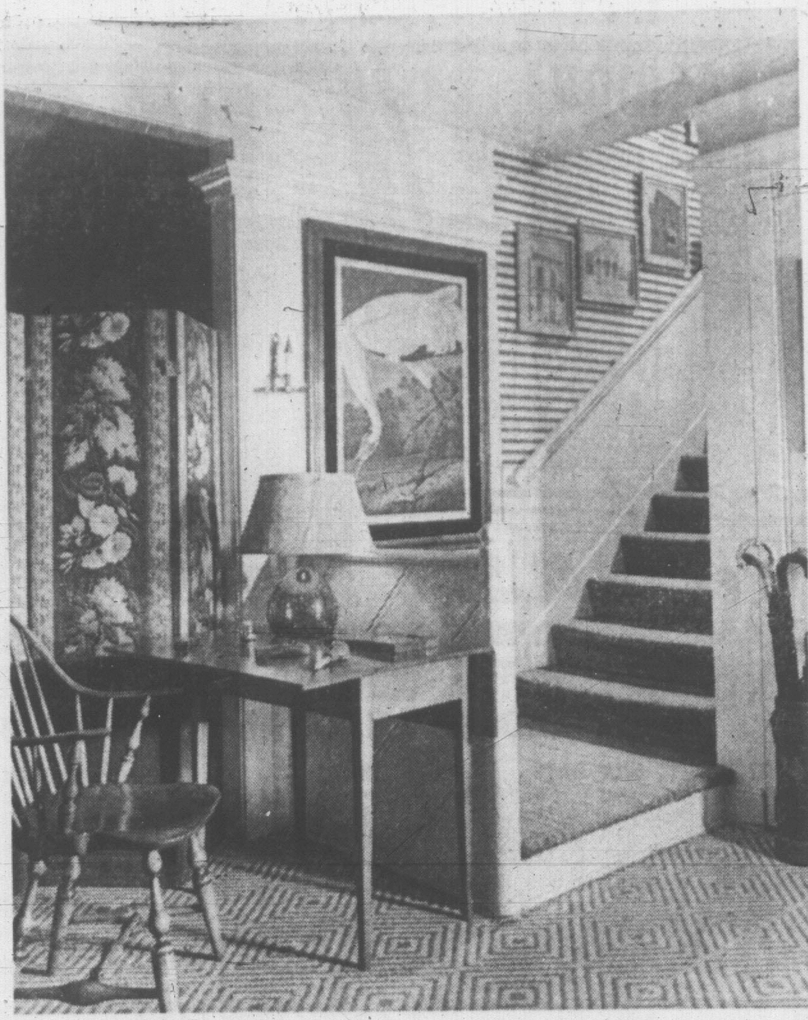
As asparagus foliage browns, remove, and clean the bed.

Broccoli now forming heads. Tops may be protected from frost by light sacking thrown over, but it must be removed in the morning.

See that all brassicas and wallflower plants are firm in the soil before fall winds rock them.

Remove yellow leaves from any of cabbage tribe, and prevent weed seeds from growing around them.

If the soil is still dry, these particular plants may need watering, and a liquid feeding will encourage Brussels sprouts to develop for early use.



How to add interest to a plain stairwell

BRIDGE PARTIES ARE OUT FOR WOMEN OF FUTURE

By MARY ANN REESE
United Press International

Housewives within the next decade will shop for furniture without leaving their homes and will probably give up their bridge clubs in favor of civic activities.

The rush to the suburbs will subside, with a return to attractive living units in the city near work, and more investments in weekend retreats to "get away from it all."

Fewer families will own their own homes, and the emphasis on family and home life will be innovation and change, rather than tradition and stability.

The Stanford Research Institute reports these and other findings in a study of trends through 1975 for the first All-Industry Home Furnishings Conference recently.

The report predicted an end to the era of "conspicuous consumption" with private ownership of homes and other costly durables.

"Americans are becoming conspicuous movers, conspicu[illegible] active leisure-seekers and [illegible]picuous renters," the re[illegible]t said.

★ ★ ★

By 1975 one-fifth of the entire population will move from one residence to another each year, and about 85 per cent of all Americans will live at some time in a foreign country. Less than 5 per cent of the population will spend their entire lifetime in their home town.

Because of the mobility the research report said, most houses would be owned and furnished by contractor-builder-managers, and families will treasure and travel with accessories such as lamps, objects of art and paintings, which take up little space.

Housewives will prefer to rent the larger pieces of furniture rather than cart private belongings from one place to another.

Much shopping will be done from the home via color television.

★ ★ ★

Innovations in furniture retailing will allow the shopper to rent pieces or even whole rooms of furniture which have been finished or upholstered to her preference.

There will be more individuality in home decorating.

Mobile Americans will have less understanding of local governmental delays in satisfying their needs and, while deploring the trend, will look to the federal government to support and control the community.

Few people will hold one job, or even one type of job all their lives, so there will be frequent retraining and education will be a lifelong process.

It will be an era of social problem-solving, with most Americans participating.

★ ★ ★

The woman especially, aware of science's ability to control the universe, will be impatient to help bring about more enlightened social control in her community, the report predicted.

Although the days of the "rugged individualist" are nearly over, the trend shows buyers will be treated more on an individual basis than as part of a market.

Women will value spare time and enjoyment more than ownership of things, and the report predicts "the woman of 1975 will be more demanding and more powerful than ever before in history, as she makes herself at home in a world of change."

It Really Mat(ters) When Choosing a Rug

Carpets and rugs made in Canada have never been prettier, values have never been greater; but where does the consumer start when it comes to making a choice?

A new carpet or rug is never an "everyday" purchase either for the novice or the seasoned homemaker, but a major investment in beauty and comfort which should last for many years, according to the Canadian Carpet Institute.

The variety of styles and qualities widens each year as modern developments broaden the range of fibres, colors and patterns for every decorating trend or taste, and for new uses as well as old.

The CCI, an association of Canadian carpet manufacturers which this fall is again staging a "carpet time" national promotion, offers some basic guidelines for consumers.

1. Color is the first thing to consider because it can set the keynote of a decorating plan. It can contrast or blend with other furnishings, depending on personal taste.

2. Size depends on more than room dimensions. Wall-to-wall carpet can magically add to the size of a room, but a rug may be more practical in an apartment occupied for only a few years.

3. Styling includes patterns and textures and while there is no doubt that tweedy patterns of multi-colors will show soil less than deep-pile plain shades, home decoration based on the "won't show the dirt" aspect can be very dull.

4. The best place to buy carpets and rugs is from reliable department, furniture or carpet stores in your area. Many stores offer home service today, but consumers should never confuse this with door-to-door salesmen who offer unusual "bargains".

5. The best guide to how much you pay is "the best you can afford". Cheap carpeting is value of wear per year. You should pay most for heavy traffic areas, less for little-used rooms.

6. There is no answer to the question of which fibre is best. A top grade wool is excellent but acrylic or nylon might be easier to keep clean in certain ciricumstances.

7. There is one guide to quality regardless of the type of fibre; the deeper the denser the pile the better the quality. Closely packed yarns mean better wear.

8. Underlay can be either felted or rubber padding and can add to the life of the carpet, but heavy padding will never compensate for poor quality pile.

9. Wear life of carpets and rugs depends on quality, traffic and the care you give it. Regular vacuuming removes the gritty dirt that will grind down fibres. Periodic shampooing preserves the beauty of the carpet.

Paper Tax Scored

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (CP-AP)—The Inter-American Press Association has passed a resolution expressing concern at recent Canadian legislation which it says would have the effect of imposing a tax on advertising in non-Canadian newspapers and periodicals directed primarily at the Canadian market.

Home Layout Simple Matter Of Planning

A well-planned kitchen perhaps provides the greatest appeal to those shopping for a home, but the bathroom also attracts a great deal of interest.

It should be located close to the bedrooms while remaining within easy access from other parts of the house.

A second bathroom, or at least an additional washroom, is another feature that may appeal to shoppers.

As for the bedrooms, it is best to have them removed from the activities part of the house for greater privacy.

The two-storey house design provides excellent separation between the sleeping area upstairs and the main floor.

The living room is in a sense the focal point of the home, the meeting place for the family and outside guests.

More than any other part of the home it reflects the individuality of its occupants, their tastes and creativity.

Where a dining room is provided it should be more than just a nook.

In some modern designs the dining room opens up on a patio where the guests can assemble outside, weather permitting.

The family room has largely replaced the playroom and has become the gathering place for adults and children alike.

The most popular location for the family room is next to the kitchen.

In a sense it is a revival of the family kitchen of the old farm home.

Hallways should not use up too much of the interior.

But if spacious halls are a luxury as far as space is concerned it is a luxury that some buyers may well insist upon for that feeling of "freedom" they provide.

Take a Daring Step Liven Up Stairwell

By PAULINE GRAVES

One usually thinks of a stair landing as a breather when a stairway turns between floors, or as the entrance to the stairs on the upper floor.

In this home, a landing dramatizes the entrance to the stairs on the first floor.

The space at the foot of a stairway is useless for furniture because it must be kept clear for traffic, and to have the steps run straight into the room leaves just an empty area.

The square landing, the height of a step and the same length and width, provides a platform for an entrance into the room.

It also effectively separates the staircase from the room.

Helping this separation is the low partition at the end of the platform, which serves a double purpose in that it provides a background for a furniture piece.

Another point to note is the strong horizontal stripes on the wall in the stairwell.

It counteracts the vertical line of the steps and brings down the height of the ceiling, usually a problem in decorating.

The geometric pattern in the carpeting repeats the stripe, in a different form, so that they do relate to each other.

If your home has a stairway that runs into the room without the drama of a platform at its base, one can be constructed easily, matching up with the bottom step.

A simple railing could be installed at the end, rather than a solid partition, or you might find a section of an old wrought iron fence that would offer exceptional interest.

True War-Epic Drama Tells of Man's Love For Horses, Sunday

One of the epic stories of the Second World War, the daring rescue of the famous Lipizzan horses from Vienna by the courageous director of the city's Spanish Riding School, is told Sunday at 6 p.m. on Channel 8 (7:30 p.m. on Channel 5) in The Flight of the White Stallions, on Walt Disney Presents.

RESCUE ESCORT for priceless Lipizzan mares of famous Spanish Riding School of Vienna was provided by U.S. Second Mechanized Cavalry Regiment in true war epic retraced Sunday at 6 p.m. on Channel 8 (7:30, Channel 5) in Walt Disney's The White Stallions.

The drama is based on the autobiography of Colonel Alois Podhajsky, the school's director, who, refused permission by the Nazi administration to remove the stallions from war-torn Vienna during the last months of the great conflict, succeeded in smuggling them to safety in Upper Austria. There he kept them in training, and then persuaded General George Patton of the U.S. Third Army to rescue the stud-mares and foals, which previously had been removed from Vienna to Czechoslovakia, from advancing armies of Russians.

Robert Taylor stars as the colonel with Lilli Palmer, Curt Jurgens, Eddie Albert and James Franciscus. Miss Palmer appears as the colonel's wife.

Podhajsky is credited with having kept alive the art of classic riding, called "haute ecole." From the day he first became director of the Spanish Riding School of Vienna, in 1933, to the present, he has given his life to the continuance and improvement of the art, and the Vienna institution is the last school of classic riding left in the world today.

The baroque building of the Spanish Riding School of Vienna, named for the origin of its Lipizzan horses, is shown in the drama in all its beauty. Erected in 1735 it is one of the most magnificent examples of Baroque architecture in Europe.

In part one of the Disney program Colonel Podhajsky has been denied permission to evacuate the school, and, as the first bombs fall on the city, the fate of the horses is in jeopardy. He enlists the aid of a sympathetic German general (Jurgens), and, with his chief rider, Otto (Albert) begins smuggling the Lipizzans at night to St. Martin and the safety of an old castle. There he keeps the horses in training, but broods over the fate of the mares, in Czechoslovakia; without which the breed will die out.

The Russians are moving into Czechoslovakia, and American armies are advancing. An American major (Franciscus) offers a glimmer of hope to Podhajsky — perhaps General Patton could help. The first episode ends with Podhajsky arranging to stage a performance of the horses for Patton (John Larch).

War on Poverty

On Sunday, at 6 p.m. on Channel 5 "The Frank McGee Report" will report on the progress of President Johnson's billion-dollar-a-year war on poverty, featuring an interview with Peace Corps Director Sargent Shriver in which he describes the program's aims and answers criticisms of its effectiveness and haste. Dr. Herbert Striner, program director of the Upjohn Institute for Employment Research, will also be seen on the program expressing his views on the war against poverty.

NBC News correspondent Bill Ryan will report on the Paterson (N.J.) Neighborhood Youth Corps, and Virgil Dominick will describe problems encountered in conducting anti-poverty campaigns for Oklahoma's Cherokee Indians. Also on the program Edwin Newman, reporter-at-large for "The Frank McGee Report," will broadcast a report, live from the grounds of the New York World's Fair, on its closing day.

Campus Morals

"The Playboy Philosophy" is the topic for the premiere "Campus Morals" program, a new program of college bull sessions on television and on the campus, to be televised at 9 a.m. Sunday on Channel 5's "Community Workshop."

The half-hour telecast will feature three college students and three campus-oriented adults.

"Campus Morals" in an experimental plan sponsored by the Washington State Junior Chamber of Commerce in co-operation with student bodies at colleges throughout the state.

The Capitol

A one-hour NBC News color television special spotlighting the United States Capitol as a symbol of Democratic Freedom," will be presented Sunday, at 6:30 p.m. on Channel 5.

Virtually all of the special was filmed at night, because the Senate was in daily session when the program was in production and the public tours regularly stream through the building from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. For this production, for the first time in history, motion picture or TV cameras were allowed inside the chamber of the U.S. Senate.

The program echoes the history that has taken place in the capitol, and displays the works of art that line the marble corridors and look out from the columned walls.

Vice-President Hubert H. Humphrey has lauded the program as "a magnificent and beautiful display" of one of the nation's great historical treasures. Critics have hailed the program variously as "a stunning tribute to a building all patriotic Americans revere," "a haunting historical journey from the present back through the past," "an incomparable tour from dome to crypts beneath" and "one of the most delightful and beautiful shows of this or any other television season."

ASK RITHET'S

You are invited to submit questions on insurance and similar matters for inclusion in this column. The origin of such queries is kept entirely secret.

Q. I carry a new Home-owners' Policy. Does it give me any protection in case I have to vacate my home due to a fire?

A. Yes. It pays up to 20% of your building insurance for moving costs and all expenses to maintain your family's normal way of life during the time needed to rebuild your house without undue delay. The coverage also applies to windstorm and other insured perils.

FRECKLED FACE Lynn Loring stars as Barbara Erskine, daughter of FBI Agent Lew Erskine, portrayed by Efrem Zimbalist Jr., on the new serial drama, The FBI, Sunday at 8 p.m. on Channel 4.

DON ADAMS

Man, Actor Will Never 'Get Smart'

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Comedian Don Adams, who admits "I'm a bit of a klutz myself," is fearful lest he lose himself in the character of Maxwell Smart, the moronic spy in a new television series.

Diminutive and every bit as beady-eyed in person as he is in the "Get Smart" show, Adams is the kind of loser who spills martinis on the hostess and loses money in pay telephones.

If a meteor landed on earth, Adams would be an odds-on favorite to catch it with his head.

"I'm beginning to become Maxwell Smart, and you might as well know it," Adams said.

"My wife, Dorothy, says I keep bringing him home with me."

The other day Adams loaded two full garbage cans into the open trunk of his sports car, planning to drop them at the curb. But it wasn't until he arrived at the studio that Adams realized the fragrant refuse was still with him.

Like his counterpart in the NBC-TV series, Adams was equal to the occasion. He turned around, drove home and with great nonchalance deposited the cans at the curb while Dorothy looked down pensively.

Adams has overcome other difficulties. For instance, his real name is Donald James Yarmy, which he changed in 1954 after crashing Arthur Godfrey's "Talent Scouts" show.

GUEST SHOTS

His appearance with Godfrey led to guest shots with Steve Allen, Garry Moore, Jimmy Dean, Johnny Carson and Perry Como.

Adams' voice is not as high-pitched as Smart's; nevertheless they sound exactly alike.

Cleverly determining his own fate, Adams said with a straight face: "You've got to go one way or the other in television."

Asked to clear this up, he added: "You either go for comedy or drama. So our show is 80 per cent comedy and 20 per cent serious."

Maxwell Smart couldn't have put it any better.

"Smart is a very dedicated spy but totally inept," Adams says. "He's very serious at all times and so are the villains. And that's what makes it funny."

"Get Smart" is a far-out spoof of such tongue-in-cheek melodramas as the "Man from U.N.C.L.E." and the James Bond movies. So far, both critics and ratings have been generous.

How to Make a President

Pulitzer Prize Book Examined in Films Tuesday at 9:30 p.m.

The broadcast version of "The Making of the President: 1964," from Theodore H. White's Pulitzer Prize winner on U.S. Presidential campaigns and elections, will be presented Tuesday at 9:30 p.m. on Channels 7 and 12.

The 90-minute special is the first out-of-house news presentation to be seen on CBS. Under its policy of editorial supervision and control, the final version of the program has been approved by CBS News.

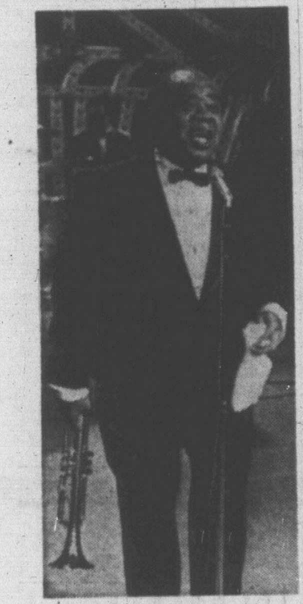
Narrated by noted actor Martin Gabel, THE MAKING OF THE PRESIDENT: 1964, is produced by Mel Stuart for David Wolper Productions. Wolper camera crews accompanied the major Republican and Democratic figures throughout pre-convention activities, the campaign and election, recording impact-laden scenes of American politics in action.

From the Republican standpoint, such key factors as the pre-convention primaries, the preparations by Goldwater strategists to control the convention, the opposition of Eastern Republican leaders and Goldwater's campaign tactics and personality will be examined.

In the camp of the Democrats, issues including the Lyndon Johnson-Robert Kennedy vice-presidential confrontation, the theme of the "great society," the Jenkins incident, civil rights and the Johnson-Humphrey campaign will be analyzed.

Theodore H. White, who wrote the book and the 90-minute television special, thinks of himself as a sports writer.

"A very special kind of sport," he is quick to remind you. "In fact, it's the No. 1 spectator and participation sport in the United States—politics."



HAPPY BIRTHDAY, SATCH MO! . . . will be the word Thursday when Dino and Bob Goulet help the fabulous horn player celebrate his 50th year in show business while he guest-stars on the Dean Martin Show at 10 p.m. on Channels 5 and 8.

Greatest Yet

White's participation in the special is much greater than in the award-winning "The Making of the President: 1960" broadcast. In that case, White wrote his book and then producer Mel Stuart of David L. Wolper Productions searched the nation for news film to match the chapters.

This time, cameras accompanied White as he covered the 1964 presidential campaign from the time of the New Hampshire primary until election night. Other camera crews also went around the country to cover related events, with the instructions, "Teddy said to get it."

In politics the winners are given "power to use" by the voters, not "power to keep," White points out. "And behind the winners are other men, young men who have won elections on a small scale.

They are "young lions who toss their heads and feel new strength" in victory. Within the next decade or two, one of them may be the president of the United States.

"That's what makes this sport so fascinating."

Does he hope to be writing about those "young lions" when it's their turn to enter the main arena?

"I started with 'The Making of the President: 1960.' and I hope to make it through 'The Making of the President: 1980,'" he declared. "A 20-year run. That's all you can ask of any reporter."

Louis Armstrong

Dean Martin and guest star Robert Goulet help Louis Armtrong celebrate his 50th year in showbusiness on "The Dean Martin Show" Thursday, at 10 p.m. on Channels 5 and 8.

Other guests on the hour-long variety program are the Kirby Stone Four, singer Lainie Kazan, and the dance teams of Brascia and Tybee, and Helene and Howard.

Dean's opening song is "King of the Road," which is followed by the Trio Leema, a comic contortionist act. Next come dancers Helene and Howard—who start in graceful beauty and then explode into comic pratfalls.

Lainie Kazan sings "Black is the Color of My True Love's Hair" and "My Man's Gone Now." Then Robert Goulet offers "Come Back to Me" and "Time After Time." Next are interpretive dancers Brascia and Tybee as a tiger and its trainer. The Kirby Stone Four sing "Confidence" and "In the Good Old Summertime."

COMEDY SPECIAL of The Chrysler Theatre Wednesday at 9 p.m., on Channel 5, will star Bob Hope and Phyllis Diller who will engage in madcap comedy sketches. Other stars on the program will include James Garner and singer Carol Lawrence.

Louis Armstrong and his music men play and sing "A Lot of Livin' to Do" and "My Bucket's Got a Hole in It." Louis then joins Martin for a medley of "girl" songs, including "My Kind of Girl," "Sweet Sue," "Sweet Georgia Brown" and "Hello, Dolly."

Hope Medic Ship

Host-producer George Carlson will present "Hope in Guinea," an outstanding color film on the work and experiences of the personnel aboard the medical ship "Hope" in South America, on "Northwest Traveler," Wednesday, at 7 p.m., over Channel 4.

Dr. J. H. Lehmann, Seattle physician, is photographer-narrator of this journey involving 40 doctors and 40 nurses from the United States. The colorcast reveals their experiences when the Hope docked in the capital city of Conakry, Guinea, for two months. The task of these men and women was to treat the sick and disabled natives, and to instruct the local nurses and doctors in this port city.

Among the highlights of the film is the arrival in Conakry of the defence minister of Cuba, Che Guevara. Now in the news due to his mysterious disappearance, Guevara's visit came as a surprise to the people of Guinea and, fortunately, Lehmann was on hand to capture these films at the airport.

Also featured are the Guinean ballet, the Mohammedan religious celebration of Ramadan (in a large stadium built by Russian foreign aid), the home of Sekou Toure, the country's president, visits with several members of the Peace Corps, and a tour of the country including a swim in the River Niger and a visit to the Kin Kon Dam (the product of Red China's financial assistance).

The Canada Pension Plan and its benefits

Here is what the Canada Pension Plan will do for people like Esther Meyer, a 50-year-old owner of a small store who makes $5,800 a year.

If Esther continues to earn this amount from her business until age 65, she and her husband, who is disabled and cannot work, can look forward to a retirement income of $104.17 from the Plan and $75 from Old Age Security—a total of $179.17 a month. When her husband receives Old Age Security, their income will be $254.17 a month.

Should Esther die anytime after 1967, having contributed until her death, her husband will receive a disabled widower's pension of $64.06 a month until he reaches age 65. At that time, or if he is already 65 when Esther dies, his pension under the Plan will be $62.50 a month plus $75 a month Old Age Security. On the death of his wife, Mr. Meyer will also be entitled to a lump sum payment of $500.

All benefits under the Plan will maintain their value. The actual benefits payable will probably be higher than those given here since benefits will be adjusted to meet changes in living costs and in wage levels before they are paid and changes in living costs after they become payable.

What will the Plan cost you?

If, like Esther, you have self-employed earnings of $5,800 a year, you will pay $158.40 a year which is 3.6% of $4,400, the maximum amount upon which contributions are payable. Payment will be in instalments in the same way you pay your income tax.

This advertisement is one of a series which relates some of the important benefits of the Canada Pension Plan to individual circumstances.

authority of the Minister of National Health and Welfare, Canada,

BUSINESS VIEWS

City Engineer Was All Smiles

By JIM HUME
Times Business Editor

Hume

When Prime Minister Pearson and Premiers John Robarts and Jean Lesage hammered the final rivets into the Macdonald-Cartier Bridge Friday, a Victoria engineer was standing nearby smiling happily.

A. B. Sanderson, head of the consulting engineering firm of the same name, had good reason to be happy.

Four years ago the federal government appointed him consulting engineer for the $9 million federal-provincial project. After he and the consulting engineers appointed by Quebec and Ontario had drawn up the first specifications Mr. Sanderson told the federal government the bridge would be open for traffic in October, 1965.

The date he gave was Friday, October 15.

The appointment to supervise the construction of the bridge linking Hull and Ottawa across the Ottawa River near Parliament Hill, was not the first for the Yorkshire born, Vancouver educated UBC graduate.

★ ★ ★

In 1958 he was asked to sit as technical adviser to the Royal Commission inquiry into the Second Narrows Bridge tragedy.

"An incredible string of frightening coincidences caused the disaster," Mr. Sanderson recalled prior to leaving for Ottawa.

"A young engineer made what can only be described as an obvious error in calculations. To safeguard against such human errors a series of checks are set up for each phase, however small, of construction.

"In this case the young engineer's report went to a senior man and, again incredibly, the error was missed. The report had been read and initialed, but the error, which stood out like a sore thumb, went unnoticed.

"That wasn't the last check. Such a report passes through several hands just to safeguard against error. Somewhere along the line someone had spotted the error and marked the discrepancy with a tick. Who it was we never found out and, whoever it was either forgot or didn't bother to notify senior men on the job.

"As a final check the report goes to whoever is in overall charge of the job. Thousands of such reports are filed and studied. But again the last incredible coincidence. This particular report never did reach its final check-point. It was the only one that didn't."

The young engineer and his superior died in the bridge collapse.

★ ★ ★

Mr. Sanderson opened his first office in Victoria in 1955 some 22 years after graduating from UBC. A year later he opened a second office in Vancouver.

Since that time he and his 40-strong company of consultants have been responsible for many bridges, large and small in all corners of B.C.

On Vancouver Island they were responsible for the Port Ellice Bridge—and, as a change of pace, the Esquimalt Sports Centre.

On the mainland five Sanderson designed bridges span the Fraser, including the Rosedale-Agassiz Bridge.

Sanderson bridges can be found at Prince George and in the Kootenays.

★ ★ ★

Bridges are Mr. Sanderson's specialty "but we handle any engineering projects except hydro" he emphasises.

The bridge Mr. Sanderson saw opened Friday has a special spot in his long list of achievements.

"I think it is significant that tawa and the east recognizes ed a B.C. engineer as their consultant for a bridge link between Ontario and Quebec," he says with quiet modesty. "It made what could have been just an eastern project a truly Canadian project."

It also pointed out that Ottawa an dthe east recognizes that their are some top-flight engineers west of the Rockies.

★ ★ ★

In addition to the honor paid Mr. Sanderson and his company when he was appointed consulting engineer for the first bridge span to cross the Ottawa at Hull since 1926, there was a second compliment from the east.

Ramsay Murray, a member of the A. B. Sanderson staff and another Victorian, was appointed project manager for the six-lane five-span 2,030 foot foot long bridge.

Small wonder that Mr. Sanderson was smiling happily as the government heads drove the final rivets Friday. It isn't every day that westerners get the opportunity to show brethren in the east how to build a bridge.

WEST GERMAN STEEL SALES TAKE JUMP

DUISBURG, West Germany (AP) — August Thyssen-Huette Ag, West Germany's largest steel concern, Friday reported consolidated sales during the last 12 months were 14 per cent above the 1963-64 level.

The sales value was at 8,600,000,000 marks ($ [illegible] 0,-000) during the compan [illegible] siness year ending Sept. 30.

Rolled steel production went up 13 per cent to 6,500,000 tons. The crude steel output increased by two per cent to 8,600,000 tons.

WEEK ON MARKETS

Investors Had Plenty Of Variety

By GORDON GRANT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

If variety is the spice of life, investors lived it up on Canadian stock exchanges this week.

There was something to suit all tastes: A booming base metal section, sharp gains to some industrials, sporadic activity in speculative issues and a surge of strength in oils.

For the first two days of the holiday-shortened week the market wandered aimlessly. However, Thursday and Friday produced sharp advances and an increased trading tempo.

Volume on the Toronto Stock Exchange Friday was 3,738,000 shares, the highest level since Sept. 1 when 3,987,000 shares changed hands.

Base metal stocks sparkled with investors clamoring to buy shares in companies with proven production capabilities.

PINE POINT JUMPS

By far the most spectacular issue was Pine Point, a lead-zinc producer with a vast ore-body in the Northwest Territories. The stock jumped $13⅛ to $86 and sold as high as $88 at one point. When the stock was listed in June its price was $43 and only a month ago it was selling for $64 a share.

The company has been making regular shipments of high-grade ore to the Cominco smelter at Trail, B.C. and to the Bunker Hill company's plant at Kellogg, Idaho.

Cominco, which owns 78.2 per cent of Pine Point's 3,989,963 outstanding common shares, tacked on 2¼ to 48⅜.

CPR, which controls Cominco, advanced 1⅞ to 68⅞ in good volume.

Uranium stocks were also in demand with Denison the most popular issue.

DENISON ON TOP

Denison, which has more than 25 per cent of the world's known uranium reserves, is considered to be the most favorably situated company in the world uranium picture. It rose 2½ to 38¾ and sold as high as 39⅜.

Rio Algom was up 1 to 20 and touched a high of 20½, its highest price since it was listed in 1960. Preston Mines, which owns more than 44 per cent of Rio Algom, was ahead ⅞ to 10½.

Falconbridge advanced 2½ to 106½.

In oils, Dome gained 1⅝ to 17¾ as buyers moved into oil stocks late in the week. Banff gained 30 cents to 7.70 in a late rally while Pacific Petroleum was up ⅜ at 11⅜.

Trading Hours Extended At Vancouver

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Vancouver Stock Exchange decided Tuesday to increase daily trading hours by eliminating the 12:30 p.m. to 1:30 p.m. lunch break.

The board of governors said that commencing Nov. 1 the VSE will have a 7½-hour trading session from 7 a.m. to 2:30 p.m.

The move will bring Vancouver exchange hours into line with those of other western exchanges, including the Pacific Coast Exchange which has trading floors in San Francisco and Los Angeles.

Unions Critical Of CPR Policy

CALGARY (CP) — Three Revelstoke railway union locals Wednesday said the Canadian Pacific Railway has embarked on a policy to discourage passenger traffic.

The remarks came at a Board of Transport commissioners' hearing into a CPR bid to cancel its Dominion passenger train. Hearings have been held in Vancouver and Winnipeg.

Unions represented were the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen and the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers.

INVESTMENT CHIEF WARNS

Canada on Verge Of Inflation

The president of the Investment Dealers' Association of Canada feels that all financial institutions in Canada will be strengthened following complete investigation of the Atlantic Acceptance bankruptcy.

Jean P. W. Ostiguy, in Victoria on an annual visit to meet with investment dealers, said at a press conference this morning that though the collapse of Atlantic was a serious shock to the business community "searching self-appraisal . . . will be the strengthening of our financial system."

Mr. Ostiguy warned, as other business leaders have in recent months, that Canada "is on the verge of an inflationary situation."

But he said that curbs on construction by the federal government and the watch-dog policy of the Bank of Canada would contain the threat.

WOULD BE WISE

Asked if he agreed with the recent suggestion that speculative stocks and straight investments should be dealt with on separate stock exchanges, Mr. Ostiguy said he thought such a policy would be wise.

But he emphasized that his opinion was personal, not the opinion of the IDA.

"In Montreal they are dealt with on different exchanges," he said. "And it appears to work quite well. Whether it would be equally good in Toronto or other places I don't know. My personal opinion is that it would."

UP-TREND SEEN

Mr. Ostiguy said he thought the Canadian market in general would continue to show an uptrend over the next few months.

"We went down when New York went down, as we always do," he said. "New York has now recovered all its losses whereas in Canada we have only recovered about half of ours. But this is always the way. We go down with New York but never seem to recover as quickly."

He said he did not feel the impact of the Atlantic and Windfall scandals were holding the market back.

"They caused concern, obviously," he said. "But I think we have recovered from them and will now see steady progress."

Asked if he had any idea what caused the surprising collapse of Atlantic, Mr. Ostiguy said it could have been a combination of two things.

"It could have been mismanagement—against which we cannot protect ourselves with rules and regulations—or it could have been plain dishonesty. Or it could have been a combination of both. We shall have to wait and see just what the investigators find out,' he said.

CITY-BASED PACIFIC COAL WILL EXPAND

VANCOUVER (CP)—Pacific Coal Ltd., a Victoria-based firm, plans further mining exploration as another step in possible development of a vast federal coal deposit in southeastern B.C.

The deposit, in the Fernie area, is estimated to contain as much as 7,000,000,000 tons of coal.

F. Maurice McGregor, president of Pacific Coal, said in an interview Friday there is a possibility of selling 3,000,000 tons of coal a year to Japanese steel mills.

This would mean about $30,000,000 annually.

Pacific Coal already has a federal permit to explore and evaluate the deposit. It is seeking another permit for exploration mining operations.

Deficiency Payment For Eggs Announced

OTTAWA (CP)—A deficiency payment of 4.3 cents a dozen for eggs was announced Friday by the agriculture department.

Average national price to producers of grade A large eggs in the support year ended Sept. 30 was 29.7 cents a dozen, 4.3 cents below the support price of 34 cents.

Grain Lack Draws New Protest

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Vancouver Grain Exchange sent a second telegram Friday to Trade Minister Sharp, protesting the lack of grain in Vancouver for shipment.

A spokesman said the first telegram, sent last week, had gone unanswered.

"Overseas buyers are dissatisfied and will seek supplies from other countries," said W. A. Sankey, secretary of the grain exchange.

"Old reliable customers like Japan will buy from the U.S. if they can't get delivery here."

Elevator stocks of grain in Vancouver on Friday totalled 4,800,000 bushels. An average of 13,000,000 is considered necessary for efficient operation.

"YOUR REALTOR"

When you consider the fact that Salespeople must depend on their own drive, ambition and ability to remain in business, and that their earnings are non-existent unless they DO sell, then you can say anyone who remains in the Real Estate Business for any length of time has to be conscientious, hard-working and honest. Year after year these same people perform their jobs without any actual monetary guarantee yet must adhere to a very strict code of ethics and all their dealings are subject to close scrutiny and control by the very active and capable Real Estate Board. In addition, every person must complete and pass a correspondence course from the University of British Columbia to enter Real Estate, as well as having a background that is bondable. Never before in history has the public been able to buy and sell Real Estate with such confidence and faith. No matter if their favorite Realtor had been formerly a car salesman, retired navy, University graduate or just a housewife, having qualified for the course and having been accepted for the bond, and with constant surveillance of the Real Estate Board, the public can be sure that each transaction will be handled with the utmost care and integrity. LATE CHRISTENING FOR NEW FERRY

. . . He Didn't Throw Strike

By RON SUDLOW
Marine Reporter

Victoria Machinery Depot president Harold Husband Friday winged a champagne bottle with a Sandy Koufax pitching motion.

But he didn't throw a strike.

The bottle glanced off the port bow of the B.C. government ferry Queen of Prince Rupert which inadvertently got an early start on her launch ways. The bottle fell intact to the ground.

A split-second before the new vessel was to be christened by Mrs. William Murray, wife of the Speaker of the B.C. legislature, an unidentified youngster accidentally sent the ship down the skids by triggering the launch mechanism switch.

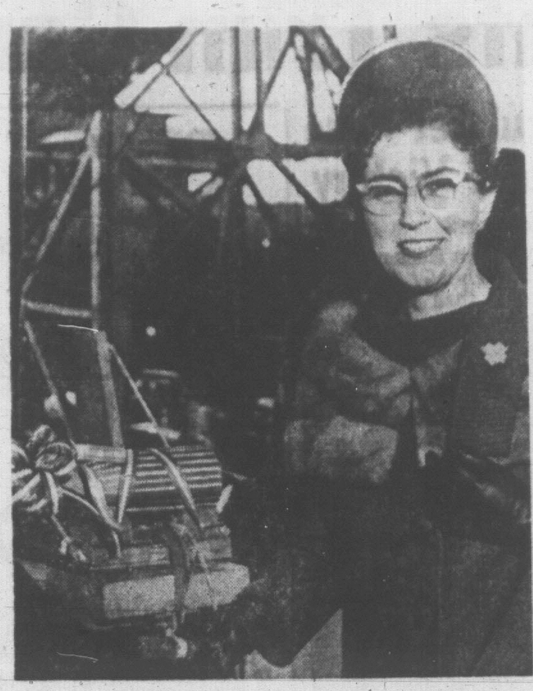
Mrs. Murray got as far as "I name this ship . . ." when Mr. Husband grabbed the bottle and flung it at the ferry.

The missile clanged against the hull but didn't break.

Mrs. Murray got a second chance later after tugs had nuzzled the 2,432-ton vessel into a berthing wharf.

This time there was no mistake. Bottle met steel with a solid whang and bubbly splattered.

And the youngster who caused the trouble was not present to interfere. He was probably getting his stern warmed by an irate parent.



MRS. MURRAY AND BOTTLE WHICH DIDN'T BREAK

ANXIOUS MOMENTS

Aside from missing the traditional launch with a bottle of champagne, the ceremony had other anxious moments.

A restraining line to a drag anchor of heavy chain snapped as the ferry settled in the water and a stiff wind blew her precariously close to the CNR slip at Ogden Point.

Only expert manoeuvring by four Island Tug and Barge towboats averted a collision.

Although the launch didn't go exactly as planned, it was still a proud day for VMD, Mr. Husband said.

He pointed out the Queen of Prince Rupert was the 10th B.C. ferry to be launched from the ways of his shipyard.

The builder termed the vessel "one of the most completely-fitted ships ever built in a B.C. shipyard."

The launching fell on the sixth anniversary of the keel-laying for the Queen of Sidney which marked the inauguration of the B.C. ferry service.

PRAISES MEN

Mr. Husband praised the work of his men "who have put so much of themselves into this vessel."

He pointed to the adjoining ways where the Bowen Queen, a smaller, double-ended ferry, was under construction.

And he reminded cabinet ministers on the platform it had been customary to lay another keel following a launch.

"The government has only to say the word and we will be happy to lay down another," he said standing in the shadow of the Queen of Prince Rupert's bow.

Health Minister Eric Martin, representing Premier Bennett, reported "tremendous response for reservations" before the ferry even took to the water.

Her maiden voyage out of Kelsey Bay is scheduled for May 20, 1966. The 22-hour, 330-mile trip to Prince Rupert will cost $30 for a one-way fare.

An auto and driver will cost $60 and 10 per cent reductions will be offered on return trips. Children 5 to 11 years will go half price.

The vessel is truly queen of the Queens operated by the provincial government.

The Prince Rupert Queen, modelled after Danish-designed Viking I and Viking II ferries which ply the English Channel, is the first deep-sea ship in the ferry system.

SHIP DETAILS

The 325-foot ship, designed to operate under storm conditions in the Pacific, is expected to inaugurate the "Route of the Haidas" and encourage circle tours through the province.

Her contract was awarded VMD June 19 last year and the keel for the $6 million vessel was laid Nov. 30, 1964.

She is single-ended with diesel-driven twin screws with controllable pitch set in front of twin rudders.

Manoeuvrability and stability is increased by active stabilizers and a bow thruster on the transversely-framed all-steeled hull.

Passenger capacity is 430 and 274 berths will be provided. Crew accommodation is 56 seamen and 13 officers. The new ferry will carry approximately 120 vehicles.

She will be turned over to the government early next year.

Worker Escapes Injury

It's a bad omen when a ship is launched without the traditional champagne christening.

And a Victoria Machinery Depot worker narrowly missed serious injury trying to retrieve the fallen bottle as the ferry slid prematurely down the ways.

The unidentified onlooker bent down to grab the bottle for a second try when VMD president Harold Husband yelled what sounded like "Robbie."

The man stepped back and let the ship go.

It was a good thing. He was straddling a heavy restraining hawser attached to an anchor of tons of chain which was beginning to be pulled by the ferry to the water.

Industrial Production Takes Drop

WASHINGTON (Reuters) — U.S. industrial production declined in September for the first time in 10 months, the government reported Friday.

The Federal Reserve Board, the U.S. central bank, said its index of industrial production dropped one per cent last month, placing output back at about the same level as in June.

The September decline resulted from a sharp cutback in steel production, because of heavy inventories built up before a wage settlement in the industry.

Strikes in the aircraft, auto, newspaper and coal industries also contributed.

Until September, U.S. industrial production had gone up steadily since October, 1964.

OTTAWA (CP)—Daily Selburn Oil and Gas Ltd. has paid $307,169 for oil and gas exploration rights on 3,083 acres of the Hay Lake Indian Reserve in the Rainbow area of northwestern Alberta.

The company won 10-year exploration leases on five of six parcels of land offered by the Indian Affairs branch.

PEARSON ASSURES EASTERN SHIPYARDERS

Merchant Marine Under Study

By VICTOR MACKIE
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Should Canada have an ocean going merchant marine?

Prime Minister Pearson informed union representatives in the shipbuilding yards at Levis, Quebec, this week that the question will be re-examined after his government has reached a decision on subsidies for Canadian shipbuilders.

The unions in the Davie Shipbuilding and George T. Davie Company yards at Levis, Quebec, sent a telegram to Mr. Pearson just ahead of his trip this week to Quebec City. They urged him to act to re-establish a merchant fleet for Canada.

Mr. Pearson in conversation with union representatives in Levis while he toured the yards, explained that a nation that wanted to compete successfully in the world today must look closely at any particular policy in the light of its general effect on the economy.

Canada is one of the great exporting nations of the world and must take into consideration the use of the most efficient and low cost freight services. Using such services was fundamental to the maintenance of trade, Mr. Pearson told the union chiefs, according to a spokesman in his office today.

He cited as an example that in the past two years Canada has sold large amounts of wheat to Iron Curtain countries. Such sales would not have been possible if Canada, like the United States, had to insist that Canadian wheat be carried overseas in Canadian ships.

CAREFUL REVIEW

The prime minister said the question of subsidies was now under the most careful review in Ottawa. He hoped that by the end of this year he would be in a position to announce what the government planned to do regarding the subsidy question.

The prime minister said that what his government wanted to ensure was that the assistance to the shipyards was in the form most likely to provide the most effective stimulus to efficient shipbuilding in Canada.

The union representatives asked if there could be a trade union representative on the maritime commission.

Mr. Pearson is reported to have said the future of the commission was being reviewed and the union's request would be considered.

to the Electors of Esquimalt-Saanich . . .

GEORGE L. CHATTERTON
Progressive Conservative M.P. Esquimalt-Saanich
1961 - 1965

I wish to thank you for the honour of being your Elected Representative in the last three Parliaments of Canada and solicit your continued support in the coming election. Your warm reception of John Diefenbaker, Clifford Waite, P.C. Victoria and myself was indicative of the feeling of Canadians across this great land, that a return to integrity and ability in Government was uppermost in your minds and that the issues at stake are:

UNITY THROUGH EQUALITY

Confederation was founded and rests on unity in equality between the two basic races in Canada. There shall be no weakening of confederation. The dismantling, piece-by-piece, of our country must stop.

HONESTY IN GOVERNMENT

The Canadian People have been shocked by wrong-doing in high places. Action to restore integrity in public life is imperative and will be proceeded with, vigorously and effectively.

Strong, Courageous Leadership

Courage, strength and honesty — these are qualities all Canadians recognize in John Diefenbaker. At the peak of his career, he will form a strong government of experienced parliamentarians, supported by New and Active Members of Parliament.

POLICIES for PEOPLE

THE PROGRESSIVE CONSERVATIVE PROGRAM

TO MEET THE NEEDS OF CANADIANS TODAY . . . TO EXPAND AND DEVELOP OUR COUNTRY FOR TOMORROW

1 An "open" Confederation Conference will be convened to draw up a blueprint for a new concept of our national destiny, based on unity through equality.
Confederation — our unique union of provinces and cultures — must be strengthened, not weakened. Closed conferences and secret deals have exaggerated differences and increased tensions. We have a right to know what decisions are being made about the future of our Confederation.

2 The 11% sales tax on building materials and production machinery will be removed.
The sales tax adds to the cost of homes and goods, raises prices in the domestic and export markets, and jeopardizes important job-producing sectors of the economy. The elimination of this tax will be a first objective of a PC government.

3 New agricultural programs will boost farm income.
A Progressive Conservative Government lifted western agriculture out of the doldrums. What we did for western farmers we will do for eastern farmers. We will revive the ARDA program initiated by the PC party; provide crop insurance on pasture crops to assist the livestock economy; establish an Eastern Feed Grain Agency; set up a National Dairy Commission, with $4 per hundredweight payments for industrial milk; encourage the building of agricultural schools similar to the Conservative vocational and technical training school program.

4 Homeowners' municipal taxes up to $500 will be deductible for federal income tax purposes.
Rising school costs impose an unfair share of the tax burden on homeowners, almost to the breaking point. The $500 deduction will mean a federal sharing of education costs with the provinces and municipalities.

5 Foreign trade will be greatly expanded.
The Progressive Conservative government opened up wheat sales in China and Russia and found new markets for Canadian goods throughout the world, creating the first commodity export trade surplus in years. Our new program will expand major port facilities in Canada, stimulate an aggressive sales program abroad, and welcome foreign investment in Canada without fear of discrimination by retroactive legislation.

6 New national development policies will be implemented.
Active resource development is the life-blood of the Canadian economy. Imaginative policies such as a National Power Grid will make energy resources available in all parts of Canada; a Water Resources Policy will preserve this valuable resource; a program of federal aid for parks will improve the recreational facilities around our urban areas.
A Progressive Conservative government will provide catch insurance and assist in marketing and export.

7 National plan for education—Canada's first—will increase per capita university grants from $2 to $5.
Higher education must not become an institution reserved for the privileged. Our new program will allow thousands more Canadians to obtain a university education; will increase grants for university expansion and medical research; and will be a stimulus to the whole economy. A Department of Youth will be established.

8 Interest rates on consumer loans will be reduced by the enactment of special legislation (Consumers' Loans Act).
Present interest rates add 20% and more to the cost of necessary and basic consumer purchases. High interest rates dry up consumer demand. We will provide urban dwellers with the same type of credit advantages now available to farmers.

9 NHA mortgages will be provided for older homes
NHA mortgages have been limited to new home construction. Mortgages on older homes will permit the mobility of people that is essential if wage-earners are to take full advantage of Canada's growth.

10 Old age pensions will be increased to $100 per month.
The needs of our senior citizens are not adequately provided for in the Canada Pension Plan. The cost of living has spiralled, and a pension of $100 per month is today's recognized level of minimum subsistence.

Vancouver Misery Ends As Leafs Trim Canucks

Marcetta, Hucul Set Pace In Opening-Game Victory

Victoria 4, Vancouver 2

VANCOUVER—The new Western Hockey League season is just one day old, but already things are brighter for Victoria Maple Leafs than they were a year ago.

MILAN MARCETTA
. . . leads attack

FRED HUCUL
. . . two goals

Last season the Leafs lost their first three games and during the campaign they ran into nothing but misery at Vancouver.

Leafs lost eight straight games at Vancouver Forum last winter but Friday night they changed the trend and carved out a bit of revenge as they took the wraps off the new edition of the Leafs and trimmed the Canucks 4-2.

Tonight they get a chance to make it two in a row as they take on the Canucks in a return bout at Memorial Arena.

With veteran, Fred Hucul handling the puck with skill and shooting with deadly accuracy, and the forward line of Andy Hebenton, Milan Marcetta and Bob Barlow leading the way, the Victorians dominated play much of the way.

CANUCKS FIGHT BACK

They stayed even with coach Bert Olmstead's club by striking quickly in each of the first two periods and then wrapped things up with a pair of third-period goals.

Hucul and Marcetta each finished up with two goals and Marcetta also collected an assist to make it a three-point evening.

Hucul got the Leafs out in front after only 42 seconds of the opening period and Marcetta again gave them the lead on a play with Hebenton at 38 seconds of the second session.

Each time the Canucks were able to battle back into a tie. Bruce Carmichael beat Victoria goalie Al Millar late in the opening period and Howie Hughes knotted the count at 2-2 late in the second.

AHEAD TO STAY

Hucul got an unassisted goal with a little more than seven minutes remaining to send the Leafs ahead to stay and Marcetta, again set up by Hebenton, wrapped things up in the final minute.

The Marcetta line was first assembled in a workout Thursday and coach Frank Mario decided to keep it together for the opener and his decision paid dividends.

Mario left the big Victoria line of last season—Lou Jankowski, John Sleaver and Gordie Redahl—intact and had newcomer Eddie Litzenberger at centre with Mike Labadie and either Steve Witiuk or Dick Lamoureux.

ROOKIE INJURED

All forward lines worked well for the Leafs, who had more of the play than did their rivals although Millar was forced to block 32 shots while Vancouver's Gilles Villemure was stopping 20 shots.

Canucks are expected to be without rookie Bryan Hextall when they move into Memorial Arena tonight. Hextall was taken to hospital after a third-period collision with defenceman Sandy Hucul. It was believed he had suffered an ankle fracture.

PENALTIES GALORE

Bucks, Seals Win Openers

A scoring rampage in San Francisco and a gloves-off fight in Seattle marked the opening Friday night of the 1965-1966 Western Hockey League season.

In San Francisco, the Seals popped in seven straight goals for a come-from-behind 9-5 win over Los Angeles Blades, while in Seattle the Totems went down 2-1 to Portland Buckaroos after spirited second-period fisticuffs between Jim Hay of Portland and Seattle's Gerry Leonard.

The Seals were trailing 2-1 at the end of the first period, but had managed a 7-4 lead by the end of the second. Al Nicholson rapped in two insurance goals for the Seals in the third.

There was a steady parade to the penalty box as officials called eight major penalties and 13 minors for a total of 21.

Whistles were tooting an even merrier tune in Seattle, where the defending-champion Buckaroos had 17 penalties called against them as they carved out their victory. In all, 29 penalties, including three misconducts, were handed out, topping the former league mark of 20 set at Spokane in 1960.

Totems, who received nine penalties, scored the first goal halfway through the first period and then were blanked the rest of the way by Portland goalie Don Head.

Cliff Schmautz tied it for the Bucks in the second session and Art Jones fired the winner with less than six minutes remaining in the third period.

The second period wound up with a fight after Hay hit Leonard with his stick. Some punches were thrown before the battlers wrestled each other to the ice. Both were given majors.

Hay's prolonged protests also earned him a misconduct sentence. Head also collected a minor, a major and two misconducts.

GREAT DEFENCE . . . . . . WHY RUSSIANS BEST

Volleyball Wins New Fan

By ERNIE FEDORUK

Personal note to Art Burgess, YMCA athletic director: If it won't wreck your new building's foundation, there's a sportswriter in town, 34, and 11 pounds overweight, all hot to trot down to the gym.

Be prepared to give yourself some room, Arthur, because I have the distinct impression that there may be others, too.

The Russian and U.S. national teams were in our town Friday, and it wouldn't be out of line to say they gave many of our citizens a new outlook on volleyball.

The Russians, of course, are the best this year and that was an eye-opening performance they turned in Friday for the benefit of 2,100 fans at Memorial Arena.

The Soviet women defeated the U.S. girls in three straight games, 15-2, 15-6 and 15-11. The Russians were tired (playing at a time they would normally be getting up for breakfast in Moscow), and the U.S. girls appeared to suffer, at the start, from a case of jitters.

Nonetheless, the opening games of the teams' cross-Canada tour were pleasing and impressive. But the best came later when the Soviet men's squad split up for an inter-squad game.

They promptly showed one and all why they rate as world and Olympic champions.

IT WAS GREAT

Blessed with the necessary ability and exceptional agility, the Russians treated the fans to a volleyball display the likes of which have never been seen in Victoria before.

Their spikers (the game's glamor guys—like the home-run hitter in baseball) are great. Their faking is tremendous. But if you came to find out why, really, the Soviets are world champs in this particular sport, you got the message from their defensive manoeuvres.

On defence, the Russians know no peers. It's a fact that U.S. manager Jim Coleman endorses without reservation.

The U.S., says Coleman, "can keep up with the Russians offensively, but not on defence."

"Our hitters are as good, but perhaps not as consistent. And we can serve just as well as they can. But we can't match them on defence."

The volleyball exhibition certainly seemed to be a success in the eyes of the fans. It also appeared to be a success for the organizers.

Victoria's Don Smyth, president of the Canadian Volleyball Association, was delighted with the turnout. "I don't know about the financial end of it yet, but we'll come close to breaking even."

A late, pre-game rush to the wickets took care of that.

"The most pleasing thing about it, though," added Smyth, "is the boost that volleyball received."

Ireland's Tarqogan Wins Cambridgeshire Handicap

(Times News Services)

The Irish horse Tarqogan won the Cambridgeshire Handicap today after a photo-finish for the first four places in English racing classic at Newmarket.

Second was Karelia and Langley Park third in the field of 30.

Tarqogan started at 100 to 8, Karelia at 22 to 1, and Langley Park at 100 to 8. The fourth horse was Indian Echo at 20 to 1. Joint favorites at 6 to 1 were Minor Portion and Off the Hook.

Tarqogan won by a neck with four lengths separating second and third.

The Irish-owned Tarqogan showed in the last two furlongs and put in a spurt at the urging of jockey Bill Williamson to get his head in front at the end of 1⅛-mile race.

The race, on which thousands of pounds will be paid out by the Irish Hospital Sweepstakes, was worth £5,157 ($15,471), to the winner.

In golf — Gary Player, U.S. open golf champion from South Africa, and Australia's Peter Thomson, the British open king, survived two thrilling matches Friday and reached the final of the Piccadilly world professional match play tournament at Virginia Water, England.

They teed off today as sole survivors of an invited field of eight for first prize of $14,000.

Thomson eliminated the defender, Arnold Palmer of Latrobe, Pa., one up. Player defeated Tony Lema of San Leandro, Calif., after 37 holes.

Thompson was four up on Palmer at one time and Lema seven up on Player at the second hole of the afternoon round, yet both the 36-hole semi-finals came down the stretch.

Naden Lads Snap Padlock on Goal

You can't lose if you don't let the other team score. That seemed to be the theory of the HMCS Naden sailors this week as they proved they have the best soccer club in the Canadian armed services.

The Naden lads put their theory to practical use again Friday and won the national crown for the second successive year.

They blanked a Black Watch army squad from Camp Gagetown, N.B., 4-0, in the final of the three-day tournament at HMCS Naden field.

Naden followed the same pattern in earlier games, shutting out an army club from Camp Borden, Ont., 6-0 and hanging a 5-0 whitewash on the RCAF entry from Gimli, Man.

Black Watch placed second and HMCS Stadacona of Halifax won the consolation final.

Lieutenant-Governor G. R. Pearkes, for whom the tournament is named, presented the championship trophy to the winners.

NINE RACES ON LAST DAY

There'll be one extra race Monday—the last day of racing at Sandown Park.

But, sorry, no betting.

As a gesture by the B.C. Jockey Club, the ninth race will be for non-winners. It will be run at 1:30, and for a purse donated by the track.

OAKS EDGE VIC HIGH IN PREP BOOT THRILLER

One blistering shot by Ike MacKay has propelled Oak Bay into sole possession of first place in the Inter-High School Senior Soccer League.

MacKay scored the only goal Friday night at Royal Athletic Park as the Oaks nipped Victoria High 1-0 in one of the most exciting matches of the season.

Play ranged from end to end at a rapid pace with the Vics having a slight edge in first-half exchanges and Oak Bay grabbing the initiative after the intermission.

Brewer Hands Punch Another Problem

(Times News Services)

Defenceman Carl Brewer, who left Toronto Maple Leafs' training camp to think over his future, has joined Bobby Baun and Eddie Shack of Rochester Americans on Toronto's problem bench.

"I haven't been feeling up to par lately," said Brewer in an interview. "I took a few days off to think it over. I'll have to discuss the future with my wife. After that I'll talk to Punch Imlach, coach and general manager of the Leafs, again, perhaps on Monday or Tuesday."

Baun, Brewer's defensive mate, returned to the Leaf camp Thursday after being absent earlier in the week. He talked contract with Imlach, but didn't sign.

★ ★ ★

And as if Leafs didn't have enough problems, Shack, who was demoted to Toronto's American Leaf farm club at the opening of training camp, threatened to quit hockey if he doesn't make it back to the Leafs within a month.

Shack indicated he wouldn't mind if Leafs traded him so he could get back into the NHL.

Brewer, who threatened to quit hockey a couple of years ago in favor of a teaching career, said:

"You reach a certain point in life when you have to make a decision. I think the time has come. I knew a few days back that I had to leave camp to sort things out."

AMAZING MESSAGE trailed field to final quarter, then came strongly on extreme outside, gained steadily and took over approaching finish. NO SOAP battled for lead with TRAVELING BEAU, shook latter off on top turn, opened up good advantage turning for home but could not match strides with winner in last few yards. COLINDA had no excuses being well placed throughout.
Declared—Miss Sierra, Totem Miss, Rani Jhansi.

8646—FOURTH RACE—Claiming, purse $650. For three-year-olds and upward which have not won three races in 1965. Three-year-olds, 117 lbs.; older, 123 lbs. WILL ROLL was taken under slight restraint early and waited to final quarter then was shaken up, came on extreme outside, made way up steadily and was going away at finish. IN ADVANCE was sent out to top from break, set pace all the way, only giving up to winner in final sixteenth. CARMER DOO went well back of leaders, had trouble when trying to move up on stretch turn, and might have been closer with better racing luck. LATCHER gave way in stretch after forcing early pace. Declared—Rondocal, Aleja, Sir Lea.

Racegoers Chalk Up New Betting Record

By HAL MALONE

Bettors on Sandown Park have been ultra-lavish this season. They poked $93,944 through the mutuel windows Friday, a respectable increase of $14,949.

With two days to get even—or even worse—the handle stands at $1,806,305.

If every patron of the turf merely stood and watched today and Monday (about as likely as the New York Mets being in the World Series next autumn) last year's record play of $1,578,739 would still be exceeded by $227,566.

The increased interest in improving the breed amounts to 14.3 per cent.

The average punter, absorbing these figures, might be inclined to ask the B.C. Jockey Club what future improvements it plans at Sandown-by-the-Sea.

It's a good question, but one aimed at the wrong party. The man to ask is Prime Minister William Andrew Cecil Bennett.

Last year as minister of finance, Mr. Bennett, who is against sin but not necessarily legalized gambling, accepted $1,700,000 in taxes from horse racing in B.C. This year the figure will be within a few $2 tickets of $2,000,000.

His cut is 12 per cent. The track gets nine and the federal government half of one per cent.

Nowhere in North America, South Viet Nam, Europe or anywhere else is the total take—21½ per cent—so enormous.

Some comparisons are in order. In Edmonton the take is 15. In Seattle the same. In Ontario it's 14½.

At Bay Meadows, near San Francisco, it's 14. At Santa Anita it's 13. At Winnipeg it's 19½, but this is only temporary. The Manitoba government loaned operators money to build Assiniboia Downs and is being repayed through an "abnormal" take. When the loan is paid off the government tax will drop.

With 21½ per cent coming off every $2 bet in B.C., nobody gets fat except the government. But the fact is that the government, by pitching its take so high, is cheating itself.

'Only the Bookmakers Get Rich . . .'

Statistics show that place and show wagering in B.C. is far lower proportionately than at other palaces of pleasure.

As one visiting track executive said: "At 21½ per cent, only the bookmakers get rich."

In Ontario, E. P. Taylor convinced the provincial government that a reduction in its take would ultimately result in vastly increased wagering which in turn would mean more largesse for the provincial treasury. He was right. In spades.

Premier Bennett has said that when a modern, spacious, well-designed track was built in B.C. he would give a second look to the tax structure. Last year the Jockey Club opened a $3,000,000 de luxe plant at Vancouver.

Says Jack Diamond, co-owner of B.C. Jockey Club: "The premier has always been fair. He's a businessman and I know he'll give this question serious consideration."

If the premier needs some interesting facts to study, let him cast his eyes over these:

1. B.C. Turf Club has never paid a dividend to shareholders in 18 years.

2. The new Exhibition Park was not built from the profits of track operators. The money came from the sale of Brighouse Park 10 years ago. Invested wisely it allowed Diamond and co-owner Bill Randall to erect the Exhibition Park edifice.

They agreed that improvements would enhance Sandown.

If the premier adjusts the tax structure and allows Exhibition Park to "get off the ground" then Sandown will get what the old girl needs—a face-lifting.

Juvenile Loop Opens Tonight

A four-team Vancouver Island Juvenile Hockey League opens its puck-chasing doors tonight in Nanaimo.

Victoria Nixons will play Nanaimo in the opener at Nanaimo's Civic Arena.

First local action will take place Sunday afternoon at the Esquimalt Sports Centre when Esquimalt McLarens meet Port Alberni, starting at 4:30.

The juveniles (18 and under) will play a 16-game schedule.

AUTOLEC APPOINTMENT

MR. LES LAMB

The appointment of Mr. L. S. "Les" Lamb as a Service-Sales Representative has been announced by H. H. Mossop, Manager of Auto Electric Service (Victoria) Limited.

Mr. Lamb has been closely associated with the automative parts business for many years, and as a result brings extensive knowledge and experience to his new position. This, together with the parts and service training currently taking place on Electrical, Carburetion, and Brake systems, will enable him to provide top quality specialized service to the Automotive, Industrial, Fleet and Marine accounts.

His territory, in addition to Victoria West, will include the Sooke-Jordan River and Duncan-Lake Cowichan areas.

SCHEDULE CLOSING

Mustangs, Hornets In Key Grid Clash

The Vancouver Island Juvenile Football League wraps up its regular schedule Sunday, and the main-event spotlight will focus on Victoria Hornets and James Bay Mustangs.

The city rivals, tied for third place, meet at Macdonald Park in a game that will settle the last two playoff berths.

The fourth-place finishers will play the first, and the second-place club will open against the No. 3 team in semifinal action on Oct. 24.

Nanaimo Redmen and Farmer Construction are tied for first. Redmen will be at home to Campbell River Raiders while the Farmers face Cowichan Timbermen at Carnarvon Park.

Should the co-leaders, not expected to have any trouble with the last-place teams, finish in a tie for first after Sunday, the top spot will be awarded to Farmers on the strength of their season's record against Nanaimo.

All games kick off at 2 p.m.

Benning Cup

Mrs. B. Keyes, scoring a net 151 for the 36 holes played, captured the women's Benning Cup competition at Victoria Golf Club.

Ladies will play a medal round Tuesday. Starting times:

Arthur Mayse

Since my filing system has begun to bulge my hind pockets, I think today we'll deal with a snippet of this and a snack of that, commencing with a reminder on an empty match folder.

"Call Joe," it reads; but since it doesn't specify which one, we'll pass on to the recent Retail Clerks' Union executive meeting in Vancouver.

The assembled delegates, Victoria business agent John Nickell reports, waited with more than ordinary eagerness for the last of their number to arrive.

This was Dave Masich of Prince George, a town which, even in the general B.C. beer drouth, is supplied through the liquor store by its own unstruck brewery.

Dave would have his car trunk loaded with cases, the bo, assured each other. When good old Dave showed up, the dry spell would, for the time at least, be over.

Like kids anticipating Santa Claus, they worried car, driver and precious freight down the highway.

In due time, Dave Masich arrived, to be met by a reception committee with bottle openers at the ready.

"Come on," a union brother urged him, "break out the beer!"

The pilgrim from well-lubricated Prince George smiled ar l shook his head.

"Sorry," he said. "Never touch the stuff. I'm a teetotaler."

Here's a note from a chum who has been fretting and brooding over the Canada Pension Plan booklet, a tasteful job with an appropriately blood-red cover, which Uncle in Ottawa hit us with a while ago.

"Early in the book," the complainant growls, "they provide a formula on which you figure out how much you have to pay. It goes something like this:

"You take your salary up to $5,000, or all of it if you earn less. Then you subtract $600, multiply your answer by nine, double it, cross off the last figure, and divide by 100.

"This is so reminiscent of the old trick questions where you guess somebody's age with a bunch of multiplications and divisions!"

It is indeed, and you can easily visualize the conjurer-in-chief of the federal gobbledegook department beaming as you come up with the answer, as I did on the third go-round.

As for the rest of the book, I'll understand it in heaven, perhaps . . . but not during my earthly sojourn in the welfare state.

In these pre-election days, candidates are galloping about the town like the white knight in the cleanser commercials who turns dirty shirts spotless with a touch of his magic lance.

Socred Frank Hunter, who, win or lose, was a darn good city clerk, stopped by on his rounds the other day. So too did Liberal Dave Groos, who makes time in an MP's busy year to take his young son fishing.

One night they slept out on an island beach, got up at dawn, and dropped a blue-and-white bucktail into the tide off Sidney Spit. Result: an 18-pound spring salmon.

★ ★ ★

Note written to myself: Tell how a 40-pound Labrador pup looks, playing with pink plastic mouse we bought for the cats. Well, he looks silly in the extreme, but even though he broke the squeaker on the first grab, the mouse continues to enchant him. He even goes to sleep with it under his paw.

For a puppy in the tearing-up stage, try a pair of tightly-knotted, and old, socks.

★ ★ ★

Another note, scribbled in the dark on the back of an envelope, about a quarter-mile from Vic High. Night school parking problem. Horrible!

★ ★ ★

And to conclude, a hope and a sigh for a good little Uvic magazine titled Tryste, which has just been kicked cruelly hard in the budget. It deserved better.

JOHN DIEFENBAKER
. . . answering the hecklers

PEEK-A-BOO!

Victoria Conservative candidate Clifford Waite literally tip-toed through his speech at Friday's meeting. The former naval chaplain had trouble seeing his audience over the high lecturn. But it didn't stop him promising higher things.

Armoury Rally

They Came, They Saw, They . . . ?

By JIM HUME

John Diefenbaker swung into Victoria Friday fresh of face but not, so many people said, fresh of message.

Welcomed at the airport by a slim group of supporters, he was whisked to the Empress for a brief rest and meal before facing a 2,000-strong crowd at Bay Street Armoury.

Even the staunchest Progressive Conservatives were not sure whether they were impressed.

Percy Hassall, 230 Henry, a self-confessed dyed-in-the-wool Conservative, said he had just turned out to see if "Mr. Diefenbaker had anything new to offer."

●

Mr. Hassall, who has never voted anything but Conservative, said he wasn't sure that "John was the man for the job."

"As a Conservative I do not consider John Diefenbaker as the man we need for a national leader," he said as he stood in the entrance to the mainfloor of the Armory.

"We need a strong man, someone like Mr. Bennett—but not as a Social Credit man, of course," he added.

Two elderly ladies who declined to give their names disagreed.

"He's a good man," they chorused. "He's honest, not like Mr. Pearson."

Did they think Mr. Pearson dishonest?

"Well, no, we think he's fine, too. But he doesn't seem to have very honest men with him; that's why we shall vote for Mr. Diefenbaker."

Mr. and Mrs. Basil Issigonis, 2124 McLaren, Oak Bay, left the rally early—because Mrs. Issigonis was sitting in a draft from the main door.

But they both said Mr. Diefenbaker wasn't saying anything new.

●

Would they vote for his party?

"Well we wouldn't vote Liberal," they smiled, walked off into the chilly evening.

George Cleaver, 1386 Courtland, one of the half-dozen young Conservatives parading on cue with banners while Mr. Diefenbaker spoke, was more specific.

"I like what he stands for," he said, resting his "Win With Waite" placard.

Dede Bumpus, 1640 Rockland, almost echoed the words: "I think Mr. Diefenbaker is the right man for our country," she said before she was pulled away by another party worker who advised her not to talk to the press.

Most people interviewed as they departed while Mr. Diefenbaker was still delivering his one hour and 15 minute address declined to give their names.

"I'm a salesman," said one young man speaking for himself and his wife. "I'm leaving for two reasons. One, the people I expected to meet here aren't here. And two, he isn't saying anything new. I expected to get a message of some kind, but I have better things to do with my time than to listen to that old stuff."

Mr. Diefenbaker ignored the steady flow of the audience for the exits.

The faded Red Ensign drooped behind him.

The band played one more chorus of "Hey, Look Him Over."

And the main crowd left, apparently as confused as ever.

Distributors Everywhere And a Loud Band to Boot

Nobody will ever know how many Progressive Conservatives were present at the Diefenbaker rally at the Armory Friday night.

There were Socialist "World Worth While" pamphlet distributors.

Pacifist "The War in Viet Nam Is Illegal" pamphlet distributors.

Student Union "Canada Needs to Provide Its Youth with Opportunity" pamphlet distributors.

Song sheet "Hey Look Him Over, Lend Him an Ear, Fresh In from Ottawa, Everybody Cheer" distributors.

And a loud band.

Conservatives?

Nov. 8 will provide that answer.

Victoria, capital city though it may be, is listed among the minor stopping points by Mr. Diefenbaker.

On this swing west the Conservative leader dropped in to Saskatoon, Winnipeg, Calgary and Victoria.

Today he is heading for whistle-stop speeches at Penticton, Kelowna, Vernon and Kamloops.

The next time around, during the final week of the campaign, he plans to hit the big cities like Edmonton and Vancouver.

His visit to Vancouver should prove the most interesting for during the last week in the present campaign Prime Minister Pearson will be there.

"It'll be like a back-to-back playoff game," one member of the press corps travelling with Mr. Diefenbaker quipped.

To date Calgary has been the high spot of Mr. Diefenbaker's western election campaign.

Members of the press corps travelling with him said the reception in Calgary was "fantastic."

"They have a new mayor in Calgary," one newsman said. "And he is working hard for John. The results showed. He had a great reception there, far better than Winnipeg where, to put it politely, he bombed."

For the rest of the tour the newsmen said people were reacting as could be expected.

"It's a strange campaign. So far people just don't seem to give a damn. They're either too confused to care—or they just don't care. They're not excited anyway."

Robert C. W. Jensen, 41, and his wife, Verna, are against war.

Friday night they were at the entrance to the Armouries distributing pamphlets asking Canada to "Speak Out" against the battle in Viet Nam.

And against war in general.

Mr. Jensen served in the RCAF in the Second World War, but became a pacifist later when he saw "that there was no point in it."

He was asked if he was a genuine pacifist or a "between the wars pacifist."

His answer, to his wife: "Have you any more leaflets left. . . ."

And he and Mrs. Jensen departed to distribute more poorly-typed pamphlets reminding people attending the Diefenbaker rally that "to be silent is to condone murder in Viet Nam."

Ban Noise Campaigners Get Hearng

About 100 residents in Oak Bay's Esplanade area today received an invitation to thrash out noise and traffic problems with council members.

They will meet councillors William Wade, Douglas Watts and Mrs. Frances Elford Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. at the Municipal Hall.

The meeting is a result of residents' suggestions on a questionnaire circulated by the municipality earlier this year.

Council has received several letters from residents during the past eight months.

SUGGESTIONS

Among suggestions to restore peace and quiet to the strip of waterfront roadway are:

- Extend the Esplanade north to the scenic loop on Beach Drive near Uplands Park.
- Make it a one-way street to reduce traffic congestion
- Barricade an extension of the Esplanade with a gate to be closed after a certain hour at night.

Aside from traffic problems and cars with noisy mufflers, residents have complained of the area being overrun with dogs, noisy beach parties and the street lights being too bright.

Ask The Times

Q. What percentage of Canadians are of French origin? N.J.

A. 30.4 per cent, says the 1964 Canada Yearbook.

Q. Is local artist Robert Wood also the California artist who painted "Autumn Leaves," "Sunset Shore" and "October Morn"? If not, are they related? T.A.

A. Local artist Robert Wood did not paint the pictures you have named. And he is not related to the California artist.

SEE CAMPBELL TUESDAY

'What Next?' Sidney Asks

By HUMPHRY DAVY

Embattled Sidney commissioners will go to Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell Tuesday to ask if they should "throw in the Towel" or continue in office until the December elections.

The meeting was requested by four commissioners following the resignation of Lt. Col. J. H. Larocque as village chairman.

Col. Larocque, elected by acclamation as village chairman three weeks ago, would not give his reasons for quitting.

"It's up to council," he said. "I have made my reasons known in a letter. If they want to make its contents known, they are at liberty to do so."

REASONS UNKNOWN

But Commissioner Andrieas Boas, spokesman for council, said he did not know the reasons for the resignation.

The council members are expected to discuss two alternatives when they meet the minister:

1. Resign as a body and request the appointment of a government administrator to run the affairs of the village until the December elections.

2. Remain in office and contest the issues dividing council in the elections.

SECOND TO QUIT

Col. Larocque is the second chairman to resign from Sidney council within three months.

Former chairman A. A. Cormack resigned Aug. 23, along with Commissioner F. S. B. Heward, over a $185,000 road development program dispute.

Earlier in the year, another commissioner, J. G. Mitchell, resigned from council on the grounds it was impossible to work with Commissioners Boas, Douglas Taylor and L. A. Christian.

Water Skiers Need $4,000

Canada's national water skiing team has four days left in which to raise $4,000 to meet its expenses for the world tournament in Brisbane, Australia.

Coach Clint Ward said today the team is short that amount to meet its $15,000 budget.

"We're going anyway," he said, "but it'll be touch-and-go to make ends meet."

A grant from the Fitness council provided $6,240. Additional funds were contributed by interested private citizens, clubs and industry.

The seven-member team arrived in Victoria Friday to round-out its training prior to competing in the world tournament in Australia Oct. 30 to Nov. 9.

The team will participate Sunday in an exhibition tournament at Shawnigan Lake from 1 to 4:30 p.m.

VICTIM of motorcycle crash in Vancouver last Saturday, Jean Hilsden, 2771 Dufferin, died Thursday. The 22-year-old nurse was given bike as a graduation present by her father. Miss Hilsden, who was taking a public health course at UBC, was engaged to a 23-year-old UBC physical education graduate. An inquest will be held, next Wednesday and burial arrangements announced later.

Meeting Tuesday

St. Andrew's Cathedral Council, CWL, will hold its monthly meeting in the parish hall, 740 View Street, Tuesday at 8 p.m.

SOOKE WANTS OWN HOSPITAL

Diagnosis 'Inconclusive'

By TERRY IZZARD

Greater Victoria hospitals' brainchild—a regional hospital district — underwent its first brain-picking session Friday night.

At the hands of Sooke residents the scheme was dissected, X-rayed and passed on for further examination.

Results of the first diagnosis were inconclusive.

They proved that district hospitals are in need of a thorough overhaul.

But they also showed a reluctance on the part of examiners to accept the prescribed treatment.

First and last cheer to ring through Sooke community hall came when one man stood up and said:

"We (Sooke residents) feel we are being overlooked.

"We need a hospital here—not in 40 or 45 years time—but NOW."

At the meeting were hospital administrators from the area and deputy municipal affairs minister J. Everett Brown.

They were appealing to local residents to support a plebiscite Dec. 12 which will ultimately accept or reject the idea of a hospital district.

REFERENDUM

If accepted, a referendum will be held in the 12 districts between Sooke and Victoria, appealing for $5,732,000 over five years to bring hospitals up to scratch.

In reply to the question of a hospital for Sooke, Mike Fraser, assistant administrator at Royal Jubilee Hospital, said:

"You'd need a 36-bed hospital for Sooke. You couldn't begin to finance the services you might encounter here."

CENTRALIZATION

He said hospital facilities are swinging towards centralization with smaller areas sharing the cost, adding:

"If you had a hospital here it would be no more than a clinic."

Several residents posed the question of chronic care hospitals.

Halloween had an early start Thursday when golden pumpkins, Jack-o' lanterns and other seasonal decorations added color to the auditorium in Britannia House for the annual bazaar of the Ladies' Auxiliary, Britannia Branch, Royal Canadian Legion. The sum of $530 was realized.

President Mrs. L. Rabey welcomed guests and introduced Mrs. M. Woodward, district representative to the Pacific Command, who opened the affair.

Mrs. D. Smith was general convener, being assisted by Mrs. N. Pelan and Mrs. I. Aitchison.

Candy-pink "toppers" and lace-trimmed chapeaux made imaginative toilet-roll and pot holders at a well-patronized fancywork stall convened by Mrs. E. Elliott and Mrs. E. E. Watkins. Mrs. E. Smith convened an apron stall and Mrs. L. E. Stidston was in charge of knitted goods stall.

Items ranging from chili con carne to candy sold quickly at a home cooking stall arranged by Mrs. J. McMillan and Mrs. M. L. Guyatt. Miscellaneous items ran the gamut on a stall convened by Mrs. J. Gardener and Mrs. A. O'Neil.

Other stall conveners were: Penny table, Mrs. M. Kendrew and Mrs. G. W. Wallis; plants and flowers, Mrs. D. Adams and Mrs. R. H. Willmott; dolls, Miss J. Mabey and Miss M. Mabey; tombola, Mrs. P. Percival and Mrs. H. F. Jarvis; grocery hamper, Mrs. F. E. Kamann and Mrs. E. Winters.

Presidents from other legion auxiliaries were special guests at the head table which was centred with a colorful arrangement of chrysanthemums in golden and bronze tones. Mrs. H. Pendray assisted tea convener, Mrs. I. Young. Individual tables were bright with miniature Jack o' lanterns, each with its "top-knot" of fall flowers.

Mrs. I. Forgues and Mrs. D. McCulloch were in charge of tea tickets.

SHOPPING GUIDE

Tried-and-True Brand For Top Beauty Care

By PENNY SAVER

Cosmetics seem to be such a problem for some women . . . an endless source of worry as they try to choose the type that suits them through a troublesome and often expensive method of trial and error. Sensitive skin often can't withstand the chemicals used in some brands, while ordinary skin needs something bracing to help it along to real beauty.

I got a tip the other day about a really special line of beauty aids, both treatment types and cosmetics, which I'd like to pass along.

Developed during the last century for a queen's use, these British-made cosmetics uphold the standards of excellence usually associated with goods from the "old country." Descendants of the queen in question still use this line, although of course it's been much improved and added to in the last 100 years or so.

"But they're just as good now, if not better," the saleslady at the Victoria store which carries this line exclusively told me.

Of the treatment products the firm puts out, one especially seemed to be a real boon for people with problem skin. It's a lotion, selling for $2 and $3.50 the bottle, which comes with its own little camel-hair brush for applying it. Excellent for acne problems, it refines the skin and draws impurities out of the pores. Intended especially for sensitive skins, one of its best features to me is the fact that it is not scented.

Another ointment, used as a night cream, is intended for nourishment to normal skin. It has a tightening, bracing effect, something I love, and sells for $2 or $3 a jar.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gibson, Victoria, wish to announce the engagement of their daughter Linda Anne to Mr. Eric Lauritzen of Vancouver. The Wedding will take place in St. Johns Anglican Church on Saturday November 20.

Miss Gibson attended St. Margarets School in Victoria and is a 1963 graduate of U.B.C. where she obtained her Bachelor of Science in Nursing.

Mr. Lauritzen obtained his Bachelor of Commerce in 1961 from U.B.C. and his Masters Degree in Business Administration from the Harvard Graduate School in 1963.

BE SMART—

Last year there were signs along the way . . . then Norell's models appeared this year in the brightest, reddest lipstick you've ever seen . . . and suddenly the pale face looks colorless, obsolete. Men love red lipstick, did you know that? If you cherish pink, outline your lips with a red, red lipliner, at least!

"I love you!" - The boisterous hug that Danny, one of the pre-school children that attends the Elford Street centre of the Greater Victoria Association for the Retarded, gives the group's executive director, Mrs. John Clark is adequate proof that the new outlook on life that your United Appeal donation helps provide is fully appreciated.

"Do you really care?" — This seems to be the question in the eyes of nine-year-old Kevin Green, 1505 Denman Street, one of the many boys between eight and 18 years of age who enjoy the adult-guided program of social and cultural activities at the Boys' Club of Victoria. The program has proven one of the most efficient 'preventive medicines' for juvenile delinquency.

How many times have you walked a street and stopped to wipe the tears of an unhappy child or pass the time of day with an elderly man or woman who's starved for the pleasure of hearing a friendly voice and enjoying the company of those who have the time to listen? Not often enough, perhaps. The streets are too long and too many, and your time is whittled away with more personal problems and responsibilities.

Most of us fall into this category. But, once a year we have a chance to provide a hundred handshakes and comfortings and spread our concern for our neighbor over an area denied to a single individual. This is October when volunteers for the United Appeal knock on our doors and our consciences.

Beginning Monday, more than 2,000 women and some men will begin the residential canvass which, it is hoped, will enable Victoria to reach this year's target of $439,210. Vice-chairman in charge of the residential section is Mrs. J. A. McArthur. Her four divisional chairmen are Mrs. F. G. Hart, Mrs. R. H. Brown, Mrs. W. Campbell and Mrs. D. T. Burr. Also helping to guide the small army of canvassers are 17 area chairmen and 109 team captains.

Continuing until the end of the month, they'll call at every house in the Greater Victoria area, determined to raise the money needed to keep the 23 member agencies operating for another year.

They're doing their part. Let's do ours.

Happiness is . . . the smile on youngsters like Rachel who discover that life can be full and meaningful when they attend the centre for the retarded on Elford Street.

Happiness is . . . the satisfaction known by Mrs. Ethel Corby, at left, when she finds that the mellow years can be rich and full of purpose as she discovers new friends at the Silver Threads Service Centre.

Mr. William Tymchuk, district representative for the Canadian Institute for the Blind, works on one of the many baskets that have almost become a trade mark of the blind in our area. Their sensitive fingers are taught to make these and many other articles at the busy centre. The CNIB provides a program of teaching, rehabilitation, social service, employment placement and specialized recreation.

Singing with a will under the guidance of Mrs. Alex Cuthbert, members of the Silver Threads Service choral group recapture the joy of their youth. The service, in addition to a varied recreation program, provides counselling, boarding and nursing home registry, activity programs in rest homes, volunteer visiting, assistance with denture and optical needs, transportation and health clinic.

Thousands of Greater Victoria families have benefited from visits made by the Victorian Order of Nurses. Here, VON nurse, Miss Elizabeth Hutchinson, calls on Mr. and Mrs. William Flynn of Dalton Street.

Doing The Town

with DOROTHY FRASER

In praise of our favorite store . . . Wilson's! . . .

This past week having the Thanksgiving holiday and all, we didn't get around to visiting Wilson's . . . so instead will take the opportunity of telling you something we've been mulling over in our mind for a long time . . . the various reasons why we so much enjoy shopping at Wilson's . . . To begin with, everything sold by Wilson's is quality, spelt with a capital Q . . . Their clothes wear for simply ages . . . and because they're so well styled, they don't date quickly . . . or bore you to death after the first few months . . . Reason No. 2 . . . Wilson's don't charge for alterations (except in the case of sale merchandise) . . . We've got a "thing" about this business of alteration charges . . . think when you buy something good there shouldn't be extra costs . . . so naturally this no-charge policy of Wilson's keeps us pleasantly soothed . . . Other reasons too, like good service, pleasant, helpful sales people, relaxed surroundings . . . And last . . . but far from least . . . is the fact that if you prefer not to pay for your purchases all at once, you can easily arrange credit . . . and there's never . . . we repeat, never . . . any carrying charge! . . . Have you ever figured out just how much carrying charges usually amount to? (if not, ask your husband . . . he'll know!) . . . So we say, hooray for . . . W. & J. Wilson Limited, 1221 Government St., 383-7177.

The granny . . . streamlined successor to the muu muu . . . is newest fad with West Coast teen-agers . . . de rigueur for dates and after-school wear.

Now shopping's better than ever at Miss Frith's . . .

This is anniversary time at Miss Frith's . . . Just two years ago last week they doubled their size and opened their ready-to-wear fashion section which has since become a Mecca for so many smart Victoria women . . . Last October, they increased the size of that . . . for more spaciousness, comfort and elegant surroundings . . . adding new lines of exclusive imported clothes . . . This year's anniversary . . . last week . . . is marked by the opening of Miss Frith's customer parking lot . . . at the Fisgard St. entrance . . . So now you can park your car . . . for free . . . and step right into the store through the newly-opened side door . . . Great, isn't it? . . . And such a convenience . . . Next time you're downtown make a point of going in . . . and do take time to admire a new shipment of imported one-of-a-kind hats . . . of which we've only had a peek at so far . . . If you're young and giddy, don't miss Miss Frith's new swinging co-ordinates for the complete look from hat to hose . . . knitted fringed ponchos with tams, purses, shoulder bags, gaiters . . . come in blue, camel, Black Watch tartan, as well as a bright red, black and gold plaid we couldn't identify by name . . . These are really unique . . . Miss Frith Millinery & Fashions, 1617 Douglas St., EV 3-4912.

Advertised in a N.Y. store: Fake fur hat, equipped with tiny transistor radio and earphone.

A word to the wise . . .

Don't say we didn't warn you if . . . a few weeks from now . . . you decide on purchasing something beautiful for your home, come Christmas . . . at Home Furniture's Gallery . . . and then find you can't get exactly the color or type of piece you want delivered in time for the big day . . . Right now the Gallery's chock-full of lovely things . . . but many are one-of-a-kind, and can't be duplicated inside of a considerable period . . . since they're all imported . . . The thing to do is make your selection now . . . Home will put a "sold" tag on for you . . . or in the unlikely event they haven't the exact article your heart is set on . . . put the machinery in motion for getting it fast . . . There's a marvellous selection of desks, both large and small, in beautifully grained swirl mahogany . . . taborets, nests of tables, Pembroke tea tables, coffee tables, chests, curio cabinets . . . to name but a few of the choice pieces that could add a note of distinction to your home . . . traditional furniture of lasting beauty that will bring you endless satisfaction . . . So don't procrastinate . . . visit . . . Home Furniture Company, 825 Fort St., 382-5138.

Chanel's romantic evening gowns have deep Bertha collars in ermine or sequins. Slender chiffons have long, "angel wing" sleeves.

A perfect holiday by air and sea . . .

Here's a holiday idea that really excites us . . . It even excites Paulin's who told us about it, and who are old pros at the travel game (but not, as we discovered, the least bit blase about it!) . . . It's an air/sea vacation to Nassau, Jamaica or Bermuda . . . those palm-fringed islands of eternal sunshine, so aptly named "pearls of the Caribbean" . . . Air Canada and P & O-Orient Lines have combined forces to make these trips possible . . . You fly one way, sail the other, on one of P & O-Orient's big luxury liners . . . There are eight tours in all . . . the first destined for Nassau on Dec. 3rd . . . by air . . . 10 days on that sunny isle, staying at the British Colonial Hotel . . . then aboard the Chusan, with a gala Christmas at sea . . . Back in time to see the New year in . . . Subsequent trips spread out over 1966 . . . five more to Nassau . . . one to Jamaica in February and one to Bermuda in May . . . Some leaving by air, others by ship . . . and it's an all-inclusive holiday, staying in the best hotels, enjoying delectable meals, exciting sightseeing tours . . . You may travel either 1st class or tourist aboard ship . . . all other arrangements are the same . . . Call in to Paulin's for illustrated brochure and information on rates . . . George Paulin Travel Service, 1006 Government St., EV 2-9168.

The one-bare-shoulder and strapless evening gowns now in the fashion limelight practically demand long drop earrings . . . no other distracting jewellery.

Saba's fabrics a real inspiration! . . .

The great couturiers, we understand, are largely inspired for their creations by the texture and colors of the fabrics spread out before them . . . And even we . . . who can't even sew, let alone design . . . found ourselves visualizing some mighty attractive outfits for fall and winter when we browsed in Saba's Fashion Fabrics department the other day . . . Brand new is their imported double knit jersey . . . 60 inches wide . . . both plain and printed . . . the latter in very pretty, blurry, understated designs . . . delectable shades like the mixtures of turquoise, blue and dark green . . . royal blue and black . . . brown and beige . . . a spectrum of reds or of greens . . . and for every print, there's a plain fabric in each of the predominating colors . . . We couldn't help thinking that with the outlay of only a few dollars, a woman could make herself a suit or dress rivalling any of the expensive imported knits! . . . Gossamer sheer wool and angora printed fabric from Switzerland comes in delicately beautiful color blends . . . as does the plain worsted crepe dress weight material, also from the land of William Tell . . . Loads of beautiful tweeds from Scotland . . . for coats and suits . . . at . . . Saba Bros Limited, 1130 Douglas St., EV 4-0561.

Straps, ties and bows and buckles are the fashion news in shoes. Spike heels are reserved for formal occasions.

Eaton's are great with weddings! . . .

It can be a pretty hectic period . . . that time between which a girl says "yes" and "I do" . . . but it needn't be for the bride who decides to enjoy her engagement and let Eaton's do the worrying! . . . Did you know that Eaton's provide "full coverage" for weddings? . . . Will arrange everything, including flowers, cake, photographs . . . yes, and your reception too . . . (at the Empress, Oak Bay Beach or Dominion Hotels) . . . and of course we needn't even mention the subject of bridal and bridesmaids' gowns, trousseau, ensembles for mothers of the happy pair) . . . The smart thing to do, almost the moment you're engaged, is to go in to Eaton's Gift Registry and introduce yourself to Mrs. Robertson who's an expert, and charming to boot . . . Sit down with her in her pleasant "salon" and talk over your plans . . . Even if the wedding is still far off, she'll help you choose china, crystal, silver . . . list your preferences for the convenience of your family and friends when gift-purchasing time comes . . . She'll even help plan your first apartment or house . . . give you invaluable advice on preparations and purchases . . . Whether your wedding is to be a big affair or strictly en famille, it will be lovelier if you let Eaton's have a hand in it . . . Eaton's Bridal Salon and Gift Registry, China Dept., 382-7141.

A New York store is doing a thriving business selling Navy surplus bell-bottom pants to girls.

A good cleaner is your clothes' best friend . . .

Some people we know spend hours selecting expensive clothes . . . wear and handle them with care . . . then when a trip to the cleaners is indicated, send them to the first such establishment which happens to be handy . . . without much thought about what happens from then on! . . . Now goodness knows, we're not knocking dry cleaners . . . but like everything else, there are so-so, good, and better cleaners . . . and we think ours is tops! . . . We're referring to Paisley Cleaners, with whom we've had considerable happy experience . . . and not a little inside knowledge . . . Philip Del Grande Jr., shoe authority, will be in a downtown store for two days this month, answering questions on the style spiral of women's shoes.

IN STEP WITH STYLE

By NONA DAMASKE

Here's the Man With the Answers

Why isn't there some selection in grey shoes? Fashion writers all say grey is "in" . . . but try and find a smart grey bag and shoe combination!

Damaske

With all the miracle synthetics why can't shoe manufacturers use heel lifts that will stand up to city pavements for more than a couple of weeks?

Why can't children's fabric play-shoes be sprayed to make them permanently spot resistant?

These questions and many others are asked of fashion writers. Authoritative answers are difficult for a layman but on October 25th and 26th your questions may be answered by one who really knows the answers.

Before Philip Del Grande entered his teens he had already designed and made a pair of shoes by hand.

On the death of his father, Philip Del Grande assumed the presidency of the Del Grande Shoe Company of Montreal. At the age of 25 he is the youngest president of any shoe company in Canada.

Born in Montreal, Philip is a graduate of McGill University where he obtained his bachelor of commerce degree in 1959. He majored in accountancy, his young love for the shoe business brought him into the company as assistant to the president.

The toes for spring will still be round and the wider ones will be flat on top to give a brushed down appearance.

Heels will be set back and for the most part will be illusion or lower in height. Heels may be lower and toes a trifle more bulky but shoes will still be beautifully feminine.

Spring and summer shoes for 1966 will enter the "little nothing" scheme of fashion . . . open backs . . . open toes and stripling straps. Late-day shoes will be glitteringly extravagant . . . an exciting accent to an elegantly simple gown.

Black patent will remain in the number one spot but will often be combined with straw, leather, reptile or silk.

Mr. Del Grande has promised us a sprinkling of pale grey.

Take advantage of this opportunity to see the first styles of next spring.

Consult this personable young man about shoe problems . . . tell him what you want to see shoe manufacturers do for the wearer. He wants to know what you want.

WORN FOR MURDOCK-WILSON VOWS

Great-Grandmother's Wedding Ring

Her great-grandmother's gold wedding ring fulfilled the tradition of "something old" for Gail Diane Wilson when she exchanged vows and rings with David Arrol Murdoch in St. Aidan's United Church.

A French-lace jacket topped the gown of white peau de soie worn by the bride. Similar lace was repeated in a panel highlighting the front of the floor-length skirt. The fitted bodice of the gown, which she made herself, featured a round neckline. Only jewelry worn by the bride was a pearl necklace. Her tiered scalloped-edged veil misted to waist-length from a jewel coronet and she carried rose carnations, stephanotis and ivy in her cascade bouquet.

Baskets of dahlias and gladioli were at the altar of the church when Rev. A. G. MacLeod heard vows uniting the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Murray L. Wilson, 3582 Richmond Road, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Murdoch, 1675 Myrtle Street. Mr. Wilson gave his daughter in marriage.

Organist Mrs. Vera Barclay played "The Wedding Prayer" during the ceremony.

Matching floor-length gowns of pink peau de soie, topped with toning lace jackets, were worn by maid of honor, Miss Toni Sucansky and bridesmaids, the Misses Diane Murdoch, Linda Wright and Joy Wilson. Complementing their outfits were floral circlet headpieces, edged with veils, pearl necklaces, gifts of the bride, and cascade bouquets of white glamelia.

Gordon Shipway was best man. Ushering guests to pews marked with white ribbons were Ernie and Jim Medland and Dave Wilson.

Doves holding wedding rings topped the tiered wedding cake which centred the bride's table at the reception in the Club Soho. Arrangements of pink roses and white gladioli completed table decorations.

R. W. Fussey proposed the toast to the bride.

The couple is now making their home at 1009 Fairfield Road, folowing a honeymoon trip to Washington.

For travelling, the new Mrs. Murdoch chose a two-piece pink wool suit, accented with velvet hat en tone, brown accessories and corsage of pink cymbidium orchids.

TODAY'S RECIPE

SALMON BUNWICHES

One (15½-oz.) can salmon, 3 teaspoons onion, minced; ½ ripe tomato, chopped; 1 tablespoon chopped parsley, ¼ cup chopped celery, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ cup mayonnaise, 10 hot dog rolls, mayonnaise, lettuce.

Toss drained and flaked salmon, onion, tomato, parsley and celery lightly together. Sprinkle with salt and pepper. Add mayonnaise and again mix lightly.

Spread both sides of hot dog rolls lightly with mayonnaise. Cover bottom with crisp lettuce and fill with ¼ cup salmon mixture. Top with a tiny cherry tomato and sprigs of parsley. Makes 10 servings.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Wolf, 2870 Austin Avenue, announce the forthcoming marriage of their only daughter, Brenda Jane, to Mr. Ronald George Grant, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Grant, 2421 Cedar Hill Road. The ceremony will take place on Saturday, Nov. 6 at 7 p.m. in Esquimalt United Church. Rev. H. B. Illsey will officiate. (Chevrons Studio.)

Lace Appliques on White Peau de Soie Gown

GRACE TABOR MARRIED TODAY

A floor-length gown of white peau de soie, styled with a full skirt slightly en train, was worn by Grace Catherine Tabor this afternoon when she became the bride of Clifford LeRoy Best in Victoria Gospel Hall.

The bodice of the gown was styled with a scoop neckline and sleeves ending in lily points and highlighted with lace appliques. A bridal bow accented the back waistline. Her two-tier veil misted from a coronet starred with crystals and pearls and she carried yellow roses, stephanotis and ivy in her cascade bouquet.

The church was decorated with arrangements of yellow and bronze chrysanthemums when Huron Sheppard heard marriage vows uniting the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Tabor, 1736 Kings Road, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Willard Best of Duncan. Mr. Tabor gave his daughter in marriage.

"The Lord's Prayer" was sung by soloist Mrs. Daniel Webster during the ceremony. Organist was Miss Grace Jones.

Floor-length gowns of peacock blue crystal charm, accented with cummerbunds en tone, were worn by maid of honor Miss Ruth Tabor, bridesmatron Mrs. H. Hill and bridesmaids the Misses Lorraine Lambert and Marilyn Hawes.

Complementing their ensembles were matching headpieces, pearl necklaces and bouquets of yellow chrysanthemums.

Flower girl Dana Webster was in a floor-length frock of white crystal charm with matching bow headpiece and basket of yellow chrysanthemums.

Douglas Best was best man for his brother. Guests were ushered to pews marked with blue and white floral nosegays by Harry Hill, George Heyd and Harold Dawes.

William Lambert proposed the toast to his niece at the reception in the lower auditorium of the hall.

Mrs. W. Sims made the wedding cake, surrounded with yellow tulle and floral arrangements, which centred the bride's table.

The couple will make their home in Duncan following a honeymoon trip to the mainland. A three-piece wool suit of turquoise, with feather hat en tone, black patent accessories and corsage of pink carnations was the bride's choice for travelling.

Indian Hospital Closure Protested by WI Members

A resolution protesting the proposed closure of the Nanaimo Indian Hospital was made when the South Vancouver Island Women's Institutes held a workshop in the community hall at Cedar. It was stressed that no hospital in working order should be closed and that the hospital could serve chronic cases of Indians and others in the community.

Mrs. H. G. Scott, Pender Island, president of the district board, was in charge of the morning session while the afternoon session was presided over by vice-president, Mrs. A. Feather, Cedar. More than 100 delegates and members attended, representing 19 institutes.

Board director, Mrs. E. G. Tatton, told of her visit to Denman College in Berkshire, England, a college owned and operated by and for WI members. In addition to handicrafts, a variety of courses is being taught there.

Workshops were held on raising of talent money, improving of conferences, the taking of office and other subjects. Mrs. E. Robinson, Shirley, gave an informative and humorous talk on use, preparation and handling of resolutions.

Miss L. M. Savory, who holds the oldest WI membership in the province, travelled from Victoria for the meetings. She was presented with a ribbon corsage and flowers.

A question box produced many interesting and helpful ideas. There were several displays featuring herbs and their uses, items from various parts of the world, articles made from local products, and examples of crochet-work, knitting, dorset and crewel embroidery, drawn-work, Indian basketry and trays. There was also a display of handicrafts, made by members of the Cedar 4H girls' group. Their leader is Mrs. H. MacLennan of the Cedar WI.

At the close of the afternoon session, tea was served.

DEAR ABBY ...

Cry of the Sexes!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Ask a man what type of woman he likes best, and nine out of ten will say, "Give me the feminine type." Well, I agree. I think women should look like women. But what is happening to our men? With their long hair-dos and tight pants they are beginning to look more feminine than women. Abby, help! I want a man to look like a man. How can we put a stop to this trend?

HELENE

DEAR HELENE: Don't worry. Even if men go back to the powdered wigs and satin knee britches, it won't "demasculinize" them an iota. Those men with bows on their toes and ruffles on their cuffs had hair on their chests and tigers in their tanks.

DEAR ABBY: I am 34, have eight children and have been divorced for two years. My husband left me when I was five months pregnant with my last child. I have no feelings for my husband whatsoever.

There is this fellow, Danny, who wants to marry me, but I don't think I should ever marry again. All my desire for sex relations is gone, Abby. It may sound crazy, but it's true. For this reason I am afraid I would never make a good wife.

Danny is clean, honest, hard-working and he is very handsome. He's 37 and we are both Protestant. He says he loves me very much and doesn't care about the "sex" part because there is more to marriage than sex. And besides, I might change.

Should I marry Danny, or should I go through life single and bring my children up alone?

CAN'T LOVE.

DEAR CAN'T: Marry Danny. He's right. There is more to marriage than sex. And with a man who loves you and is willing to accept you and your eight children, you may learn to love again. In fact, it would be almost impossible not to.

DEAR ABBY: Our daughter has been going with a young man for a long time and now he has asked to marry her. Last night he told her that he was a philatelist! Should we consent to this marriage?

CONCERNED.

DEAR CONCERNED: Why not? He has just as much right to collect old stamps as you have to collect old jokes.

DEAR ABBY: Last week I met the cutest guy I've ever seen. He was working on a job near my uncle's farm on a new government program. A bunch of guys are assigned to a certain project and they all work and live together. Well, these guys get awful lonesome, and I would like to get a job doing something in the same program, but they say they don't take girls. I cried my eyes out when I got home because I knew I'd probably never see this guy again. I didn't get his last name, but I gave him my name, address and telephone number.

Why doesn't the government let girls sign up for something in the same outfit so the guys won't be lonesome?

MET A DOLL.

DEAR MET: I sympathize with you. You feel like a prospector whose mule just dropped dead. You know there's gold in those hills, but you just can't get to it. Sorry, but girls can't sign up to work and live with guys. The government knows why, so let's just take their word for it.

Colorful Ceremony at Ganges

Peacock blue gowns worn by the bride's attendants and the contrasting scarlet tunics of the groom's attendants completed a colorful background in Our Lady of Grace Roman Catholic Church, Ganges, Salt Spring Island, this afternoon when Roberta Jean Akerman became the bride of Const. Henry Allard, Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

Matron of honor Mrs. Tim O'Donnell, bridesmatrons Mrs. Dennis Andrews and Mrs. Leslie Wagg, and bridesmaid Miss Catherine Akerman, sisters of the principals, wore floor-length gowns of peacock blue peau de soie, styled with bell-shaped skirts and cummerbunds. They had wedding ring headpieces, and carried bouquets of chrysanthemums and marguerites in cream and yellow tones. Flower-girl Patricia O'Donnell was in a full-length frock of white peau de soie, styled with a peacock blue sash. She wore the same headpiece and carried a colonial bouquet of yellow marguerites.

Fr. William Mudge officiated at the nuptial mass at the afternoon ceremony uniting the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Akerman, Fulford Harbor, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Allard of Duncan.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length classic gown of white crepe over taffeta, styled along empire lines. Scalloped silk gimp, hung with pearl droplets, complemented the lower bodice and elbow-length sleeves. Her veil misted to shoulder-length from a pearl and rhinestone coronet. A pearl pendant and earrings, gift of the groom, was her choice of jewelry. She carried a cascade of yellow roses and ivy.

Soloist Mrs. Sally Rogers sang "Ave Maria," accompanied by organist Mrs. Marilyn D. Taylor, during the signing of the register.

Const. Richard Brookbank, RCMP, was best man, and guests were ushered to their pews by RCMP officers Sgt. Philip Brunner, Cpl. Thomas McIntyre and Const. Richard Hall.

F. A. E. Morris proposed the toast to the bride at the reception at Fulford Community Hall, where the bride and groom cut a three-tier wedding cake made by Miss Catherine Akerman. The cake was topped with a miniature 'Mountie' and bride under an arch of white roses.

For travelling on a honeymoon trip touring Vancouver Island, the new Mrs. Allard donned a three-piece suit of green double-knit wool, complemented with green and brown feather hat, black accessories and gold chrysanthemums en corsage.

A number of Victoria residents travelled to Ganges for the ceremony. They included Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Brookbank, Mr. and Mrs. Lindley Brookbank, Cpl. Robert Dodds, RCMP, and Mrs. Dodds; Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Fitchett, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mills, Mr. and Mrs. Chris Ross, Mr. and Mrs. A. Russell, Mr. and Mrs. K. Tahouney, the Misses Linda Baker and Gladys Patterson.

Nanaimo guests were Mr. and Mrs. James Archibald, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Brookbank, Mr. and Mrs. R. Brookbank, Mr. and Mrs. J. Dewer, Mr. and Mrs. John Geshel, Mr. and Mrs. A. Gows, Mr. and Mrs. J. Ralph and Mr. and Mrs. C. Preston. From Duncan were Mr. and Mrs. George Philion, Mr. and Mrs. P. Remple, Mr. and Mrs. John Stewart, Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Brookbank, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bradshaw, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Cooper, Mr. and Mrs. D. Cooper, Mr. and Mrs. T. Carson, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Kyle, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Mayes, Mr. and Mrs. R. Norcross, Mrs. Jessie Allard and Mr. James Allard.

ENLIGHTENS ALL MEN

RC Declaration 'Only Baby Step'

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Roman Catholic ecumenical council's historic declaration on non-Christian religions was described today as only a baby step on a new highway of dialogue with the ancient religions beyond Christianity.

The council's 2,200 bishops gave final approval Friday to a document that pays honor to the teachings, rules of life and sacred rites of two-thirds of the world — the Moslems, Hindus, Buddhists and others.

Much attention outside the council went to the declaration's much-disputed sections on Jews, a section rejecting anti-Semitism and warning that nothing in the gospels should be construed as presenting the Jewish people as "rejected by God or accursed." It says the crucifixion cannot be blamed on all Jews of Christ's day or on any Jews of today.

'ENLIGHTENS ALL MEN'

As for the other non-Christian creeds, the text says Roman Catholicism "rejects nothing that is true and holy in these religions." It says the church has reverence for those things in the other faiths that "often reflect a ray of that truth which enlightens all men."

Finally, the declaration says Catholicism "exhorts her sons that through dialogue and collaboration with the followers of other religions, carried out with prudence and love and in witness to the Christian faith and life, they recognize, preserve and promote those spiritual and moral goods as well as those sociocultural values found among these men."

"The section on non-Christians will be regarded in a few centuries as naive," commented Rev. Thomas Stransky of Milwaukee, a specialist on the Vatican's Christian unity secretariat staff.

"We are only starting in this area. The World Council of Churches and other Christian bodies have been facing up to the question of dialogue with the non-Christian religions."

SOVIET author Mikhail Sholokhov today accepted the 1965 Nobel Prize for literature, the same award he criticized when it was given to Boris Pasternak in 1958, according to an announcement by Tass news agency. The report was the first word from Sholokhov on the award made Friday.

PLANNER SAYS

Hospital Tax Only Fair Way

Extensive new hospital construction is urgently needed in the capital region and the only fair way to finance it is through taxation, the chairman of the Victoria and District Hospitals Planning Council said Friday.

"Voluntary donations have proven, time and time again, to be both inadequate in amount and unfairly distributed as to donors," said Joseph Casey.

To take care of hospital needs, more than $5 million must be raised by residents in this area.

"This is in addition to amounts which will be granted from the provincial and federal treasury," he said.

The Victoria and District Hospitals Planning Council felt the only equitable way the money can be raised is under the proposed regional board machinery.

TISDALLE RAPPED

Mr. Casey criticized Saanich Social Credit MLA John Tisdalle, who attacked the proposed tax system and favored voluntary contributions.

"Mr. Tisdalle's plan would not bring in the proper proportion of revenue from the unorganized territories where there are 30,000 residents and it must be remembered that 17 per cent of the patients in the major Victoria hospitals are from portions of the community other than the organized areas," said Mr. Casey.

"We are convinced that it is pure folly to think that better, or even adequate, hospital facilities for a rapidly-expanding population can be provided by anything other than a broadly-based, fairly-imposed assessment on all individuals who may have need of hospital services.

"A form of regional taxation, collected throughout our whole Capital City area, is the only equitable and realistic approach."

LOCAL BRIEFS

A man who was chased through a residential zone at speeds up to 55 mph, pleaded guilty Friday in central court to an impaired driving charge.

Percy Moore, 2862 Wyndeatt, was remanded to Oct. 22 for pre-sentence report and sentence.

Police said he was seen driving north on Adelaide Street and they immediately gave chase.

Moore finally stopped in his driveway, court was told.

Civic employees should get the same Christmas and New Year's holidays as provincial government workers, Greater Victoria intermunicipal committee recommended Wednesday.

For uniformity within the capital region, municipal employees should be off the Friday before Christmas (Dec. 24) and Monday following (Dec. 27), and Dec. 31, the Friday before New Year's.

The provincial government has already passed an order in council setting the holidays for its staff.

A young man whose trouble, according to Magistrate William Ostler, is "self-indulgence," was put on probation for 18 months Friday.

Heinrich Beyer, 2533 Quadra, was earlier convicted of theft. He stole an oven and a heater belonging to his landlady and pawned them for $5 each.

The magistrate said Beyer's attitude is to make himself as comfortable as possible.

He ordered Beyer to give up his driver's licence and not drive anywhere in Canada for six months.

Mrs. G. H. Hayhurst of Victoria has been elected president of the James Bay Parent Teachers Association.

Other officers include Mrs. A. L. Lajoie, vice-president; Mrs. D. L. Langstaff, secretary, and Mrs. A. S. Scott, treasurer.

Woman Fined $100 For False Pretences

Ajeet Dheensaw, 1760 Taylor, was fined $100 in city court Friday when sentenced for obtaining goods by false pretences from a downtown store.

Magistrate William Ostler said a pre-sentence report showed there was "no reason or excuse" for the offence because the woman is in comfortable circumstances.

DIVOTS FLY AS PHILIP LANDS PLANE

PERTH, Scotland (AP) — Prince Philip, personally piloting his plane on a flight from Milan, Italy, tore up turf along the runway in landing Friday night at Scone Airport near here.

"I'm sorry for making a mess of your runway," he told airport officials and ground crew members.

Prince Philip had made a perfect landing in the Andover plane, but as he taxied to one of the main hangars the plane's wheels tore large pieces of turf from the edge of the runway.

MANY SIDES OF BISHOP PIKE

Damned as Heretic—Blessed as Prophet

By JACK SCHREIBMAN

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Bishop James A. Pike, 52, is a man damned as a heretic and blessed as a prophet.

The wiry, chain-smoking Episcopalian (Anglican) plunges on to slash at barriers which he believes lie in man's path to God.

★ ★ ★

A former Roman Catholic and a former agnostic, this intense, many-sided churchman says he is not discouraged by heresy charges of the fierce and often anxious barbs directed at him by churchmen and laymen alike.

"I am free of the fear of what other people think . . . what the price may be."

★ ★ ★

What sort of bishop is this who, within councils of a religious system with a 2,000-year tradition, challenges the doctrine of virgin birth; discounts the doctrine of the trinity and belittles articles of religion in the prayer book of his church?

★ ★ ★

Pike's own image of himself is as "a theological Socrates who, like that philosopher, is always ready to ask of any man or any idea: Why?

Like Socrates, the bishop is a tough man to "turn off." Those around him know him as a charming gentleman of culture and warmth, who can't bear to let a question go by until it is fully, and exhaustively, explained.

When Pike explains, he makes headlines. His opponents have a field day with him, regularly charging him with blasphemy and heresy.

Pike says his enemies are "Goldwater conservatives" and segregationists, mainly, who oppose his liberal views or long-time efforts on behalf of equal rights for Negroes. In the ranks of his foes he lists fundamentalists who believe in the Bible as literal history.

★ ★ ★

"They worship earthen vessels instead of the treasure."

Pike was born in Oklahoma City, Okla. His father died when Pike was young. The family moved to southern California and the boy attended Hollywood High School. While a senior, he began seriously considering a vocation to the Roman Catholic priesthood.

★ ★ ★

"Seeing the religious question to be the foremost one, I gave up a chance to go to Harvard on a scholarship, choosing instead to study with Jesuits in what was then a small college University of Santa Clara, since I understood they would know the most about the faith I had begun to question."

He found it more and more difficult to accept the Roman Catholic position on birth control and papal infallibility.

He left Santa Clara in 1932 after two years. He says he "very quickly" lost his Christian faith and became an agnostic who neither rejected nor accepted religion.

★ ★ ★

He graduated from the University of Southern California with degrees in arts and law, then took a doctor of law degree at Yale.

In 1942, he married Esther Yanovsky, a former student of his at George Washington University. Soon afterwards he decided to return to religion out of a need for "a more meaningful life." They chose the Episcopal church.

★ ★ ★

The Second World War intervened in any immediate plans, but he was in a hurry. While serving as a naval intelligence officer on the secret dispatch desk, Pike was admitted as a postulant in the Washington Episcopal diocese. He was ordained a deacon in 1944.

He was elevated to the priesthood and, after six years, in 1952 became dean of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine in New York.

★ ★ ★

Pike became Bishop of California in 1958 and has been a headline figure ever since.

Centennial United

Church choirs, big and small, have been called the backbone of the nation's music. They raise the morale of service and keep up the tempo of congregational singing. The Times, each week, features one of the many choirs in the city.

The mixed choir at Centennial United Church, founded in 1885, is conducted by Mrs. Marion Espin (far left) and accompanied by Mrs. Fred Wilmshurst (far right) who has been organist for 12 years past. The many able musicians who have led the choir over the years include Lyle Henderson, Julian White, Peter Copeland, J. W. Buckler and Frank Tupman. This Sunday the choir will sing Dear Lord and Father of Mankind and Jerusalem. Mrs. Shirley Jordens will be soloist.

NEWS FROM CITY CHURCHES

Sunday Is Laymen's Day For Most Congregations

This Sunday will be observed in churches throughout Victoria and Vancouver Island as Laymen's Sunday.

In St. Matthias' Anglican Church, James Mainguy will sing the responses usually sung by a clergyman, and Graeme Malcolm will conduct the second part of the service.

The scripture lessons will be read by Gerry Sadler and Squrn.-Ldr. Aubrey Collis and the sermon will be given by Leslie Salmon.

At Evensong, Robert Unwin will be installed as head server, Frank May as senior server and Rick Senkler as secretary-treasurer of St. Matthias' Servers Guild.

The service will be conducted by Frank May and Robert Unwin, and the lessons will be read by Rick Senkler and Bruce McKean, retiring head server.

David Brown will give the address.

★ ★ ★

The Reeve of North Cowichan, Don Morton, will speak at the 11 a.m. service in Fairfield United. Ald. Robert Baird will read the lesson and Frank Hunter, former city clerk in Victoria, will lead the congregation in prayer.

In the evening, the minister, Rev. H. W. Kerley, DD, will speak on Discovering Our Real Selves.

Soloist at both services will be Mrs. Winnifred Sedgley.

★ ★ ★

In Metropolitan United Sunday at 11 a.m., Wilfred Spearman will speak on The Christian Layman and His Church. Mrs. T. G. Sewell will speak for the United Church Women and Roy Baker for the Metropolitan Men's Club.

The Sanctuary Choir, conducted by Frank Tupman, will sing Open Thy Gates, The Lord Is My Light and Be Ye All of One Mind.

At the evening worship, to be broadcast over CJVI, Rev. Albert King will speak on Christ's Conception of Goodness.

Eric Boothroyd's organ preludes will be Largo, Allegro, Aria and two Variations (Festang) and Legend (Dvorak).

In St. John's Anglican Church, the sermon at 9:30 a.m. will be given by Jack Ozard and the lessons at 11 a.m. will be read by Everett Brown and Douglas Patterson.

★ ★ ★

Rev. Chadbourne A. Spring will give a tribute to the late Dr. Albert Schweitzer at the Sunday morning services of Victoria Unitarian Church at 9:30 and 11 a.m.

Mr. Spring, whose home church is the East Shore Unitarian Church, Bellevue, Washington, has been associated with Unitarian Church in Ohio and Massachusetts since 1936.

★ ★ ★

Don Simpson will speak on Operation Crossroads—Africa in First United Church at 9:30 a.m. W. H. Gregory will sing O God Have Mercy and the choir will present the Twenty-Third Psalm.

At 5 p.m. Rev. Robert J. D. Morris will speak on Come Holy Spirit at the vesper service. Rev. Marvin G. Fowler will speak at an informal service of worship in the Youth Room at 7:30 p.m.

The Protestant Faith will be the subject of Rev. J. Lewis McLean, DD, in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church Sunday at 11 a.m.

There will be a fellowship hour in the Kirk Hall, with refreshments and a colored movie, after the evening worship.

★ ★ ★

In First Baptist Church Sunday morning the worship will centre around Corinthians 2, verses 17-21, in which the apostle Saint Paul describes the ministry that is entrusted to laymen. Wendy Cox will be guest soloist and the choir will sing the anthem Holy, Holy, Holy.

In the evening, Rev. John A. Watson will speak on Christian Vitality.

★ ★ ★

The morning service in Belmont Avenue United Church will be conducted by Arthur Robinson and Elder Ray Nesbitt will speak on The Church in a Fragmented World.

In the evening, the guest speaker will be Jim Baker from Johannesburg, South Africa. Sharing in the service will be Norman Cook, president of the Kairos.

★ ★ ★

In Emmanuel Baptist Church, Rev. A. C. Hamill will take as his topic: Teen-ager: What Is Your God?" The choir anthem will be Hymn to the Trinity.

At 7:30 p.m., laymen of the church will participate in the gospel service and Mr. Hamill will speak on The Wisest of God's Men.

GENERAL secretary of the Canadian Bible Society, Rev. Dr. Kenneth McMillan will address a supper meeting in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Kirk Hall on Monday, Oct. 25, at 6:15 p.m. His subject will be The Church Encounters a New Age.

Real Answer, Third Lecture In Series

Third in the series of Living Book lectures, The Real Answer, will be given by Bishop Denys Rankilor of the Church of Our Lord in St. Andrew's Kirk Hall Tuesday at 8 p.m.

Questions will be addressed to him by Mrs. Dick Spicer, Ian Arrol and Diane Wheeler.

The Living Book series is being sponsored by Greater Victoria Council of Churches under the direction of Canon Hilary Butler.

Drama Group Formed, All Faiths Invited

A resident drama group has been formed by the Christian Education Committe at First United Church.

Advisor to the group will be Rob Nelson, director of Christian education at the church.

"TV has ended for all time the effectiveness of the bathrobe pageant in the church," he says. "Today we must compete with mass media to communicate the great truths of the Christian faith.

"Drama, in the proper setting, is a most effective vehicle for this purpose."

Mr. Nelson hopes the group will have representatives from many different churches.

"I hope that even the Roman Catholic Church will support us in this ventre. After all, drama in the church had its origin in their tradition.

"All interested persons, adults and young people, whether affiliated with a church or not, are invited to join this new drama venture," he said.

They may contact Mr. Nelson at 477-2691 for more information.

Halloween Party

The Unitarian Church of Victoria will hold a Halloween party in the Optimist Hall, 106 Superior Street, Friday, Oct. 29.

Prizes will be presented for original costumes.

105th Year To Be Marked By St. Luke's

St. Luke's Parish Church at 3821 Cedar Hill Cross Road is celebrating the 105th anniversary of its founding Sunday.

The first service in the area, then known as Cedar Plains, was conducted by Bishop William Hills in 1860. Later Bishop Hills appointed Rev. A. C. Garrett as missionary in charge of the district.

The first church was built in 1862 and replaced by the present building in 1887.

St. Luke's has been called the mother church of a large part of the peninsula. Out of its original district have come the parishes of St. Michael's, Royal Oak; St. Mark's, Cloverdale; St. Alban's, Ryan Street; St. George's, Cadboro Bay; St. Dunstan's, Gordon Head, and St. Peter's, Lake Hill.

Many well-known clergy have served the parish, including the late Bishop George A. Wells of the Cariboo, Archdeacon H. A. Collinson, Archdeacon Robert Connell, Canon Frederick Pike, and the present rector, Archdeacon C. E. F. Wolff.

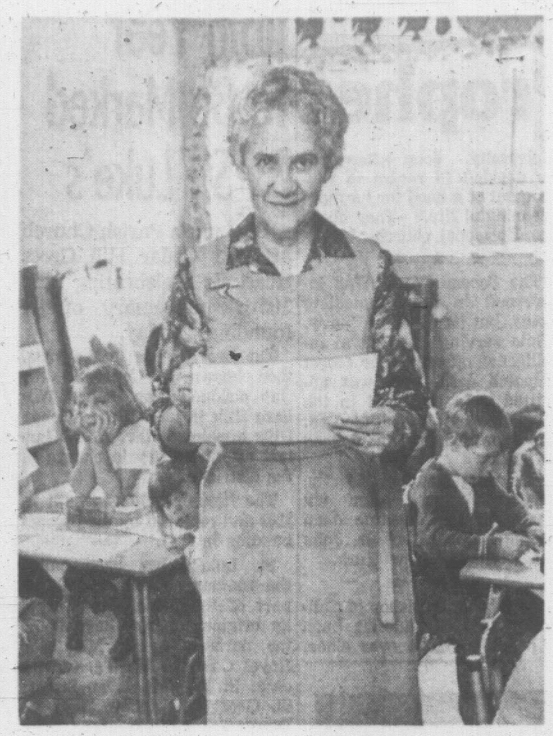
Mrs. R. N. McGee at her drafting board, busy on the latest of her house designs, this one to be built on Salt Spring Island.



Mrs. John Pettersen, with 34 years' teaching as background, is never happier than when she's with her small pupils.

Women Play Important Part in City

BUILDING MINDS AND HOMES

By PAT DUFOUR

Monday will see the beginning of Business Women's Week in Victoria and it seems an appropriate time to focus attention on some of the women who contribute in outstanding measure to the business life of our city.

Two such women are Mrs. R. N. McGee and Mrs. John Pettersen, both members of the Victoria Business and Professional Women's Club, which, together with its Oak Bay and Sidney counterparts, is sponsoring the week's special events.

Anne McGee is a soft-spoken woman who's made an attractive impact on our surroundings by designing hundreds of Victoria homes.

An architectural draftsman, she operates a one-woman company, the services of which is much in demand by architects, contractors and individuals. Not only does she design and draw up plans for Victoria homes, she's also responsible for many of the artistic houses that have been built from here to Campbell River and others that are being planned by the rapidly growing community on Salt Spring Island.

FIRST IN B.C.

Anne McGee was the first woman student in B.C. She served a four-year apprenticeship in a Vancouver architect's office, on the instigation of the man who was later to be her husband.

"He was a student at the time and thought it would be a good idea if I tried it because of my liking for mathematics. He eventually changed his mind about his own profession and became a civil engineer but I've never regretted the choice he persuaded me to make."

The McGees came to Victoria 12 years ago. Prior to this, Mrs. McGee did her part in changing the skyline in Vancouver and also managed a wartime stint as a draftsman for the United States Army Engineer Corps.

"This was when we lived in Edmonton, my main projects being air bases in the north and USO buildings."

But, Mrs. McGee admits that her preference leans toward home designing. "There's a lot of satisfaction in knowing that you've created a house that will make another woman and her family very happy."

Did she design the Rockland Avenue home where the McGees and their two teenage daughters, Diane and Yvonne, live? "No, ours happens to be one designed by John Di Castri. But, I have plans to build one some day."

While Anne McGee spends her working hours building dream houses, Gladys Pettersen uses hers to build the minds of youngsters.

Mrs. Pettersen began her teaching career at the age of 18 and her first assignment was one that would have daunted a less-devoted mentor.

A graduate of the Vancouver Normal School, her first appointment saw her teaching a Grade 1 class in the Fraser Valley district. "There were more than 40 in the class, all new Canadians, unable to speak English, immigrants from 15 different countries."

Her first job was to teach them English and this she did by the use of signs and objects. "My mother used to say that I used to cart everything to school except the washing machine, kitchen sink and her bed, and she expected these to go anytime!"

A GOOD START

What made her want to tackle a seemingly-impossible situation? "I've always loved to work with small children and this seemed a good way to start."

She's been teaching small children ever since. Except for four years out, when she stayed home to care for her own two children, Mrs. Pettersen has devoted her professional life to the care of other families . . . 34 years, in all.

Fathers and mothers will remember the days they spent as her pupils, some at Oaklands, others at Bank Street and still more, at Monterey School.

It was while she was at Monterey School that Mrs. Pettersen decided to do something constructive about readjustment problems facing children entering public school for the first time.

"I'd seen so many children appear at school, totally unprepared for this new phase of their life, some were from families with only one child, others suffered from overprotective mothers who had devoted themselves to their children but had not given the youngster a chance to become part of a social group."

Twelve years ago, Mrs. Pettersen began her own school at 1061 Foul Bay Road. Jiminy Crickets School, with its pupil population of over 200 and staff of 13 qualified teachers is the largest of its kind in Canada. Starting as kindergarten, it's grown to encompass training and teaching for children of three to the completion of the grade two level. The waiting list soars higher every year.

Still vitally concerned with the importance of good guidance for the young minds that learn to blossom in her school, Mrs. Pettersen has two ambitions which, even to this dauntless woman, still seem elusive.

NOT CONCERNED

"At present, the provincial education department is not the slightest bit concerned about the function of private schools. Do you know that we have to obtain a licence from the welfare department, just like any nursing home or institution? In other words, all that worries them are the physical aspects, not the standard of training.

"There's not even a private school act as the counterpart of the public schools' one.

"Also, it's high time that schooling was standardized across Canada. I've seen thousands of youngsters who've had to adjust to provincial standards, time and time again."

Meanwhile, Mrs. Pettersen, Mrs. McGee and thousands of other women in our community do their part in moulding our city's future. For many, like Mrs. Pettersen and Mrs. McGee, they also manage to have spare time to join BPW and other groups whose concern is the curing of social problems which, if they remain unsolved, could endanger the future these women are trying so hard to help build.

DEVELOPING POTENTIALS

The Canadian Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs has chosen "Developing Our Potentials" as the theme of this year's Business Women's Week.

Since it began 35 years ago, the federation has encouraged its members to do this through higher education and specialized training. To help further women workers to become better qualified to take their places in the business world, the federation has urged individual clubs to provide scholarships for promising girl students.

Locally, BPW clubs have initiated a career counselling program which has been of great assistance to high school students. At regular sessions, members and outstanding business authorities have given the students an insight into many careers, their requirements and advancements.

Automation Under Study At Coming Seminar

Two main events are planned to mark Business Women's Week which begins Monday. On Sunday, a special breakfast will be held at the Empress Hotel, followed by church attendance at St. Andrew's Roman Catholic Cathedral.

A seminar on "Automation and the Woman Worker" has been arranged for Wednesday evening. It will be held at 8 p.m. in the War Amputations Hall and will be open to the public. Panelists will be Dr. I. D. Pal, "How Workers Must Adjust to Automation"; Grant R. Gisel, "Business Machines and Data Processing"; R. W. Bush, "Automation in Banking," and Miss Kathleen Goodall, "Effect of Automation on Women in Telephone Service." Miss Ruth Adams will be moderator.

Serving on the planning committee for the week's activities are Miss Elizabeth Clement, Mrs. J. K. Waterman, Mrs. R. L. Wright, Mrs. I. MacMaster, the Misses Jean Smith and Ella Brett.

Joining the ranks of the three local BPW clubs for the week's program are the Soroptomist Club, Altrusa Club, University Women's Club, Association of Women Electors, Beta Sigma Phi Sorority, Credit Women's Breakfast Club and Christian Business Women's Fellowship.

National BPW Head Sends Her Greetings

From Toronto comes this message, sent by Miss Nazla L. Dane, president of the Canadian Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, to mark Business Women's Week.

"Women in business and professions contribute greatly to community life on the economic, social and political levels. As both employees and employers they help keep the wheels of our economy turning. As participants in community, provincial and national affairs they bring the fine qualities of both head and heart to their judgments and efforts, and, as partners with men in all phases of life they are willing to carry their full share of responsibility in all their endeavors.

"During Business Women's Week I would ask all members of the community to think what would happen if its women suddenly "downed tools." Realizing that most business would grind to a halt if this happened, you will want to pay tribute to all business and professional women and show them how important you think they are."—Nazla L. Dane.

8 CARDS OF THANKS

I Wish to thank my many friends for their sympathy and acts of kindness in the recent loss of my mother, Mrs. Sarah Ann Mort. Special thanks to Dr. L. Bapty and the nursing staff of St. Joseph's Hospital.—Mrs. D. Robertson and family.

We wish to offer our sincere thanks to the sisters, nurses and staff for the wonderful care of our mother during her long illness in Mt. St. Mary's Hospital. Also Dr. Reid, Dr. Moore and clergy, and our friends for their kind words of consolation.—Grandma Hutchinson's family.

9 IN MEMORIAM

FRY—In loving memory of Uncle Charlie, who passed away Oct. 16, 1944.
—Always remembered by Mr. and Mrs. R. Burton.

METCALF—In loving memory of Joseph Banks Metcalf, beloved husband and father, who departed this life, October 17, 1958.
"In the morning and at the setting of the sun
We remember him."
—His wife and family.

WILKINSON—In loving memory of our "Mum" and "Nana," Mrs. Doris Wilkinson, who passed away October 16th, 1964.
"Always in our thoughts."
—Sadly missed by her daughter, Milly, and family.

BRIDGE LESSON

By JACOBY and SON

The bidding as shown in the box started the same way at both tables on the very next hand of International Match play. The American North adopted the conservative course and passed his partner's three club bid.

*See article for opening lead and North's second bid

West opened the jack of hearts and dummy's queen was covered by East's king. Declarer allowed the king to hold the trick. Later South was able to ruff his small heart in dummy and make his three club contract for a plus score of 110 points.

At the other table the Italian North tried to push to game. After all, game had been made on the previous hand. He bid three spades!

South could find no further bid and North was left to struggle at three spades. Three spades was a really bad contract, but luck was with North. East had no decent lead at his disposal and made the best of a bad job by playing out the ace, king and a small diamond. North was in with the queen and played the king of clubs. East ruffed this and once more had good lead at his disposal. He finally led a low heart which North won with his queen. North had lost three tricks by this time and still had to lose a club and a trump, so he was down one.

The American plus of 100 at that table added to their 110 plus at the other table gave them a net profit of 210 or five International Match Points and put the team ahead of Italy for the last time.

"WE TRADE HOMES"

Open House Sat. 2 P.M. TO 6 P.M.

1608 ASH ROAD, MOUNT DOUGLAS
No Ticky Tacky Here

Danish craftsmanship, long admitted in the furniture field is now available in housing. Here is a home built to the demands of modern Denmark. Teak kitchen cupboards, and door jambs combine with parquet flooring, thick golden carpet and slate to give an air of luxury to this new home. The kitchen is designed for the most demanding cook, with built-in oven, range and refrigerator. Double stainless steel sinks with spray. Sliding glass doors lead to a pleasant sundeck, the perfect place for that late Sunday brunch. A large bathroom with room to shower, shave, and sing to your heart's content. Don't worry about the children, each has his own vanity washbasin in his bedroom. 3 bedrooms, dining room, large living room with floor to ceiling fireplace, and a spotlighted hearth, perfect for entertaining. A den and a workshop for Dad. Medallion wiring and excellent insulation give the all-electric heating positive control in each room. The grounds are landscaped with lawn and shrubs. Come, see a home that I will be proud to show you. $25,000 with $6,400 down. Raymond de Haviland Smith, EV 5-6741 or res. 385-6897.

OPEN HOUSE 1636 WARREN GARDENS SAT. 2 - 5 Move In Today Over 2,300' Space 4 or 5 Bedrooms

This is, truly, one of the finest family homes in this city. It was built for the owner for his needs and has 4 large bedrooms, a huge functional kitchen, a very large living room plus 12x12 dining room. The wall-to-wall carpeting is in good condition and the drapes are included. The floor-to-ceiling fireplace with raised hearth and planter enhances the warm living room. The basement is completely finished with 16x24 family room (one end is all cupboarding in knotty pine), plus a 5th bedroom or office. The home is now offered below the appraised value and its value will rise due to proximity to fine schools, city centre, its view of the Olympics and its fine landscaping. There is an existing mortgage of $10,000 at 5¼% at $77 per month. This represents a saving of nearly $2,000 over the remaining term of the mortgage or you can raise a new mortgage of 75% of the purchase price. Replacement value of this home and landscaping is in excess of $25,000. Please hurry to this one (oh, yes, I forgot to tell you the two-car garage allows you, dad, to step out of your car into the basement and mom into the huge bright kitchen). Only $23,900.

4 BEDROOMS $10,900

If you have a family and desire the facilities of a spacious four-bedroom home, you must inspect this property. All utilities are in top condition with new automatic oil heating and electric hot water. Exterior is trouble-free stucco with a duroid roof. The spotless interior features two spacious bedrooms on the main floor and two bedrooms upstairs. The entertainment-sized living room with its warm central fireplace and golden oak floors, leads to a gracious separate dining room. The bright electric cabinet kitchen contains an expensive Youngstown unit. The handyman will enjoy the benefits found in the full cement basement which provides ample space for a recreation room. Taxes only $115 net. You will find true value here—house is vacant and can be viewed at your convenience. Call Reg Schumaker anytime, 385-7761 or 388-4550.

ON THE STREET WHERE YOU LIVE $18,900

A quality family home such as this one could not be replaced today on as beautiful a street in Gordon Head for much less than $22,000. This home is 10 years old and, considering its condition, it is, in my estimation, better than a new home. The floor area is 1,300 square feet and includes 3 spacious bedrooms with roomy closets (hardwood floors), an unusual living-dining room plan featuring an attractive floor-to-ceiling, raised hearth fireplace and a sunny cabineted kitchen with breakfast area. The full high bsmt has large congenial family room also with fireplace, and the remaining space is as yet undeveloped. If you are looking for a home in this price range, it would be advisable for you to consider this one. Please call me at your convenience, Byron Bishop 382-6895, or my office 385-7761

RETIRE HERE

I spent most of the week before last showing an Ontario client some 2-bedroom, no basement retirement homes in varied price ranges. After they found the one they wanted I received some more calls to my "wanted" ad that had been running in the paper. This is one.
It's an older home, but exceptionally clean and well kept. Nice and warm, easily and economically heated, without cold drafts. Yes, 2 nice bedrooms, cozy living room, all immaculate floors, up to date kitchen, bright dining area off. Range and fridge included. Good, large, new workshop attached at rear of the home. Set back from the street on an easy-to-maintain 60x120 lot in lawns with just enough flowers, etc. Located ½ block from the bus on a quiet, pleasant street close to the Jubilee Hospital. As I said, it's an older place, so please don't expect to see anything ultra-modern. However, it is very clean and very comfortable, and up to date. $11,600. Mr. Poole for appointments.

2,000 FEET SEAFRONT 8 ACRES $75,000

This property on GALIANO ISLAND with its low shoreline, several sandy beaches, and location close to the Government Wharf serving the Vancouver ferry, is ideal for summer home or year-round occupancy for a family, or for development as a FISHING or HOLIDAY RESORT. It is also connected to Victoria by the daily ferry service calling at Montague Harbour. The view from the house commands the eastern entrance to Active Pass with all its interesting seaborne traffic. An excellent float, located on a deep channel protected from the North by Gossip Island, provides good docking for fishing craft or cruisers, with access to sheltered Whalers Bay. A large, comfortable home, attractively modernized, and a separate lodge suitable for caretaker or summer visitors, comprise accommodation now available, but the large area of the property and its many level stretches provide room for expansion or subdivision.

IMMACULATE HOME CLEAN BEACH QUIET BAY 100' WATERFRONTAGE

This home is undoubtedly one of the cleanest two or three-bedroom homes on this island. With its beautiful parklike garden and easy access to its lovely beach any retired couple or newlyweds could spend joyful days here. The present owner has spent about $4,000 adding an enclosed carport, reclaiming the land and putting in many, many shrubs and trees, a multitude of bulbs, completely finishing the basement to give a lovely bed-sitting room with fireplace and a two-piece bathroom and also in building a cement seawall. Each day is most interesting with so much water traffic, sea life and wild life. The home itself has two large bedrooms with double closets, gracious living room, small panelled dining area, bright kitchen and extra utility room adjacent. The exterior is stucco dash and requires no painting except for the trim. The heating is about $110 a year. Prairie folk should flock to this one. It is close to a busy shopping community. The owner is selling below replacement costs as she must move to an apartment. Remember, water properties are increasing in value (phenomenally) particularly on the east side of this peninsula. Price $26,000.

Graduate Studies To Start in Fall

University of Victoria will have a school of graduate studies in the near future.

The announcement was made Friday evening by university president Dr. Malcolm G. Taylor at the annual Uvic academic assembly to honor scholarship winners.

The new school, unanimously approved by the university Senate Wednesday, has yet to receive final ratification from the board of governors.

The plan will be presented to the board Monday.

Speaking to a relatively small group in the Gordon Head gymnasium, Dr. Taylor said "massive support" is needed for expansion of Canadian universities if they are to remain open to all qualified students.

MASTERS DEGREE

The new graduate school will probably accept students working towards masters degrees in arts and sciences next fall.

Dr. Harry Scargill, head of the linguistics department at the university, will chair the committee formed to plan and administer the new school.

Teaching standards at the undergraduate level will not suffer on account of demands from the graduate school, Dr. Taylor said.

A highlight of the assembly was the unveiling of an oil portrait of Uvic chancellor Dr. J. B. Clearihue, painted by Victoria artist Mrs. Myfanwy Pavelic.

The painting, a gift of the artist, was unveiled by her mother, Mrs. Will Spencer. It will be hung in the university library.

'FREEDOM . . .'

A university education is "not a right but a freedom," featured speaker Dr. Gilbert D. Kennedy, deputy attorney-general, told the gathering.

Speaking on "freedom to differ," he outlined often-abused rights of modern society.

In a brief address to the assembly, Chancellor Clearihue traced the university's growth.

He stressed that academic freedom, "the basis of a successful university," must not be lost.

Winners of awards totalling $24,500 were recognized at the assembly.

Diplomas were also presented to graduates of the university's new public administration course.

Development Funds Likely For Stadium

University of Victoria development funds could play a part in proposed centennial stadium construction at Gordon Head campus.

A university spokesman said today community donation of the basic stadium could persuade the university to release supplementary construction funds from previous capital development commitments.

He was commenting on the proposal that Greater Victoria municipalities offer jointly their Confederation centennial grants to build the capital's first major sports stadium at Uvic.

A university board of governors committee invited members of the five Greater Victoria municipalities to meet at Uvic Tuesday to hear details of the proposal.

FITS PLAN

The spokesman said the university proposal fits in exactly with the 1961 Uvic master site plan, and if accepted would advance stadium construction by several years.

Priorities for capital development are given to academic buildings in order to meet demand for classroom space and more urgent teaching facilities.

But the master plan envisages a sports complex in the northwest corner of Gordon Head campus.

This would include a swimming pool, ice surfaces and additional playing fields as well as indoor playing surfaces.

A basic stadium, including a running track, infield playing area, small, covered grandstand, dressing rooms, storage space, services, lighting and fencing could exceed the $450,000 total centennial project grant that will be available.

MORE FACILITIES

Additional funds may then be necessary to complete the basic requirement, if not to enlarge the initial concept to include some of the facilities that the university hopes to have ultimately.

Tuesday's meeting is expected to consider local representation on any university stadium board of control.

This would ensure outside sports interests and other community programs of getting their share of stadium time.

United Nations Association Official Visits

The national youth secretary of the United Nations Association in Canada will visit Victoria next month.

Tom Schatczky, recently appointed to the national executive, will arrive here Nov. 13 for a two-day stay, part of a cross-Canada tour.

He will address high school and university UN clubs on current topics.

Another UN official, C. V. Narasimhan, under-secretary for General Assembly affairs and principal aide to Secretary-General U Thant, will arrive in Vancouver Sunday.

His visit will mark the opening of UN Week meetings with high school students and Vancouver civic officials.

Mr. Narasimhan will also be guest speaker at a dinner Monday in Vancouver in honor of the 20th anniversary of the UN.

Saanich Dog Wins 3 Awards In Bermuda Show

A 3½-year-old German shepherd from Saanich this week won three awards in dog shows in Bermuda.

Champion Von Greg-Cyn's Commander won the best dog in show award and a first and second place in two classes.

The champ is owned and was raised and trained by Mr. and Mrs. Gregory Iverson, 5323 West Saanich Road.

Prior to the Bermuda show, Champion collected a series of Canadian awards. He took best in show at the Vancouver Island Dog Fancier's Association show in Victoria in September. He then won two best-in-show prizes at the all-breed Edmonton show.

The Iversons are flying back home today.

Explosives Kill 55

BERLIN (AP) — Explosives from the Second World War uncovered in East Germany have killed 55 persons and injured 455 in recent years, the West Berlin Association of Free Jurists has reported. The association said many of those involved were children.

TWINS BORN ON BUS GET RIDE FOR FREE

MEXICO (Reuters)—A bus driver in Pachuca, 75 miles north of Mexico City, found his passengers had increased by two between stops Thursday, when Mrs. Marta Perez Hernandez gave birth to twins with nothing more than moral support from fellow passengers.

The driver diverged from his route to carry the new arrivals to hospital.

No extra fares were charged.

White Man's Election Scorned By Iroquois

TORONTO (CP) — A panel of Iroquois Indian speakers opened a three-day conference Friday with wide-ranging criticism of the white man's handling of Indian affairs.

Representatives of 40,000 Iroquois is North America are attending the conference, called The Iroquois Speak.

At the first session the Iroquois were joined by Kahn-Tineta Horn, a Mohawk model from Caughnawaga, near Montreal.

Points made by the panel included:

- Iroquois do not want to vote in federal elections because they consider themselves members of a separate nation.
- They reject the Indian Act as a violation of treaties between the Crown and the Indian confederacies.
- Band councils are elected under the act to be stooges for the federal government.
- Iroquois living in Quebec are English-speaking and do not want to speak French.
- Indian affairs should be kept within federal jurisdiction.

$9 Million For Hospital Blunders

HARROGATE (Reuters)—Nearly £3,000,000 ($9,000,000) has been paid out to hospital patients for blunders made in British operating rooms, a nurses' conference was told Wednesday.

Dr. T. W. Brooke Barnett, deputy secretary of the British Medical Defence Union, said sometimes the wrong patient was operated on, or the wrong leg amputated.

Last year there were 29 cases of wrong operation compared with 13 in 1963.

Half the compensation cost was paid by Dr. Barnett's union and the rest by the hospitals involved.

Dr. Barnett said the £3,000,000 total had been paid out by the Medical Defence Union since it was formed in 1885, but the bulk of the payments had been since the Second World War.

Hostel Set For Mainland

A short-stay hostel for 500 men will be built on Vancouver's skid road, Welfare Minister Wesley Black announced Friday.

Mr. Black said the B.C. government would pay half of the estimated $50,000 cost.

An old building will be renovated. It has been selected but not yet acquired.

The government will then provide 90 per cent of operating costs for the hostel, with the city of Vancouver contributing the remainder.

Mr. Black said the aim of the hostel program is to try to break the cycle of habitual drunks and petty wrongdoers who repeatedly return to jail.

The province's share of the operating costs will cover room and board for inmates in lieu of welfare payments.

Two Victorians Made 'Subbies' At HMCS Venture

Two Victorians were among 34 officer cadets who graduated Friday from HMCS Venture, the navy's short service officer training school.

Graduating as acting sub-lieutenants were James Helps, 520 Downey Rd. and Michael Dalzell, 848 Bank St.

They and their fellow cadets paraded at 2 p.m. at HMCS Venture parade square to climax the ceremonies.

The cadets were also inspected by Rear-Admiral M. G. Stirling, flag officer Pacific coast.

Ceremonies marked the end of a 13-month training program.

HE KISSES MONTH TERM GOODBY

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP)—A kiss in time saved an 18-year-old youth 30 days in jail.

Judge Saul Rabb of criminal court sentenced Jerry Rogers of Indianapolis to 90 days at the state farm Friday for driving a stolen car. Before he was led away, Rogers kissed his mother goodby.

"That shows he's a nice boy," Rabb interjected and cut the sentence to 60 days.

"Kiss her again," urged the youth's attorney.

The judge said, "Once is enough."

Town Planning Students Tour Greater Victoria

About 40 town planning students toured the Legislative Buildings, Capital Region Planning Board offices and Victoria Centennial Square Friday.

They included 30 from the school of planning at the University of Washington and 10 from the University of B.C.

The group was to complete its field trip to Greater Victoria today with a full day of touring notable features of the urbanscape.

Highway Accidents Soar in Britain

LONDON (Reuters)—Half of Britain's 52,000,000 people are liable to be killed or maimed in highway accidents during their lifetime, says the Royal Society for the Prevention of Accidents.

It based the forecast on the present trend of road accidents and the biblical life-span of three score years and 10.

The government-sponsored society reported 1964 road casualties totalled a record 385,500. Deaths reached a new peak of 7,820.

There have been 10,500,00 road casualties, including 295,000 deaths, in Britain since 1900.

The estimated accidents for 1965 are put at more than 400,000, climbing to 500,000 a year by 1975. On the average, 21 persons were killed and 1,032 injured every day of 1964.

Cafe Man Files Suit Against Air Pollution

A damage action against B.C. Forest Products Ltd. for air pollution was filed in Victoria Law Courts Friday by city restaurateur Paul Arsens.

Mr. Arsens is also asking a perpetual injunction against smoke and fly ash nuisance alleged to be caused by the company.

The writ was filed by Pearlman and Lindholm, solicitors for Mr. Arsens, who is proprietor of three city restaurants, including Paul's Crown House at 3075 Douglas.

Mr. Arsens is claiming unstated damages and costs for the diffusion of smoke, soot and fly ash. He said the suit was begun to alleviate the fly ash problem which "has plagued Paul's Crown House since it was started in 1959."

"There has been a constant outcry over the past 10 years against the fallout which leaves a daily layer of grime on businesses and residences in the northern part of the city," Mr. Arsens said.

"I decided to take some action in the matter."

He said the nuissance is an "impediment" to business and both customers and staff suffer from it.

In his suit, Mr. Arsens alleges loss of patronage and devaluation of his property.

'Majority Government A Necessity'

A strong plea for a majority government to be returned to Ottawa on Nov. 8 was made Friday by David Groos, MP for Victoria in the last Parliament.

Speaking at Henderson Hall in Oak Bay, he said at future federal-provincial conferences it is essential for the national government to be in a position of strength to bring about national unity and to pass essential legislation.

A majority government was necessary, he said, to pass such future legislation as a National Health Plan and the Canada assistance plan to aid those who are not covered by the pension plan.

He also warned there would be difficulty in the future in controlling some of the unpleasant inflationary aspects of the present business and industrial boom unless there is a strong government in Ottawa.

Champion Makes Bid For Saanich Seat

Gordon Champion, 3572 Cedar Hill Road, isn't wasting time when it comes to elections.

Friday he declared himself a candidate for the Dec. 11 Saanich municipal election and began turning the wheels in his campaign machinery.

He summed up the reason for his early start this way:

"I feel, as a taxpayer, I should declare my intention of running in the hope other young businessmen will come forward.

Main plank in his platform will be a demand for a man to coordinate movements of the fast-growing municipality along the lines of a city manager.

Five seats on council will be contested this year — three of which result from the proposed increase in council members from seven to nine.

Mr. Champion, 35, is an insurance broker and has lived in Saanich for 13 years.

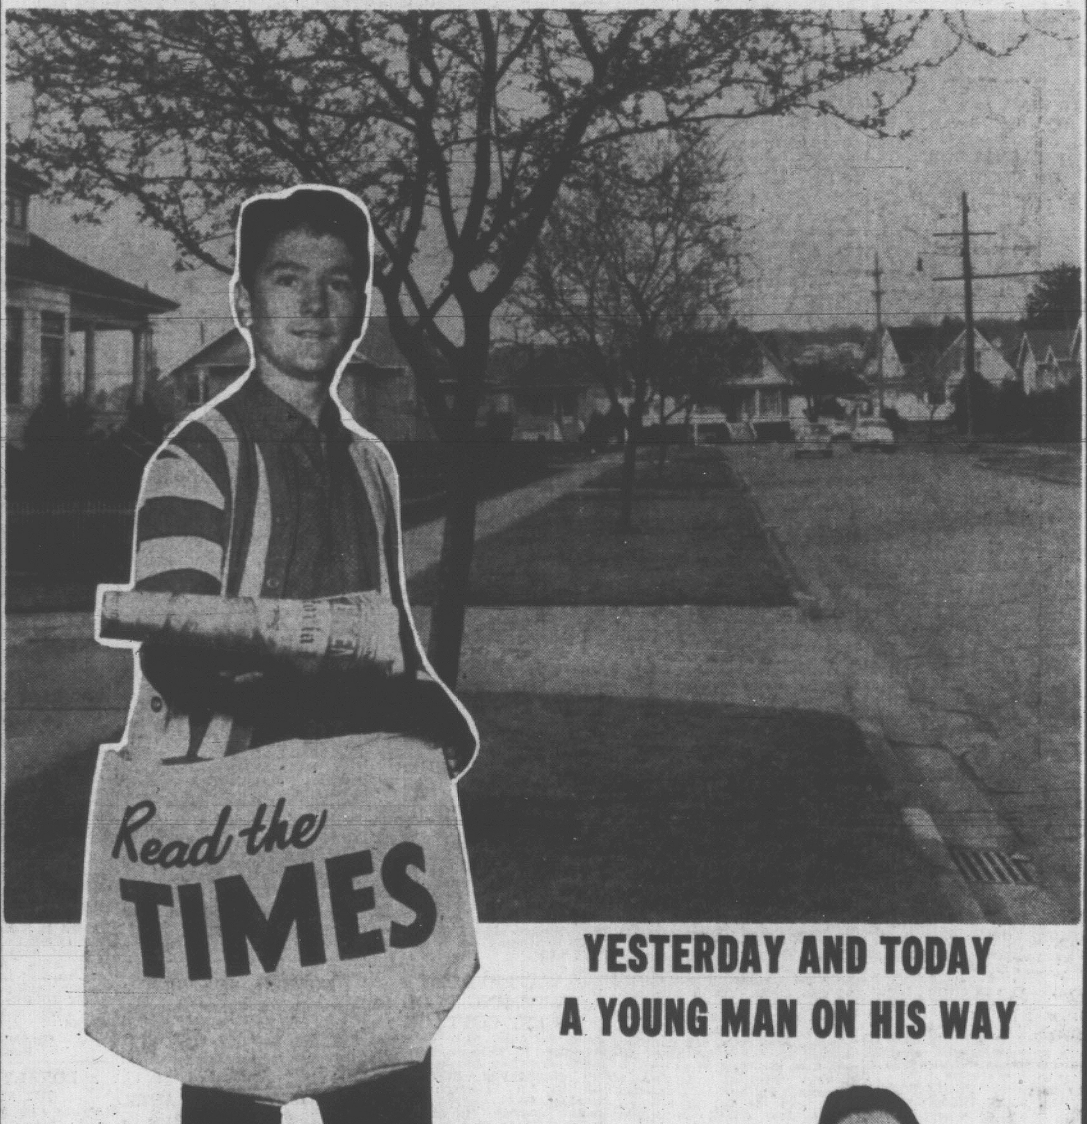
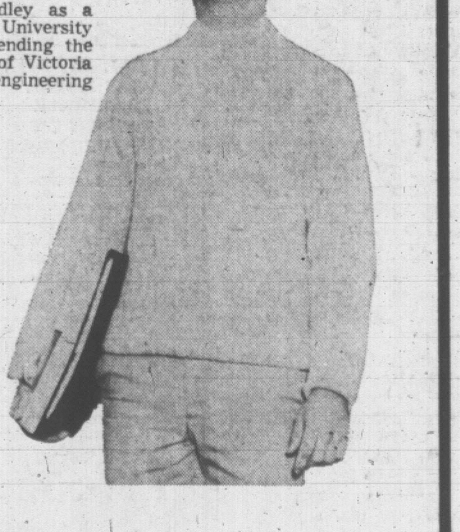
TODAY IS NATIONAL NEWSPAPERBOY DAY



Ken Bradley, 2537 Wesley Place, as a Times Newspaperboy on routes W4 and E3 from November, 1958 to March, 1964.

YESTERDAY AND TODAY
A YOUNG MAN ON HIS WAY

Ken Bradley as a first year University student attending the University of Victoria on a pre-engineering program.



On thousands of newspaper routes across Canada there are other young men like Ken Bradley who are on their way to a brilliant future in the years ahead.

These boys, are taking advantage of this opportunity to add to their education in a practical way, by developing self confidence, initiative, responsibility and earning and serving as young independent businessmen.

Many of today's successful men, who have walked the same routes and have served their customers, highly endorse the experience, comradeship and unequalled training they were fortunate to obtain.

Victoria Daily Times
Is proud to honor their 475 young newspaperboys, who earn and learn today . . . TO BE TOMORROW'S LEADERS.

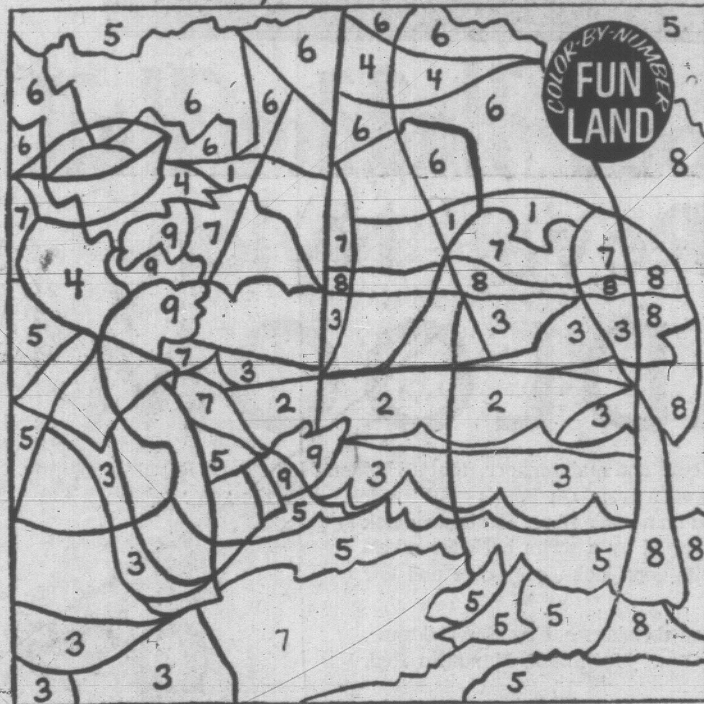
Color-By-Number Fun Poser



Jack's a cinch and every inch a sailor, but what's he doing talking to that giant penguin above? Or are your eyes deceiving you? Anything can happen in Color-by-Number Fun Land, of course. To see what's going on today, simply apply the the following colors according to number indicators: 1—Yellow. 2—Red. 3—Blue. 4—Orange. 5—Green. 6—Purple. 7—Black. 8—Brown. 9—Pink. If pink is not handy, use red lightly in its place.

If more than one person wants to take part, distribute crayons and apply them in turn, color by color.

They are among these possibilities: Basketball, bowling, hockey, pool, baseball, golf.

Solution: 1—Baseball, 2—Hockey, 3—Basketball, 4—Pool, 5—Bowling.

STAMP CORNER

By REG. NAIRNE

Our two Christmas stamps, issued this week, were designed by Helen Fitzgerald of Toronto, who already has had to her credit the designs for the "Countrywoman" stamp of 1959, and the Victoria Centenary commemorative issue of 1962.

As printings are going to be large—285 million of the 3c and 95 million of the 5c—two plates will be used for each. The stamps will be available in the handy "cello-paqs," as well as with "tags"—(i.e., treated with phosphor on the face of the stamps, for use in automatic sorters.)

Last year's 3c Christmas stamp was red in color, but the new 3c is in green. This value is of course for use on second-class mail, such as Christmas cards mailed unsealed, etc.

★ ★ ★

There may be no special significance in the change in color, but it is possible that we are going to revert to the long-established ruling that stamps for second-class mail should always be green, regardless of denomination.

The 2c green of our present series was correct in this respect when it was first issued in 1963, but when the rate jumped to 3c the following year the 3s purple should have been scrapped and re-issued in green. (This would of course have made it necessary to alter the color of the 2c). So these belated changes may be on the cards for the near future.

★ ★ ★

Criminals are going in more and more for thefts of coins and stamps, as these items have a ready market in any part of the civilized world, are conveniently portable, and are often difficult to trace.

The latest loss of this kind has just been suffered by Yale University. Their magnificent collection of coins, valued at over $800,000, was stolen by masked men who overcame the caretaker and put him out of business until they had made a clean getaway with the loot.

Photos of the rarer items are being circulated among the more important dealers by the police, in hopes of getting a clue.

★ ★ ★

Collectors should be very careful these days to keep their treasures well protected. The recent theft in Vancouver of the McMaster collection of Newfoundland shows that it could happen here too.

Fortunately the latter case ended with the recovery of most of the stamps, and the apprehension of the thief, who is now doing time at Okalla.

Top Powers Set Plans For A-Bomb Controls

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — The United States and the Soviet Union are expected to push rival plans for checking the spread of nuclear weapons when the UN's top political committee launches its disarmament debate Monday.

The U.S., which has asked for the floor at the outset of the debate, has brought in William C. Foster, director of the U.S. disarmament agency, to spell out its position.

The 117 - nation committee placed non-proliferation of nuclear weapons at the head of its six-point arms agenda after the U.S. and the Soviet Union, the two chief nuclear powers, agreed it should have top priority.

The prospect of such weapons spreading from country to country has taken on new urgency since China set off two atomic blasts during the last 12 months.

OFFERED PLAN BEFORE

The U.S. already has placed before the disarmament committee in Geneva a plan worked out with Britain to halt the spread of nuclear weapons.

That plan would guarantee that if any non-nuclear nation were subjected to nuclear threat or attack, the existing nuclear powers would come to its aid.

The Soviet Union has refused to agree to such a pact as long as the North Atlantic Treaty Organization holds to its plans for a nuclear force in which West Germany would participate.

Qualified sources in London said Britain is dropping support for the proposed Atlantic nuclear force and is pushing instead for a new drive to halt the spread of nuclear weapons.

SHASTRI PAYS SECRET VISIT TO TROOPS

NEW DELHI (AP)—Prime Minister Shastri spent four hours Friday in Pakistani territory seized by Indian troops in last month's fighting.

The Indian leader secretly visited troops in forward areas of Sialkot sector on the western front, warning them to remain vigilant against Pakistan and China.

These two nations seem united, he said, in their desire to create difficulties for India "whose democratic social order they find embarrassing."

Not All French Under Quebec

OTTAWA (CP)—Premier Jean Lesage of Quebec heaped praise on Premier John Robarts of Ontario Friday for his contribution to French-English unity in Canada and said he agrees completely with Mr. Robarts' view that Quebec cannot legally represent French-speaking Canadians outside its borders.

"Mr. Robarts and I see eye to eye on the question," the Quebec leader told an audience of 500 at the formal opening of the $10,000,000 Macdonald-Cartier bridge between Ottawa and Hull.

"I agree with him when he says that Quebec does not legally represent the French-speaking minority outside Quebec."

However, Mr. Lesage stressed that his province is "the mainstay of French Canada" and the guardian of its culture.

National unity was the main note of the day, reflected in speeches by Prime Minister Pearson and Mr. Robarts.

Mr. Pearson said the six-lane bridge is "symbolic of the unifying process that is going on and which must go further if Canada is to become the kind of country we want it to be."

Mr. Robarts called the bridge one of the many links between Ontario and Quebec, "a living indication of how we get along together."

Speaking last, Mr. Lesage paid tribute to Mr. Pearson as a champion of national unity and Mr. Robarts for opening the minds of people in Ontario to the need for national unity.

Billett Not Called Before Probe

Clarence Billett, 404 Sherk St., should have been called before a naval board of inquiry into his charges of bribery and favoritism at HMC Dockyard.

The statement was made Friday by George Chatterton, Esquimalt-Saanich MP in the last Parliament.

The probe began Sept. 27 and ended Thursday, a naval spokesman said Thursday. It was conducted by Commodore R. M. Battles, commodore superintendent, Pacific Coast.

His department is in charge of administration of civilian personnel within the Dockyard.

"Mr. Billett made the charges of wrongdoing at the Dockyard and he should have been given a chance to present his proof," Mr. Chatterton said.

"I don't know what the proof was he said he had but he should have been allowed to present it."

Mr. Chatterton said the inquiry was "suspect by the public right off the bat" because it was conducted internally by the navy.

He said the government should have appointed a three-man commission composed of an executive skilled in administration, an expert in personnel and a justice.

David Groos, Liberal MP for Victoria in the last Parliament, could not be reached for comment.

Mr. Billett, who made the charges of irregularities at the dockyard to associate defence minister Leo Cadieux, plans to go to the courts if he isn't given a hearing.

Thursday he said he will first wait for the results of the investigation.

A navy spokesman said the findings have been sent to Ottawa but it is not known if they will be made public.

Pensioner Aid Boost Proposed

OTTAWA (CP) — The government proposes to pay pensions of more than $100 a month to elderly people with no other income, Prime Minister Pearson said Friday night.

He said in a free-time CBC telecast that the Liberal government will propose to the provinces that they share the cost of higher old-age pensions for the needy.

"We have made it (the old-age pension) $75 and we will make it $100 or, if necessary, more than $100 in co-operation with the provinces" for needy cases.

'IRRESPONSIBLE'

Mr. Pearson said the opposotion parties are irresponsible when they promise to pay flat-rate pensions of $100 a month to everybody aged 65 and over. This would cost an extra $800,000,000 the first year and would be too much for the economy to bear.

The Liberals proposed to concentrate higher pensions on people who need more than $75 a month and have no other source of income.

"Anybody who only has $75 from the state, and no other source of income, and needs more, even if it's $125—more than $100—should be in a position to get it.

"Now, I think this is a better way of approaching this pension scheme.

"It's so simple to say, 'all right, you gave them $75, we'll give them $100,' but I'm not going to engage in any auction of the people's money for that kind of thing.

"I think that's quite irresponsible."

COST NOT ESTIMATED

Mr. Pearson did not estimate how much the proposed "Canada assistance program" would cost. He said only that his government is prepared to pay "a large share" of the extra pensions, leaving the rest of the bill to the provinces.

He spoke during a 15-minute filmed interview with David Logan, Liberal candidate in Victoria, Ont., and Mrs. Logan. Mr. Logan said he is constantly asked by voters what the Liberals intend to do about the old age pension.

Caouette Slumps Before Liberals

By PETER REGENSTREIF

QUEBEC—What has happened to Social Credit? By this stage in the campaigns of 1962 and 1963, the non-metropolitan Quebec electorate was enthusiastically mobilizing behind Real Caouette.

Today, Creditiste strength is running at about half its 1963 level of some 27 per cent and the ardor characterizing its support a short two-and-a-half years ago is virtually non-existent.

The chief beneficiary of the collapse of Social Credit is the Liberal party which is now almost certain of at least a 60-seat province-wide total. The only solid Creditiste area remaining is the northern sector of the province which contains the ridings of Villeneuve, Chapleau, Roberval, Lae St. Jean, Lapointe, Chicoutimi and Charlevoix—and not all of these are necessarily in the Caouette camp.

●

The Liberals, with newly-acquired Jean Marchand, have now taken over the three seats in the Quebec City area which voted Social Credit in 1963. Using this as a base, they are spreading into the surrounding territory with noticeable effect.

The eight 1963 Socred constituencies on the south shore of the St. Lawrence are all likewise vulnerable to Liberal incursions.

Much depends on Sherbrooke. A well-conducted Liberal campaign with a good candidate there can have widespread repercussions throughout the region and could possibly convert even such hard-core ridings as Compton-Frontenac and Megan-

ROUSING WELCOME awaited Opposition Leader John Diefenbaker Friday night as he entered Bay Street Armory to the skirl of bagpipes. Supporters rushed forward to shake the leader's hand while others clapped, cheered and waved Conservative banners. A crowd of 2,000 crammed the hall to hear Mr. Diefenbaker's pre-election message which lasted more than two hours. (Photo by Halkett.)

Return of Ship Subsidy Promised by Tory Chief

By JOHN MIKA

Conservative Leader John Diefenbaker delivered a custom-tailored speech for Victoria interests Friday in Bay Street Armory—but both the old punch and excited crowds of his previous visits were gone.

If returned to power, he promised:

- To shipbuilders, restoration of the 35 per cent federal subsidy;
- To disabled and blind persons, abolition of the means test for pensions;
- To old age pensioners, an increase to $100 a month from $75;
- To universities, an increase to $5 from $2 in per capita operating grants to relieve the pressure on student fees;
- Consideration of increases for pensions of veterans, retired civil servants and the RCMP;
- An income tax deduction—of up to $500—for civic taxes paid by people who own their own homes;
- And incentives to exporting companies to undertake more market research, participation in trade fairs and more credit sales.

He was given standing ovations at beginning and finish, and there was enthusiastic applause mingled with the interruptions to his speech—but none of the fervid, almost wild acclaim that punctuated his every utterance here during the campaigns of 1957, 1962 and 1963.

LINED BALCONY

And the audience was about half the previous sizes, totalling 2,000 including some 300 who were sent to line the balcony while six rows of about 250 seats remained empty at the back of the main floor.

Nor were there large contingents from up-Island points that were conspicuous at the earlier meetings.

This contrasted sharply with the crowds of:

- 4,000 March 25, 1963, in the same building when there were standees packed inside and several hundred outside listening to portable loudspeakers;
- 3,800 on May 29, 1962, in Memorial Arena;
- 4,000 on May 21, 1957, also in Memorial Arena.

Mr. Diefenbaker, however, recalled that his 1957 Memorial reception was "the prelude to victory" and he assured Friday's audience it was the largest he had ever seen here—proferring this as an omen of Tory victory Nov. 8.

He also mixed vitriol for the Liberal government leaders with a quiet-toned but firm rejection of the slogans chanted by about 20 "Peaceniks" who provided most of the heckling.

Mr. Diefenbaker repeated his questioning of the integrity of

Hecklers Draw Dief Into Viet Statement

Opposition leader John Diefenbaker was drawn into discussing Viet Nam by a group of Victoria peace pickets Friday night.

For what is believed to be the first time since he hit the election trail, Mr. Diefenbaker announced his support of the U.S. stand in the strife-torn country.

Against shouts of "What about Viet Nam?", "What about peace?", and "Yankee go home," the 70-year-old leader told the youthful hecklers they were taking the easy stand without knowing the consequences.

What they suggest, he said, "will not be the solution for solving the problem for them in the years ahead."

On several occasions Mr. Diefenbaker was drowned out by the chanting of hecklers who identified themselves as members of the Peace Action League.

Ignoring the interruptions, he went on to say that if the U.S. left Viet Nam, Southeast Asia would fall to the Communists.

He said it was his hope and prayer that the North Vietnamese government would agree to negotiations with the U.S., which, he said, has shown its willingness to talk settlement.

Scuffles at Meeting

VANCOUVER (CP) — External Affairs Minister Paul Martin made an appeal for a Liberal majority Friday night over the heckling of peace demonstrators at a public meeting.

Greeted with jeers and comments as he stepped up to the microphone to speak, Mr. Martin announced:

"I'm going to talk for an hour no matter what interruptions I have."

During his speech, minor scuffles broke out between demonstrators and Liberal supporters.

About 30 demonstrators picketed the theatre at which he spoke.

Four small children were in the group at the theatre door. One of them carried a sign reading: "U.S. aggressors get out of Viet Nam."

THREE WEEKS TO GO

Campaign Warms Up

The election campaign warmed up Friday night as the parties girded themselves for the three-week dash to the wire Nov. 8.

Developments were:

Conservative leader John Diefenbaker, in his address to a Victoria rally, told hecklers that withdrawal of Americans from Viet Nam would not bring peace to the world. (Page 1.)

Prime Minister Pearson in a TV appearance said his government would see that needy pensioners would get more than $100 per month. (Page 1.)

Mr. Pearson also said his government was prepared to discuss export of Canadian water to the United States. (Page 3.)

A split on the same issue between Mr. Diefenbaker and his former agriculture minister Alvin Hamilton was disclosed. The party leader opposed the idea while Mr. Hamilton came out strongly in favor. (Page 3.)

In Peterborough, Ont., NDP leader Tommy Douglas said his party advocates a "consumers' bill of rights" to patrol unwarranted price increases in goods and services. (Page 3.)

Crisis Faces Bonn Gov't

BONN (Reuters)—A two-hour talk on renewing West Germany's coalition government failed today to solve the crisis which threatens to topple Chancellor Ludwig Erhard from power.

A spokesman for the minority Free Democratic party said Christian Democrat Erhard again refused to reappoint Free Democrat Leader Erich Mende as minister for all-German affairs.

His re-appointment is the party's condition for renewing a coalition which has ruled West Germany for four years.

The Free Democrat leaders immediately left for Mainz to attend a meeting of their party's national committee which will decide future policy.

They were due to resume Monday night, the eve of the first meeting of the new Bundestag (lower house of Parliament) elected Sept. 19.

Political observers believe the Free Democrats were too heavily committed to be able to make concessions without major loss of prestige.

FEAR MENDE

Conservative elements in Erhard's party fear Mende would be too bold in making approaches toward East Germany and would too strongly support Foreign Minister Gerhard Schroeder in his flexible policy toward the Communist bloc.

If the Free Democrats, angered by the rebuff to Mende, refused to vote with the Christian Democratcs on the chancellor's re-election Wednesday, the opposition Social Democrats would become the largest single party.

They have 202 seats to 196 for the Christian Democrats and 49 each for the Bavarian wing of the Christian Democrats and for the Free Democrats.

Legally, the Christian Democrats and their Bavarian wing are two different parties, and they need consent to a Bundesag majority to vote together.

Erhard would then not get the absolute majority required under the constitution for the first two votes. He still could be elected on a simple majority on the third vote—a humiliating expedient after his remarkable personal victory in the general election.

$150,000 WON BY B.C. MAN

(Times News Services)

A Mission, B.C., man was one of three Canadians today who won $150,000 top prizes in the Irish Sweepstake.

Walter T. Edwards received news by radiotelephone that he had won with a ticket on Tarqogan, winner of the Cambrideshire at Newmarket, England. (Race story on Page 20.)

His mother, Mrs. Nellie Edwards, said she talked to him by radiotelephone to Toba Inlet, upcoast from Vancouver, where he is employed as a boom man at a logging camp.

Mrs. Edwards said she does not think her son will quit his job despite the big win.

The only other B.C. winner, Bernard Rushton, operator of an electrical repair shop in Vancouver, is on a fishing trip in the Kamloops area and may not know he has won $60,000 as holder of a ticket on second-place Karelia.

The 18 ticket holders on Vancouver Island won $1,100 consolation prizes.

The two other $150,000 winners were R. L. Macdonald, a 67-year-old Toronto bachelor, and a ticket holder identified as "Curly Jo" of Edmonton.

Mr. Macdonald, now retired from the income tax office, said the money won't affect his personal life.

He said he'll buy a few books, go on a trip and give the rest away to charity and his brothers and sisters.

"It's too late to change my way of life," he said.

Seven Canadians won $60,000 prizes and there was one third place $30,000 winner in Canada.

Thousands in U.S. Protest Viet War

NEW YORK (AP) — Thousands of persons protested U.S. involvement in Viet Nam in demonstrations Friday in more than a score of American cities.

Demonstrations were planned for today in Washington, D.C., New York, Berkeley, Calif., Los Angeles, Cleveland, Cincinnati, Columbus, Ohio, Ann Arbor, Mich., Salem, Ore., and Bennington, Vt.

In California, a major clash had been feared between 10,000 demonstrators and spectators in Friday's largest protest march, but there was little disorder.

The demonstrators attempted a protest march from Berkeley to Oakland, but they turned back when 375 Oakland policemen barred their way. National guardsmen had been on standby alert.

The marchers vowed to try again today.

A crowd of spectators estimated at 7,000 got between the marchers and police and eggs were thrown on the demonstrators from rooftops jammed with onlookers.

In New York City, David Miller, 22, of Syracuse, N.Y., burned his draft card during a rally outside the armed forces induction centre. He was one of the first to do so since destruction of the cards was made a federal offence.

Hecklers threw eggs at 40 pickets in Chicago and there was a minor scuffle. A bystander smashed a placard carried by a marcher and tried to strike him, but a policeman stepped between them. There were no arrests.

Most of the demonstrators across the U.S. were college students, but their numbers were few in comparison to the enrollments of the schools they attend.

Demonstrations were scheduled to be held by 1,000 students in Toronto today before the U.S. consulate.

An all-night vigil at Portland, Ore., by 20 students fizzled out before 11 p.m. They gathered Friday afternoon in the cold and wet before the army induction centre.

Grain Lack Draws New Protest

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Vancouver Grain Exchange sent a second telegram Friday to Trade Minister Sharp, protesting the lack of grain in Vancouver for shipment.

A spokesman said the first telegram, sent last week, had gone unanswered.

"Overseas buyers are dissatisfied and will seek supplies from other countries," said W. A. Sankey, secretary of the grain exchange.

"Old reliable customers like Japan will buy from the U.S. if they can't get delivery here."

Elevator stocks of grain in Vancouver on Friday totalled 4,800,000 bushels. An average of 13,000,000 is considered necessary for efficient operation.

SHIRLEY OF COLONY

"YOUR REALTOR"

When you consider the fact that Salespeople must depend on their own drive, ambition and ability to remain in business, and that their earnings are non-existent unless they DO sell, then you can say anyone who remains in the Real Estate Business for any length of time has to be conscientious, hard-working and honest Year after year these same people perform their jobs without any actual monetary guarantee yet must adhere to a very strict code of ethics and all their dealings are subject to close scrutiny and control by the very active and capable Real Estate Board. In addition, every person must complete and pass a correspondence course from the University of British Columbia to enter Real Estate, as well as having a background that is bondable. Never before in history has the public been able to buy and sell Real Estate with such confidence and faith. No matter if their favorite Realtor had been formerly a car salesman, retired navy, University graduate or just a housewife, having qualified for the course and having been accepted for the bond, and with constant surveillance of the Real Estate Board, the public can be sure that each transaction will be handled with the utmost care and integrity. Real Estate has truly "come of age" as a profession!

Since my filing system has begun to bulge my hind pockets, I think today we'll deal with a snippet of this and a snack of that, commencing with a reminder on an empty match folder.

"Call Joe," it reads; but since it doesn't specify which one, we'll pass on to the recent Retail Clerks' Union executive meeting in Vancouver.

The assembled delegates, Victoria business agent John Nickell reports, waited with more than ordinary eagerness for the last of their number to arrive.

This was Dave Masich of Prince George, a town which, even in the general B.C. beer drouth, is supplied through the liquor store by its own unstruck brewery.

Dave would have his car trunk loaded with cases, the bo.. assured each other. When good old Dave showed up, the dry spell would, for the time at least, be over.

Like kids anticipating Santa Claus, they worried car, driver and precious freight down the highway.

In due time, Dave Masich arrived, to be met by a reception committee with bottle openers at the ready.

"Come on," a union brother urged him, "break out the beer!"

The pilgrim from well-lubricated Prince George smiled and shook his head.

"Sorry," he said. "Never touch the stuff. I'm a teetotaler."

Here's a note from a chum who has been fretting and brooding over the Canada Pension Plan booklet, a tasteful job with an appropriately blood-red cover, which Uncle in Ottawa hit us with a while ago.

"Early in the book," the complainant growls, "they provide a formula on which you figure out how much you have to pay. It goes something like this:

"You take your salary up to $5,000, or all of it if you earn less. Then you subtract $600, multiply your answer by nine, double it, cross off the last figure, and divide by 100.

"This is so reminiscent of the old trick questions where you guess somebody's age with a bunch of multiplications and divisions!"

It is indeed, and you can easily visualize the conjurer-in-chief of the federal gobbledegook department beaming as you come up with the answer, as I did on the third go-round.

As for the rest of the book, I'll understand it in heaven, perhaps . . . but not during my earthly sojourn in the welfare state.

In these pre-election days, candidates are galloping about the town like the white knight in the cleanser commercials who turns dirty shirts spotless with a touch of his magic lance.

Socred Frank Hunter, who, win or lose, was a darn good city clerk, stopped by on his rounds the other day. So too did Liberal Dave Groos, who makes time in an MP's busy year to take his young son fishing.

One night they slept out on an island beach, got up at dawn, and dropped a blue-and-white bucktail into the tide off Sidney Spit. Result: an 18-pound spring salmon.

★ ★ ★

Note written to myself: Tell how a 40-pound Labrador pup looks, playing with pink plastic mouse we bought for the cats. Well, he looks silly in the extreme, but even though he broke the squeaker on the first grab, the mouse continues to enchant him. He even goes to sleep with it under his paw.

For a puppy in the tearing-up stage, try a pair of tightly-knotted, and old, socks.

★ ★ ★

Another note, scribbled in the dark on the back of an envelope, about a quarter-mile from Vic High: Night school parking problem. Horrible!

★ ★ ★

And to conclude, a hope and a sigh for a good little Uvic magazine titled Tryste, which has just been kicked cruelly hard in the budget. It deserved better.

JOHN DIEFENBAKER
. . . answering the hecklers

PEEK-A-BOO!

Victoria Conservative candidate Clifford Waite literally tip-toed through his speech at Friday's meeting. The former naval chaplain had trouble seeing his audience over the high lecturn. But it didn't stop him promising higher things.

Armoury Rally

They Came, They Saw, They . . . ?

By JIM HUME

John Diefenbaker swung into Victoria Friday fresh of face but not, so many people said, fresh of message.

Welcomed at the airport by a slim group of supporters, he was whisked to the Empress for a brief rest and meal before facing a 2,000-strong crowd at Bay Street Armoury.

Even the staunchest Progressive Conservatives were not sure whether they were impressed.

Percy Hassall, 230 Henry, a self-confessed dyed-in-the-wool Conservative, said he had just turned out to see if "Mr. Diefenbaker had anything new to offer."

●

Mr. Hassall, who has never voted anything but Conservative, said he wasn't sure that "John was the man for the job."

"As a Conservative I do not consider John Diefenbaker as the man we need for a national leader," he said as he stood in the entrance to the mainfloor of the Armory.

"We need a strong man, someone like Mr. Bennett—but not as a Social Credit man, of course," he added.

Two elderly ladies who declained to give their names disagreed.

"He's a good man," they chorused. "He's honest, not like Mr. Pearson."

Did they think Mr. Pearson dishonest?

"Well, no, we think he's fine, too. But he doesn't seem to have very honest men with him, that's why we shall vote for Mr. Diefenbaker."

Mr. and Mrs. Basil Issigonis, 2124 McLaren, Oak Bay, left the rally early—because Mrs. Issigonis was sitting in a draft from the main door.

But they both said Mr. Diefenbaker wasn't saying anything new.

●

Would they vote for his party?

"Well we wouldn't vote Liberal," they smiled, walked off into the chilly evening.

George Cleaver, 1386 Courtland, one of the half-dozen young Conservatives parading on cue with banners while Mr. Diefenbaker spoke, was more specific.

"I like what he stands for," he said, resting his "Win With Waite" placard.

Dede Bumpus, 1640 Rockland, almost echoed the words: "I think Mr. Diefenbaker is the right man for our country," she said before she was pulled away by another party worker who advised her not to talk to the press.

Most people interviewed as they departed while Mr. Diefenbaker was still delivering his one hour and 15 minute address declined to give their names.

"I'm a salesman," said one young man speaking for himself and his wife. "I'm leaving for two reasons. One, the people I expected to meet here aren't here. And two, he isn't saying anything new. I expected to get a message of some kind, but I have better things to do with my time than to listen to that old stuff."

Mr. Diefenbaker ignored the steady flow of the audience for the exits.

The faded Red Ensign drooped behind him.

The band played one more chorus of "Hey, Look Him Over."

And the main crowd left, apparently as confused as ever.

Distributors Everywhere And a Loud Band to Boot

Nobody will ever know how many Progressive Conservatives were present at the Diefenbaker rally at the Armory Friday night.

There were Socialist "World Worth While" pamphlet distributors.

Pacifist "The War in Viet Nam Is Illegal" pamphlet distributors.

Student Union "Canada Needs to Provide Its Youth with Opportunity" pamphlet distributors.

Song sheet "Hey Look Him Over, Lend Him an Ear, Fresh In from Ottawa, Everybody Cheer" distributors.

And a loud band.

Conservatives?

Nov. 8 will provide that answer.

Victoria, capital city though it may be, is listed among the minor stopping points by Mr. Diefenbaker.

On this swing west the Conservative leader dropped in to Saskatoon, Winnipeg, Calgary and Victoria.

Today he is heading for whistle-stop speeches at Penticton, Kelowna, Vernon and Kamloops.

The next time around, during the final week of the campaign, he plans to hit the big cities like Edmonton and Vancouver.

His visit to Vancouver should prove the most interesting for during the last week in the present campaign Prime Minister Pearson will be there.

"It'll be like a back-to-back playoff game," one member of the press corps travelling with Mr. Diefenbaker quipped.

To date Calgary has been the high spot of Mr. Diefenbaker's western election campaign.

Members of the press corps travelling with him said the reception in Calgary was "fantastic."

"They have a new mayor in Calgary," one newsman said. "And he is working hard for John. The results showed. He had a great reception there, far better than Winnipeg where, to put it politely, he bombed."

For the rest of the tour the newsmen said people were reacting as could be expected.

"It's a strange campaign. So far people just don't seem to give a damn. They're either too confused to care—or they just don't care. They're not excited anyway."

Robert C. W. Jensen, 41, and his wife, Verna, are against war.

Friday night they were at the entrance to the Armouries distributing pamphlets asking Canada to "Speak Out" against the battle in Viet Nam.

And against war in general.

Mr. Jensen served in the RCAF in the Second World War, but became a pacifist later when he saw "that there was no point in it."

He was asked if he was a genuine pacifist or a "between the wars pacifist."

His answer, to his wife: "Have you any more leaflets left. . . ."

And he and Mrs. Jensen departed to distribute more poorly-typed pamphlets reminding people attending the Diefenbaker rally that "to be silent is to condone murder in Viet Nam."

SOOKE WANTS OWN HOSPITAL

Diagnosis 'Inconclusive'

By TERRY IZZARD

Greater Victoria hospitals' brainchild—a regional hospital district — underwent its first brain-picking session Friday night.

At the hands of Sooke residents the scheme was dissected, X-rayed and passed on for further examination.

Results of the first diagnosis were inconclusive.

They proved that district hospitals are in need of a thorough overhaul.

But they also showed a reluctance on the part of examiners to accept the prescribed treatment.

First and last cheer to ring through Sooke community hall came when one man stood up and said:

"We (Sooke residents) feel we are being overlooked.

"We need a hospital here—not in 40 or 45 years time—but NOW."

At the meeting were hospital administrators from the area and deputy municipal affairs minister J. Everett Brown.

They were appealing to local residents to support a plebiscite Dec. 12 which will ultimately accept or reject the idea of a hospital district.

REFERENDUM

If accepted, a referendum will be held in the 12 districts between Sooke and Victoria, appealing for $5,732,000 over five years to bring hospitals up to scratch.

In reply to the question of a hospital for Sooke, Mike Fraser, assistant administer at Royal Jubilee Hospital, said:

"You'd need a 36-bed hospital for Sooke. You couldn't begin to finance the services you might encounter here."

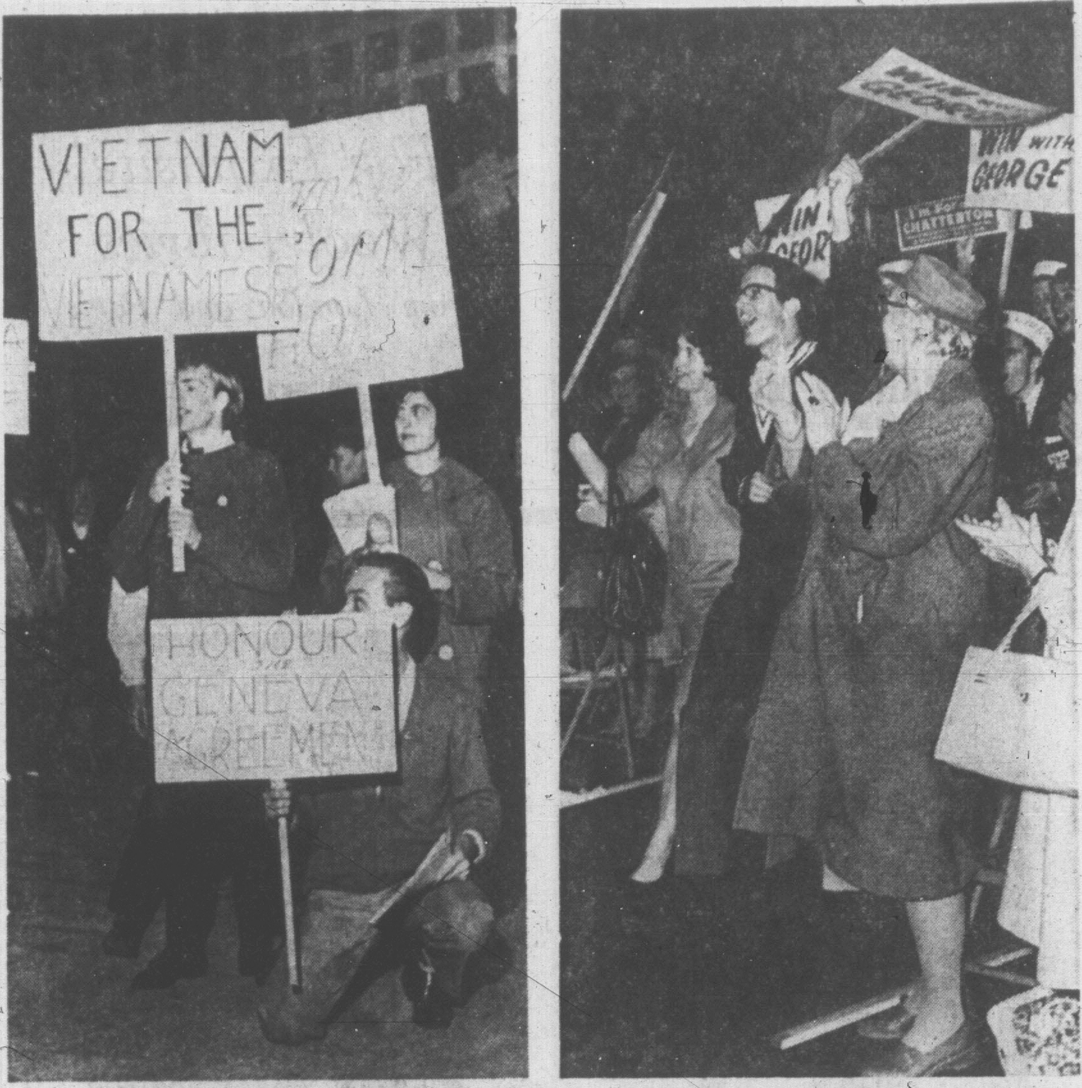
CENTRALIZATION

He said hospital facilities are swinging towards centralization with smaller areas sharing the cost, adding:

"If you had a hospital here it would be no more than a clinic."

Several residents posed the question of chronic care hospitals.

William Morrison, administrator of Gorge Road Hospital, said these would not be included in the five-year program.



THE GLUM AND THE GLEEFUL—These were the two expressions shown at Friday night's rally for Opposition Leader John Diefenbaker. Both groups carried placards, but there the similarity ended. On the left are members of Victoria Peace Action League, protesting Viet Nam. On the right, Conservative supporters cheer for Mr. Diefenbaker. (Halkett Photos.)

Ban Noise Campaigners Get Hearng

About 100 residents in Oak Bay's Esplanade area today received an invitation to thrash out noise and traffic problems with council members.

They will meet councillors William Wade, Douglas Watts and Mrs. Frances Elford Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. at the Municipal Hall.

The meeting is a result of residents' suggestions on a questionnaire circulated by the municipality earlier this year.

Council has received several letters from residents during the past eight months.

SUGGESTIONS

Among suggestions to restore peace and quiet to the strip of waterfront roadway are:

- Extend the Esplanade north to the scenic loop on Beach Drive near Uplands Park.
- Make it a one-way street to reduce traffic congestion
- Barricade an extension of the Esplanade with a gate to be closed after a certain hour at night.

Aside from traffic problems and cars with noisy mufflers, residents have complained of the area being overrun with dogs, noisy beach parties and the street lights being too bright.

Ask The Times

Q. What percentage of Canadians are of French origin? N.J.

A. 30.4 per cent, says the 1964 Canada Yearbook.

Q. Is local artist Robert Wood also the California artist who painted "Autumn Leaves," "Sunset Shore" and "October Morn"? If not, are they related? T.A.

A. Local artist Robert Wood did not paint the pictures you have named. And he is not related to the California artist.

SEE CAMPBELL TUESDAY

'What Next?' Sidney Asks

By HUMPHRY DAVY

Embattled Sidney commissioners will go to Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell Tuesday to ask if they should "throw in the Towel" or continue in office until the December elections.

The meeting was requested by four commissioners following the resignation of Lt. Col. J. H. Larocque as village chairman.

Col. Larocque, elected by acclamation as village chairman three weeks ago, would not give his reasons for quitting.

"It's up to council," he said. "I have made my reasons known in a letter. If they want to make its contents known, they are at liberty to do so."

REASONS UNKNOWN

But Commissioner Andrieas Boas, spokesman for council, said he did not know the reasons for the resignation.

The council members are expected to discuss two alternatives when they meet the minister:

1. Resign as a body and request the appointment of a government administrator to run the affairs of the village until the December elections.

2. Remain in office and contest the issues dividing council in the elections.

SECOND TO QUIT

Col. Larocque is the second chairman to resign from Sidney council within three months.

Former chairman A. A. Cormack resigned Aug. 23, along with Commissioner F. S. B. Heward, over a $185,000 road development program dispute.

Earlier in the year, another commissioner, J. G. Mitchell, resigned from council on the grounds it was impossible to work with Commissioners Boas, Douglas Taylor and L. A. Christian.

Water Skiers Need $4,000

Canada's national water skiing team has four days left in which to raise $4,000 to meet its expenses for the world tournament in Brisbane, Australia.

Coach Clint Ward said today the team is short that amount to meet its $15,000 budget.

"We're going anyway," he said, "but it'll be touch-and-go to make ends meet."

A grant from the Fitness council provided $6,240. Additional funds were contributed by interested private citizens, clubs and industry.

The seven-member team arrived in Victoria Friday to round-out its training prior to competing in the world tournament in Australia Oct. 30 to Nov. 9.

The team will participate Sunday in an exhibition tournament at Shawnigan Lake from 1 to 4:30 p.m.

Analyst's Comments — Monday Entries

By HAL MALONE

FIRST RACE: With all the early speed here—Mac Man, Mr. Spree, Magic Eve and possibly Avons Jr.—the winner could conceivably come from out of the pack. Cor-Asia has met better and has a late if not always potent kick. Morro Velko and Timely Tony are the other latecomers who should appreciate the early duel. In a close one . . . TIMELY TONY (Cor-Asia).

SECOND RACE: In Advance and Bossy Belle should set scorching early fractions here, dry or wet. But they might choke each other in the process. Some Royal Flush has been trying longer but is dead fit. So are Kimboy and Commander Joe. But when the real running begins we look for Broomfield to bring Rondocal flying. Bay Toe is a threat from behind if he draws in. . . RONDOCAL (In Advance).

THIRD RACE: With no Tommy Can looking over his shoulder, Who's Haydn may never look back with these. He's beaten most of them and the three pounds he picks up shouldn't bother him too much. Listo Librar will make him run, though, and from the inside seems the main danger. Golden Drake, quick but not the most consistent, could throw a scare into them. The others, unless we miss our guess, are mostly along for the fresh air . . . WHO'S HAYDN (Golden Drake)

FOURTH RACE: Exacto players will probably do considerable head-scratching here. The race is packed with possibilities. Some Standard and Brown Wheat appear to be the early clock-breakers and off her fine try with Johnie Hawk, the former has a big shot at it. Foxy Rover takes a dip in class but the way he's been running he's a question mark. Miss Quito is in the same category Patricia Bam and Border Spy, neither of whom we have considered as routers, could be mean in the lane as could Dark Bug, particularly if it rains. Of the eligibles Highdorn and Alice Kaput add to the contention. In a grab-bag . . . BORDER SPY (Patricia Bam).

FIFTH RACE: He hasn't run a bad race and will probably be the post favorite, but Chekaj Chekaj picks up eight pounds and a different boy today. Mil Easy should lead them out of the gate but unless she can set a false pace and be rated the stretch could look 10 miles long to her. Melody Man showed a flash of speed and used to be able to handle these. Whaang Leather has run two corkers on off tracks, drops two, and belongs. Pepperoni is hard to figure; with his best he's on the board. Top Bracket has been going well enough to be a threat, especially if the leaders falter. In a squeeze . . . CHEKAJ CHEKAJ (Whaang Leather)

SIXTH RACE: The farther he goes the better he seems to like it, but Why Him, who beat most of these in the slop, has his work cut out here. Hamish switches riders and hits hard in this company. Rush Call may try to steal it but she's hardly a proven marathoner. Flying Sea Spray closed resolutely in her last and then hung. Gay Bond wasn't a runaway winner of his last two but his manner was impressive. If Marsh, who knows him well, can rate him the first part it looks as if he could be posing for the photographer . . . GAY BOND (Why Him).

SEVENTH RACE: There are few sophs who can go with Rebel Hawk from the gate and none of these qualifies. But much depends on how much Saturday's effort takes out of him. Tommy Can steps up after three facile victories—all sprinting—but he's never been better and can lay close to the pace and then come on, the sign of a good horse. Joey Lark has an age advantage and looks them in the eye in the stretch. Peaceful Nite and Esperante both come from out of it and will need strong finishes to get on the board. It should be barn-blazer . . . TOMMY CAN (Joey Lark).

EIGHTH RACE: Sunrise Gal outfigures these for us, although Fifteen Freckles rambled in high gear from off the pace and Lady Flag could be prominent from this post. Adios Afficionados! SUNRISE GAL (Lady Flag).

Ex-Premier Back

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Vladimir Shcherbitsky, a former Ukrainian premier who lost his post under Nikita Khrushchev, has been restored to his old position, the Communist party newspaper Pravda reported today. He had been relegated to the Communist party secretaryship in the Dnepropetrovsk region in 1963, apparently after clashing with the former Soviet leader.

Liberal leaders—recalling the Rivard affair, the admission of reputed Mafia leader Joseph Bonanos to Canada, the Harry Stonehill case and recent allegations of an arson-bankruptcy racket link to Quebec politics.

SILENCE AN ANSWER?

He also charged that his questions this week about allegations that bribes were offered to six Creditistes to support the Liberal minority have not been answered—promising to keep asking the questions until silence became an answer itself.

He said Prime Minister Pearson's attitude to the scandal allegations was "like the threee monkeys—see no evil, speak no evil and hear no evil—and if you do, then forget about it."

He said after the Creditiste allegations about "the mess the Liberals got into with deals with the splinter parties, one can only contemplate the result if he (Mr. Pearson) had been able to trample Parliament with a majority."

Mr. Diefenbaker said only the Conservatives and the Liberals had a chance of forming the next government.

"Vote for the Liberal candidates, give the prime minister a majority, and what's going to happen? Are they going to clean up the mess?"

PC'S "HONEST"

He said his administration, even if it made mistakes, "at least was honest." But Mr. Diefenbaker said events had vindicated his stands on pegging the Canadian dollar, selling wheat to China, building northern roads for which the Liberals had ridiculed him

PACIFIC TRADE

Mr. Diefenbaker, in passing, gave approval to a recent policy statement by B.C. Conservative candidates, led by Davie Fulton, which promised to pursue a Pacific trade expansion beneficial to the whole country and especially this province.

"I'm not going to go into details but generally speaking what is stated in that policy statement is acceptable to the Conservative party in all parts of Canada," he said.

Referring to his plank for B.C. specifically, Mr. Diefenbaker said his administration spurred shipbuilding here with the 35 per cent federal subsidy and an allocation of government contracts that was fair to the west coast.

DITCH SUBSIDIES

"The Liberals came in and what did they do?—ditch the subsidies.

"We intend to restore that subsidy and we intend to ensure the west coast will expand by having its proper share of ship building in this nation," he said.

He also said that if old age pensioners wanted the $100 monthly pension in his program "you can't get that by voting for splinter parties and you won't get it if you elect the present government."

Mr. Diefenbaker said a Conservative government would implement the general outline of the Hall Royal Commission plan for medicare "but providing that there shall be freedom of choice and no regimentation."

He added that he would extend National Housing Act mortgages to older houses to assist elderly people on low incomes to improve and renovate their homes; remove the 11 per cent sales tax on building materials; and protect Canadians "from certain financial institutions which are charging high and exhorbitant interest rates."

The Tory chieftain also repeated accusations that the Liberals were intent on smashing Canadian traditions such as the monarchy and operated on a policy of creating racial dissension which would make citizens without an English or French background into second-class citizens.

90-Year Resident Here Dies In Hospital

A Victoria resident for all of her 90 years, Mrs. Mary A. Heritage died today in Royal Jubilee Hospital.

She was one of the oldest members of First United Church.

Her father, Alexander Wilson, was one of the founders of the church, formerly known as First Presbyterian Church.

She was predeceased by her husband, John Alexander (Chief) Heritage, a chief engineer on CPR Princess boats here for many years. He died in 1958.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday at 1:30 p.m. in McCall Bros. main chapel, followed by cremation.

She is survived by two daughters, Olive and Marion, both at home, 1438 Grant St.; a son, Wilfred in Powell River; sisters Mrs. Peter McKechnie and Miss Jessie Wilson, Victoria, Mrs. George McDonald, Burnaby, and a brother, Cleaver Wilson in California.

200 Attend School Opening In Langford

Some 200 persons Friday night attended the official opening of the new Savory Elementary School, Granger Road, Langford.

The opening was conducted by Dr. G. Neil Perry, newly-appointed deputy minister of education.

It was his first public appearance in that capacity.

The two-storey, six-room school has been occupied by 240 students in grades one to seven since the beginning of the school year.

It is named for the family of Miss Lily Savory, pioneer residents of the area.

WORKERS SUED

Strikers Suspended By Firm

TORONTO (CP) — Seventy-three strikers were suspended from their jobs and six others were sued for damages in major developments Friday of the wildcat strikes that broke out nearly two weeks ago, halting operations of 85 Ontario trucking companies.

Inter-City Truck Lines Ltd. of Toronto announced the suspensions of eight employees in Toronto and 65 others at its Windsor operations for refusing to obey union orders to return to work.

Inter-City was the first firm to be hit by the wildcatters, who are demanding an eight-hour reduction in the current 48-hour week without reduction in the basic $2 hourly wage rate. The companies refuse to negotiate until the men, members of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters (Ind.), return to work.

Estimates varied—600 to 2,000—of the number of strikers involved. But a spokesman for the Automotive Transport Association of Ontario, which represents 1,500 trucking firms, said Friday only companies in southwestern Ontario now are affected by the unauthorized walkouts. Many of the wildcat members have been voting through the week to return to work.

A Teamster official announced that six members of Toronto Local 938 are being sued by Direct Winters Transport Ltd. for $100,000 in damages arising from picketing activities at the company's premises.

Meanwhile, the Automotive Association announced a $20,000 reward fund to "stamp out acts of violence and malicious damage" in connection with the strike. It said rewards will be given for information leading to the arrest and conviction of those responsible for any acts of arson, assault, intimidation or obstruction.

Premier to Attend Annual CS Dinner

Premier Bennett and his cabinet will attend the annual civil servants' dinner in the Empress Hotel Dec. 14 honoring those with 25 years of continuous service.

The dinner is sponsored by the government and awards are presented. Premier Bennett usually announces the government's stand on the coming year's salary requests by civil servants.

'Turn From Brink' Rhodesia Urged

BRIGHTON (Reuters)—Edward Heath, Consevative opposition leader, today urged Rhodesian Prime Minister Ian Smith to "turn back from the brink" of a unilateral declaration of independence.

Heath, in a major speech at the final session of his party's annual conference here, declared:

"I would like to send this solemn message to Mr. Smith and his colleagues.

"We believe that a middle way must be found. If there are still thoughts of unilateral action, then turn back from the brink."

Heath clearly set out his party's position on Rhodesia less than 24 hours after the conference averted a major split by agreeing not to take any vote on the issue of possible sanctions against Rhodesia in the event of a unilateral declaration of independence by the white-ruled colony.

Heath said the British Labor government had followed the line of the previous Conservative administration, but the handling of negotiations was the responsibility of the government alone.

Heath stressed:

"It has not, and cannot have, a blank cheque from us on that. We are free to criticize the conduct of a negotiations."

PLEDGE EFFORT

He pledged his party to concentrate all its efforts on securing a negotiated solution in Rhodesia and added:

"Everyone here prays there will be no unilateral declaration of independence by Rhodesia. With all our hearts, we pray that."

Heath again underlined the party's new policy of directing all its efforts to a fresh bid to join the European Common Market. France vetoed British membership in 1963.

Debate Postponed

UNITED NATIONS (Reuters)—The United Nations General Assembly agreed Friday to defer for at least a week the start of its inevitably bitter debate on the question of Communist Chinese representation.

Work Week Reduced

MOSCOW (Reuters)—A steel plant in Volgograd has changed to a five-day working week, believed to be the first in the Soviet Union to change the usual six-day week. A brief report in Izvestia Friday night said, however, that there would be no cut in the number of hours worked.

VICTORIA, B.C., SATURDAY, OCTOBER 16, 1965—PAGE 23

Arthur Mayse

Since my filing system has begun to bulge my hind pockets, I think today we'll deal with a snippet of this and a snack of that, commencing with a reminder on an empty match folder.

"Call Joe," it reads; but since it doesn't specify which one, we'll pass on to the recent Retail Clerks' Union executive meeting in Vancouver.

The assembled delegates, Victoria business agent John Nickell reports, waited with more than ordinary eagerness for the last of their number to arrive.

This was Dave Masich of Prince George, a town which, even in the general B.C. beer drouth, is supplied through the liquor store by its own unstruck brewery.

Dave would have his car trunk loaded with cases, the bo. assured each other. When good old Dave showed up, the dry spell would, for the time at least, be over.

Like kids anticipating Santa Claus, they worried car, driver and precious freight down the highway.

In due time, Dave Masich arrived, to be met by a reception committee with bottle openers at the ready.

"Come on," a union brother urged him, "break out the beer!"

The pilgrim from well-lubricated Prince George smiled ar I shook his head.

"Sorry," he said. "Never touch the stuff. I'm a teetotaler."

Here's a note from a chum who has been fretting and brooding over the Canada Pension Plan booklet, a tasteful job with an appropriately blood-red cover, which Uncle in Ottawa hit us with a while ago.

"Early in the book," the complainant growls, "they provide a formula on which you figure out how much you have to pay. It goes something like this:

"You take your salary up to $5,000, or all of it if you earn less. Then you subtract $600, multiply your answer by nine, double it, cross off the last figure, and divide by 100.

"This is so reminiscent of the old trick questions where you guess somebody's age with a bunch of multiplications and divisions!"

It is indeed, and you can easily visualize the conjurer-in-chief of the federal gobbledegook department beaming as you come up with the answer, as I did on the third go-round.

As for the rest of the book, I'll understand it in heaven, perhaps . . . but not during my earthly sojourn in the welfare state.

In these pre-election days, candidates are galloping about the town like the white knight in the cleanser commercials who turns dirty shirts spotless with a touch of his magic lance.

Socred Frank Hunter, who, win or lose, was a darn good city clerk, stopped by on his rounds the other day. So too did Liberal Dave Groos, who makes time in an MP's busy year to take his young son fishing.

One night they slept out on an island beach, got up at dawn, and dropped a blue-and-white bucktail into the tide off Sidney Spit. Result: an 18-pound spring salmon.

Note written to myself: Tell how a 40-pound Labrador pup looks, playing with pink plastic mouse we bought for the cats. Well, he looks silly in the extreme, but even though he broke the squeaker on the first grab, the mouse continues to enchant him. He even goes to sleep with it under his paw.

For a puppy in the tearing-up stage, try a pair of tightly-knotted, and old, socks.

Another note, scribbled in the dark on the back of an envelope, about a quarter-mile from Vic High. Night school parking problem. Horrible!

And to conclude, a hope and a sigh for a good little Uvic magazine titled Tryste, which has just been kicked cruelly hard in the budget. It deserved better.

JOHN DIEFENBAKER
. . . answering the hecklers

PEEK-A-BOO!

Victoria Conservative candidate Clifford Waite literally tip-toed through his speech at Friday's meeting. The former naval chaplain had trouble seeing his audience over the high lecturn. But it didn't stop him promising higher things.

Armoury Rally

They Came, They Saw, They . . . ?

By JIM HUME

John Diefenbaker swung into Victoria Friday fresh of face but not, so many people said, fresh of message.

Welcomed at the airport by a slim group of supporters, he was whisked to the Empress for a brief rest and meal before facing a 2,000-strong crowd at Bay Street Armoury.

Even the staunchest Progressive Conservatives were not sure whether they were impressed.

Percy Hassall, 230 Henry, a self-confessed dyed-in-the-wool Conservative, said he had just turned out to see if "Mr. Diefenbaker had anything new to offer."

●

Mr. Hassall, who has never voted anything but Conservative, said he wasn't sure that "John was the man for the job."

"As a Conservative I do not consider John Diefenbaker as the man we need for a national leader," he said as he stood in the entrance to the mainfloor of the Armory.

"We need a strong man, someone like Mr. Bennett—but not as a Social Credit man, of course," he added.

Two elderly ladies who declined to give their names disagreed.

"He's a good man," they chorused. "He's honest, not like Mr. Pearson."

Did they think Mr. Pearson dishonest?

"Well, no, we think he's fine, too. But he doesn't seem to have very honest men with him, that's why we shall vote for Mr. Diefenbaker."

Mr. and Mrs. Basil Issigonis, 2124 McLaren, Oak Bay, left the rally early—because Mrs. Issigonis was sitting in a draft from the main door.

But they both said Mr. Diefenbaker wasn't saying anything new.

●

Would they vote for his party?

"Well we wouldn't vote Liberal," they smiled, walked off into the chilly evening.

George Cleaver, 1386 Courtland, one of the half-dozen young Conservatives parading on cue with banners while Mr. Diefenbaker spoke, was more specific.

"I like what he stands for," he said, resting his "Win With Waite" placard.

Dede Bumpus, 1640 Rockland, almost echoed the words: "I think Mr. Diefenbaker is the right man for our country," she said before she was pulled away by another party worker who advised her not to talk to the press.

Most people interviewed as they departed while Mr. Diefenbaker was still delivering his one hour and 15 minute address declined to give their names.

"I'm a salesman," said one young man speaking for himself and his wife. "I'm leaving for two reasons. One, the people I expected to meet here aren't here. And two, he isn't saying anything new. I expected to get a message of some kind, but I have better things to do with my time than to listen to that old stuff."

Mr. Diefenbaker ignored the steady flow of the audience for the exits.

The faded Red Ensign drooped behind him.

The band played one more chorus of "Hey, Look Him Over."

And the main crowd left, apparently as confused as ever.

Distributors Everywhere And a Loud Band to Boot

Nobody will ever know how many Progressive Conservatives were present at the Diefenbaker rally at the Armory Friday night.

There were Socialist "World Worth While" pamphlet distributors.

Pacifist "The War in Viet Nam Is Illegal" pamphlet distributors.

Student Union "Canada Needs to Provide Its Youth with Opportunity" pamphlet distributors.

Song sheet "Hey Look Him Over, Lend Him an Ear, Fresh In from Ottawa, Everybody Cheer" distributors.

And a loud band.

Conservatives?

Nov. 8 will provide that answer.

Victoria, capital city though it may be, is listed among the minor stopping points by Mr. Diefenbaker.

On this swing west the Conservative leader dropped in to Saskatoon, Winnipeg, Calgary and Victoria.

Today he is heading for whistle-stop speeches at Penticton, Kelowna, Vernon and Kamloops.

The next time around, during the final week of the campaign, he plans to hit the big cities like Edmonton and Vancouver.

His visit to Vancouver should prove the most interesting for during the last week in the present campaign Prime Minister Pearson will be there.

"It'll be like a back-to-back playoff game," one member of the press corps travelling with Mr. Diefenbaker quipped.

To date Calgary has been the high spot of Mr. Diefenbaker's western election campaign.

Members of the press corps travelling with him said the reception in Calgary was "fantastic."

"They have a new mayor in Calgary," one newsman said. "And he is working hard for John. The results showed. He had a great reception there, far better than Winnipeg where, to put it politely, he bombed."

For the rest of the tour the newsmen said people were reacting as could be expected.

"It's a strange campaign. So far people just don't seem to give a damn. They're either too confused to care—or they just don't care. They're not excited anyway."

Robert C. W. Jensen, 41, and his wife, Verna, are against war.

Friday night they were at the entrance to the Armouries distributing pamphlets asking Canada to "Speak Out" against the battle in Viet Nam.

And against war in general.

Mr. Jensen served in the RCAF in the Second World War, but became a pacifist later when he saw "that there was no point in it."

He was asked if he was a genuine pacifist or a "between the wars pacifist."

His answer, to his wife: "Have you any more leaflets left. . . ."

And he and Mrs. Jensen departed to distribute more poorly-typed pamphlets reminding people attending the Diefenbaker rally that "to be silent is to condone murder in Viet Nam."

Ban Noise Campaigners Get Hearing

About 100 residents in Oak Bay's Esplanade area today received an invitation to thrash out noise and traffic problems with council members.

They will meet councillors William Wade, Douglas Watts and Mrs. Frances Elford Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. at the Municipal Hall.

The meeting is a result of residents' suggestions on a questionnaire circulated by the municipality earlier this year.

Council has received several letters from residents during the past eight months.

SUGGESTIONS

Among suggestions to restore peace and quiet to the strip of waterfront roadway are:

- Extend the Esplanade north to the scenic loop on Beach Drive near Uplands Park.
- Make it a one-way street to reduce traffic congestion
- Barricade an extension of the Esplanade with a gate to be closed after a certain hour at night.

Aside from traffic problems and cars with noisy mufflers, residents have complained of the area being overrun with dogs, noisy beach parties and the street lights being too bright.

Q. What percentage of Canadians are of French origin? N.J.

A. 30.4 per cent, says the 1964 Canada Yearbook.

Q. Is local artist Robert Wood also the California artist who painted "Autumn Leaves," "Sunset Shore" and "October Morn"? If not, are they related? T.A.

A. Local artist Robert Wood did not paint the pictures you have named. And he is not related to the California artist.

SEE CAMPBELL TUESDAY

'What Next?' Sidney Asks

By HUMPHRY DAVY

Embattled Sidney commissioners will go to Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell Tuesday to ask if they should "throw in the Towel" or continue in office until the December elections.

The meeting was requested by four commissioners following the resignation of Lt. Col. J. H. Larocque as village chairman.

Col. Larocque, elected by acclamation as village chairman three weeks ago, would not give his reasons for quitting.

"It's up to council," he said. "I have made my reasons known in a letter. If they want to make its contents known, they are at liberty to do so."

REASONS UNKNOWN

But Commissioner Andrieas Boas, spokesman for council, said he did not know the reasons for the resignation.

The council members are expected to discuss two alternatives when they meet the minister:

1. Resign as a body and request the appointment of a government administrator to run the affairs of the village until the December elections.

2. Remain in office and contest the issues dividing council in the elections.

SECOND TO QUIT

Col. Larocque is the second chairman to resign from Sidney council within three months.

Former chairman A. A. Cormack resigned Aug. 23, along with Commissioner F. S. B. Heward, over a $185,000 road development program dispute.

Earlier in the year, another commissioner, J. G. Mitchell, resigned from council on the grounds it was impossible to work with Commissioners Boas, Douglas Taylor and L. A. Christian.

Water Skiers Need $4,000

Canada's national water skiing team has four days left in which to raise $4,000 to meet its expenses for the world tournament in Brisbane, Australia.

Coach Clint Ward said today the team is short that amount to meet its $15,000 budget.

"We're going anyway," he said, "but it'll be touch-and-go to make ends meet."

A grant from the Fitness council provided $6,240. Additional funds were contributed by interested private citizens, clubs and industry.

The seven-member team arrived in Victoria Friday to round-out its training prior to competing in the world tournament in Australia Oct. 30 to Nov. 9.

The team will participate Sunday in an exhibition tournament at Shawnigan Lake from 1 to 4:30 p.m.

SOOKE WANTS OWN HOSPITAL

Diagnosis 'Inconclusive'

By TERRY IZZARD

Greater Victoria hospitals' brainchild—a regional hospital district — underwent its first brain-picking session Friday night.

At the hands of Sooke residents the scheme was dissected, X-rayed and passed on for further examination.

Results of the first diagnosis were inconclusive.

They proved that district hospitals are in need of a thorough overhaul.

But they also showed a reluctance on the part of examiners to accept the prescribed treatment.

First and last cheer to ring through Sooke community hall came when one man stood up and said:

"We (Sooke residents) feel we are being overlooked.

"We need a hospital here—not in 40 or 45 years time—but NOW."

At the meeting were hospital administrators from the area and deputy municipal affairs minister J. Everett Brown.

They were appealing to local residents to support a plebiscite Dec. 12 which will ultimately accept or reject the idea of a hospital district.

REFERENDUM

If accepted, a referendum will be held in the 12 districts between Sooke and Victoria, appealing for $5,732,000 over five years to bring hospitals up to scratch.

In reply to the question of a hospital for Sooke, Mike Fraser, assistant administrator at Royal Jubilee Hospital, said:

"You'd need a 36-bed hospital for Sooke. You couldn't begin to finance the services you might encounter here."

CENTRALIZATION

He said hospital facilities are swinging towards centralization with smaller areas sharing the cost, adding:

"If you had a hospital here it would be no more than a clinic."

Several residents posed the question of chronic care hospitals.

William Morrison, administrator of Gorge Road Hospital, said these would not be included in the five-year program.

Crisis Faces German Gov't

BONN (Reuters) — A two-hour talk on renewing West Germany's coalition government failed today to solve the crisis which threatens to topple Chancellor Ludwig Erhard from power.

A spokesman for the minority Free Democratic party said Christian Democrat Erhard again refused to reappoint Free Democrat Leader Erich Mende as minister for all-German affairs.

His re-appointment is the party's condition for renewing a coalition which has ruled West Germany for four years.

The Free Democrat leaders immediately left for Mainz to attend a meeting of their party's national committee which will decide future policy.

They were due to resume Monday night, the eve of the first meeting of the new Bundestag (lower house of Parliament) elected Sept. 19.

Political observers believe the Free Democrats were too heavily committed to be able to make concessions without major loss of prestige.

Conservative elements in Erhard's party fear Mende would be too bold in making approaches toward East Germany and would too strongly support Foreign Minister Gerhard Schroeder in his flexible policy toward the Communist bloc.

If the Free Democrats, angered by the rebuff to Mende, refused to vote with the Christian Democrats on the chancellor's re-election Wednesday, the opposition Social Democrats would become the largest single party.

They have 202 seats to 196 for the Christian Democrats and 49 each for the Bavarian wing of the Christian Democrats and for the Free Democrats.

Legally, the Christian Democrats and their Bavarian wing are two different parties, and they need consent to a Bundesag majority to vote together.

Erhard would then not get the absolute majority required under the constitution for the first two votes. He still could be elected on a simple majority on the third vote—a humiliating expedient after his remarkable personal victory in the general election.

Caouette Slumps Before Liberals

By PETER REGENSTREIF

QUEBEC—What has happened to Social Credit? By this stage in the campaigns of 1962 and 1963, the non-metropolitan Quebec electorate was enthusiastically mobilizing behind Real Caouette.

Today, Creditiste strength is running at about half its 1963 level of some 27 per cent and the ardor characterizing its support a short two-and-a-half years ago is virtually non-existent.

The chief beneficiary of the collapse of Social Credit is the Liberal party which is now almost certain of at least a 60-seat province-wide total. The only solid Creditiste area remaining is the northern sector of the province which contains the ridings of Villeneuve, Chapleau, Roberval, Lac St. Jean, Lapointe, Chicoutimi and Charlevoix—and not all of these are necessarily in the Caouette camp.

●

The Liberals, with newly-acquired Jean Marchand, have now taken over the three seats in the Quebec City area which voted Social Credit in 1963. Using this as a base, they are spreading into the surrounding territory with noticeable effect.

The eight 1963 Socred constituencies on the south shore of the St. Lawrence are all likewise vulnerable to Liberal incursions.

Much depends on Sherbrooke. A well-conducted Liberal campaign with a good candidate there can have widespread repercussions throughout the region and could possibly convert even such hard-core ridings as Compton-Frontenac and Megan-

ROUSING WELCOME awaited Opposition Leader John Diefenbaker Friday night as he entered Bay Street Armory to the skirl of bagpipes. Supporters rushed forward to shake the leader's hand while others clapped, cheered and waved Conservative banners. A crowd of 2,000 crammed the hall to hear Mr. Diefenbaker's pre-election message which lasted more than two hours. (Photo by Halkett.)

Return of Ship Subsidy Promised by Tory Chief

By JOHN MIKA

Conservative Leader John Diefenbaker delivered a custom-tailored speech for Victoria interests Friday in Bay Street Armory—but both the old punch and excited crowds of his previous visits were gone.

If returned to power, he promised:

- To shipbuilders, restoration of the 35 per cent federal subsidy;
- To disabled and blind persons, abolition of the means test for pensions;
- To old age pensioners, an increase to $100 a month from $75;
- To universities, an increase to $5 from $2 in per capita operating grants to relieve the pressure on student fees;
- Consideration of increases for pensions of veterans, retired civil servants and the RCMP;
- An income tax deduction—of up to $500—for civic taxes paid by people who own their own homes;
- And incentives to exporting companies to undertake more market research, participation in trade fairs and more credit sales.

He was given standing ovations at beginning and finish, and there was enthusiastic applause mingled with the interruptions to his speech—but none of the fervid, almost wild acclaim that punctuated his every utterance here during the campaigns of 1957, 1962 and 1963.

And the audience was about half the previous sizes, totalling 2,000 including some 300 who were sent to line the balcony while six rows of about 250 seats remained empty at the back of the main floor.

Nor were there large contingents from up-Island points that were conspicuous at the earlier meetings.

This contrasted sharply with the crowds of:

- 4,000 March 25, 1963, in the same building when there were standees packed inside and several hundred outside listening to portable loudspeakers;
- 3,800 on May 29, 1962, in Memorial Arena;
- 4,000 on May 21, 1957, also in Memorial Arena.

(The former prime minister skipped Victoria during the 1958 election.)

Mr. Diefenbaker, however, recalled that his 1957 Memorial reception was "the prelude to victory" and he assured Friday's audience it was the largest he had ever seen here—proferring this as an omen of Tory victory Nov. 8.

He also mixed vitriol for the Liberal government leaders with a quiet-toned but firm rejection of the slogans chanted by about 20 "Peaceniks" who provided most of the heckling.

Mr. Diefenbaker repeated his questioning of the integrity of

Hecklers Draw Dief Into Viet Statement

Opposition leader John Diefenbaker was drawn into discussing Viet Nam by a group of Victoria peace pickets Friday night.

For what is believed to be the first time since he hit the election trail, Mr. Diefenbaker announced his support of the U.S. stand in the strife-torn country.

Against shouts of "What about Viet Nam?", "What about peace?", and "Yankee go home," the 70-year-old leader told the youthful hecklers they were taking the easy stand without knowing the consequences.

What they suggest, he said, "will not be the solution for solving the problem for them in the years ahead."

On several occasions Mr. Diefenbaker was drowned out by the chanting of hecklers who identified themselves as members of the Peace Action League.

Ignoring the interruptions, he went on to say that if the U.S. left Viet Nam, Southeast Asia would fall to the Communists.

He said it was his hope and prayer that the North Vietnamese government would agree to negotiations with the U.S., which, he said, has shown its willingness to talk settlement.

Scuffles at Meeting

VANCOUVER (CP) — External Affairs Minister Paul Martin made an appeal for a Liberal majority Friday night over the heckling of peace demonstrators at a public meeting.

Greeted with jeers and comments as he stepped up to the microphone to speak, Mr. Martin announced:

"I'm going to talk for an hour no matter what interruptions I have."

During his speech, minor scuffles broke out between demonstrators and Liberal supporters.

About 30 demonstrators picketed the theatre at which he spoke.

Four small children were in the group at the theatre door. One of them carried a sign reading: "U.S. aggressors get out of Viet Nam."

Takes Top Prize In Irish Sweep

(Times News Services)

A Mission, B.C., man was one of three Canadians today who won $150,000 top prizes in the Irish Sweepstake.

Walter T. Edwards received news by radiotelephone that he had won with a ticket on Tarqogan, winner of the Cambrideshire at Newmarket, England. (Race story on Page 20.)

His mother, Mrs. Nellie Edwards, said she talked to him by radiotelephone to Toba Inlet, upcoast from Vancouver, where he is employed as a boom man at a logging camp.

Mrs. Edwards said she does not think her son will quit his job despite the big win.

The only other B.C. winner, Bernard Rushton, operator of an electrical repair shop in Vancouver, is on a fishing trip in the Kamloops area and may not know he has won $60,000 as holder of a ticket on second-place Karelia.

The 18 ticket holders on Vancouver Island won $1,100 consolation prizes.

The two other $150,000 winners were R. L. Macdonald, a 67-year-old Toronto bachelor, and a ticket holder identified as "Curly Jo" of Edmonton.

Mr. Macdonald, now retired from the income tax office, said the money won't affect his personal life.

He said he'll buy a few books, go on a trip and give the rest away to charity and his brothers and sisters.

"It's too late to change my way of life," he said.

Seven Canadians won $60,000 prizes and there was one third place $30,000 winner in Canada.

Thousands Protest Viet War

NEW YORK (AP) — Thousands of persons protested U.S. involvement in Viet Nam in demonstrations Friday in more than a score of American cities.

Demonstrations were planned for today in Washington, D.C., New York, Berkeley, Calif., Los Angeles, Cleveland, Cincinnati, Columbus, Ohio, Ann Arbor, Mich., Salem, Ore., and Bennington, Vt.

In California, a major clash had been feared between 10,000 demonstrators and spectators in Friday's largest protest march, but there was little disorder.

The demonstrators attempted a protest march from Berkeley to Oakland, but they turned back when 375 Oakland policemen barred their way. National guardsmen had been on standby alert.

The marchers vowed to try again today.

A crowd of spectators estimated at 7,000 got between the marchers and police and eggs were thrown on the demonstrators from rooftops jammed with onlookers.

In New York City, David Miller, 22, of Syracuse, N.Y., burned his draft card during a rally outside the armed forces induction centre. He was one of the first to do so since destruction of the cards was made a federal offence.

Hecklers threw eggs at 40 pickets in Chicago and there was a minor scuffle. A bystander smashed a placard carried by a marcher and tried to strike him, but a policeman stepped between them. There were no arrests.

Most of the demonstrators across the U.S. were college students, but their numbers were few in comparison to the enrollments of the schools they attend.

Demonstrations were scheduled to be held by 1,000 students in Toronto today before the U.S. consulate.

An all-night vigil at Portland, Ore., by 20 students fizzled out before 11 p.m. They gathered Friday afternoon in the cold and wet before the army induction centre.

ACTRESSES FACE CHARGE OF OBSCENITY

ROME (Reuters)—The public prosecutor at Vieterbo near Rome has asked that actresses Gina Lollobrigida and Virna Lisi and actors Jean Sorel and Nino Manfredi be sent for trial on a charge of appearing in obscene scenes for a movie, a court source said today.

He also asked that Dino Risi and Mauro Bolognini, who directed them in two episodes of the movie Le Bambole (The Dolls), should be tried on the same obscenity charge, as well as the film's producer, Gianni Hecht Lucari.

Pensioner Aid Boost Proposed

OTTAWA (CP) — The government proposes to pay pensions of more than $100 a month to elderly people with no other income, Prime Minister Pearson said Friday night.

He said in a free-time CBC telecast that the Liberal government will propose to the provinces that they share the cost of higher old-age pensions for the needy.

"We have made it (the old-age pension) $75 and we will make it $100 or, if necessary, more than $100 in co-operation with the provinces" for needy cases.

'IRRESPONSIBLE'

Mr. Pearson said the opposition parties are irresponsible when they promise to pay flat-rate pensions of $100 a month to everybody aged 65 and over. This would cost an extra $800,000,000 the first year and would be too much for the economy to bear.

The Liberals proposed to concentrate higher pensions on people who need more than $75 a month and have no other source of income.

"Anybody who only has $75 from the state, and no other source of income, and needs more, even if it's $125—more than $100—should be in a position to get it.

"Now, I think this is a better

Junior Deb Wins First At Sandown

Well-played Junior Deb, with Jimmy Marsh aboard, won the first race at Sandown track this afternoon.

Wallys Gem finished second with Mr. Caviar taking the third slot.

It was another good Saturday afternoon crowd despite a chilly wind. Betting was brisk in the opener.

Junior Deb paid $4.50, $3.10 and $3.20. Wallys Gem returned $3.40 and $3.00 and Mr. Caviar paid $4.50. The quinella was worth $11.70.

The Sandown meeting will close with a full card on Monday.

AT UVIC

Graduate Studies To Start in Fall

University of Victoria will have a school of graduate studies in the near future.

The announcement was made Friday evening by university president Dr. Malcolm G. Taylor at the annual Uvic academic assembly to honor scholarship winners.

The new school, unanimously approved by the university Senate Wednesday, has yet to receive final ratification from the board of governors.

The plan will be presented to the board Monday.

Speaking to a relatively small group in the Gordon Head gymnasium, Dr. Taylor said "massive support" is needed for expansion of Canadian universities if they are to remain open to all qualified students.

MASTERS DEGREE

The new graduate school will probably accept students working towards masters degrees in arts and sciences next fall.

Dr. Harry Scargill, head of the linguistics department at the university, will chair the committee formed to plan and administer the new school.

Teaching standards at the undergraduate level will not suffer on account of demands from the graduate school, Dr. Taylor said.

A highlight of the assembly was the unveiling of an oil portrait of Uvic chancellor Dr. J. B. Clearihue, painted by Victoria artist Mrs. Myfanwy Pavelic.

The painting, a gift of the artist, was unveiled by her mother, Mrs. Will Spencer. It will be hung in the university library.

'FREEDOM . . .'

A university education is "not a right but a freedom," featured speaker Dr. Gilbert D. Kennedy, deputy attorney-general, told the gathering.

Speaking on "freedom to differ," he outlined often-abused rights of modern society.

In a brief address to the assembly, Chancellor Clearihue traced the university's growth.

He stressed that academic freedom, "the basis of a successful university," must not be lost.

Winners of awards totalling $24,500 were recognized at the assembly.

Diplomas were also presented to graduates of the university's new public administration course.

Development Funds Likely For Stadium

University of Victoria development funds could play a part in proposed centennial stadium construction at Gordon Head campus.

A university spokesman said today community donation of the basic stadium could persuade the university to release supplementary construction funds from previous capital development commitments.

He was commenting on the proposal that Greater Victoria municipalities offer jointly their Confederation centennial grants to build the capital's first major sports stadium at Uvic.

A university board of governors committee invited members of the five Greater Victoria municipalities to meet at Uvic Tuesday to hear details of the proposal.

FITS PLAN

The spokesman said the university proposal fits in exactly with the 1961 Uvic master site plan, and if accepted would advance stadium construction by several years.

Priorities for capital development are given to academic buildings in order to meet demand for classroom space and more urgent teaching facilities.

But the master plan envisages a sports complex in the northwest corner of Gordon Head campus.

This would include a swimming pool, ice surfaces and additional playing fields as well as indoor playing surfaces.

A basic stadium, including a running track, infield playing area, small, covered grandstand, dressing rooms, storage space, services, lighting and fencing could exceed the $450,000 total centennial project grant that will be available.

MORE FACILITIES

Additional funds may then be necessary to complete the basic requirement, if not to enlarge the initial concept to include some of the facilities that the university hopes to have ultimately.

Tuesday's meeting is expected to consider local representation on any university stadium board of control.

This would ensure outside sports interests and other community programs of getting their share of stadium time.

United Nations Association Official Visits

The national youth secretary of the United Nations Association in Canada will visit Victoria next month.

Tom Schatczky, recently appointed to the national executive, will arrive here Nov. 13 for a two-day stay, part of a cross-Canada tour.

He will address high school and university UN clubs on current topics.

Another UN official, C. V. Narasimhan, under-secretary for General Assembly affairs and principal aide to Secretary-General U Thant, will arrive in Vancouver Sunday.

His visit will mark the opening of UN Week meetings with high school students and Vancouver civic officials.

Mr. Narasimhan will also be guest speaker at a dinner Monday in Vancouver in honor of the 20th anniversary of the UN.

Saanich Dog Wins 3 Awards In Bermuda Show

A 3½-year-old German shepherd from Saanich this week won three awards in dog shows in Bermuda.

Champion Von Greg-Cyn's Commander won the best dog in show award and a first and second place in two classes.

The champ is owned and was raised and trained by Mr. and Mrs. Gregory Iverson, 5323 West Saanich Road.

Prior to the Bermuda show, Champion collected a series of Canadian awards. He took best in show at the Vancouver Island Dog Fancier's Association show in Victoria in September. He then won two best-in-show prizes at the all-breed Edmonton show.

The Iversons are flying back home today.

Explosives Kill 55

BERLIN (AP) — Explosives from the Second World War uncovered in East Germany have killed 55 persons and injured 455 in recent years, the West Berlin Association of Free Jurists has reported. The association said many of those involved were children.

TWINS BORN ON BUS GET RIDE FOR FREE

MEXICO (Reuters)—A bus driver in Pachuca, 75 miles north of Mexico City, found his passengers had increased by two between stops Thursday, when Mrs. Marta Perez Hernandez gave birth to twins with nothing more than moral support from fellow passengers.

The driver diverged from his route to carry the new arrivals to hospital.

No extra fares were charged.

White Man's Election Scorned By Iroquois

TORONTO (CP) — A panel of Iroquois Indian speakers opened a three-day conference Friday with wide-ranging criticism of the white man's handling of Indian affairs.

Representatives of 40,000 Iroquois is North America are attending the conference, called The Iroquois Speak.

At the first session the Iroquois were joined by Kahn-Tineta Horn, a Mohawk model from Caughnawaga, near Montreal.

Points made by the panel included:

- Iroquois do not want to vote in federal elections because they consider themselves members of a separate nation.
- They reject the Indian Act as a violation of treaties between the Crown and the Indian confederacies.
- Band councils are elected under the act to be stooges for the federal government.
- Iroquois living in Quebec are English-speaking and do not want to speak French.
- Indian affairs should be kept within federal jurisdiction.

way of approaching this pension scheme.

"It's so simple to say, 'all right, you gave them $75, we'll give them $100,' but I'm not going to engage in any auction of the people's money for that kind of thing.

"I think that's quite irresponsible."

COST NOT ESTIMATED

Mr. Pearson did not estimate how much the proposed "Canada assistance program" would cost. He said only that his government is prepared to pay "a large share" of the extra pensions, leaving the rest of the bill to the provinces.

He spoke during a 15-minute filmed interview with David Logan, Liberal candidate in Victoria, Ont., and Mrs. Logan. Mr. Logan said he is constantly asked by voters what the Liberals intend to do about the old age pension.

$9 Million For Hospital Blunders

HARROGATE (Reuters)—Nearly £3,000,000 ($9,000,000) has been paid out to hospital patients for blunders made in British operating rooms, a nurses' conference was told Wednesday.

Dr. T. W. Brooke Barnett, deputy secretary of the British Medical Defence Union, said sometimes the wrong patient was operated on, or the wrong leg amputated.

Last year there were 29 cases of wrong operation compared with 13 in 1963.

Half the compensation cost was paid by Dr. Barnett's union and the rest by the hospitals involved.

Dr. Barnett said the £3,000,000 total had been paid out by the Medical Defence Union since it was formed in 1885, but the bulk of the payments had been since the Second World War.

Two Victorians Made 'Subbies' At HMCS Venture

Two Victorians were among 34 officer cadets who graduated Friday from HMCS Venture, the navy's short service officer training school.

Graduating as acting sub-lieutenants were James Helps, 520 Downey Rd. and Michael Dalzell, 848 Bank St.

They and their fellow cadets paraded at 2 p.m. at HMCS Venture parade square to climax the ceremonies.

The cadets were also inspected by Rear-Admiral M. G. Stirling, flag officer Pacific coast.

Ceremonies marked the end of a 13-month training program.

HE KISSES MONTH TERM GOODBY

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP)—A kiss in time saved an 18-year-old youth 30 days in jail.

Judge Saul Rabb of criminal court sentenced Jerry Rogers of Indianapolis to 90 days at the state farm Friday for driving a stolen car. Before he was led away, Rogers kissed his mother goodby.

"That shows he's a nice boy," Rabb interjected and cut the sentence to 60 days.

"Kiss her again," urged the youth's attorney.

The judge said, "Once is enough."

Highway Accidents Soar in Britain

LONDON (Reuters)—Half of Britain's 52,000,000 people are liable to be killed or maimed in highway accidents during their lifetime, says the Royal Society for the Prevention of Accidents.

It based the forecast on the present trend of road accidents and the biblical life-span of three score years and 10.

The government-sponsored society reported 1964 road casualties totalled a record 385,500. Deaths reached a new peak of 7,820.

There have been 10,500,000 road casualties, including 295,000 deaths, in Britain since 1900.

The estimated accidents for 1965 are put at more than 400,000, climbing to 500,000 a year by 1975. On the average, 21 persons were killed and 1,032 injured every day of 1964.

Town Planning Students Tour Greater Victoria

About 40 town planning students toured the Legislative Buildings, Capital Region Planning Board offices and Victoria Centennial Square Friday.

They included 30 from the school of planning at the University of Washington and 10 from the University of B.C.

The group was to complete its field trip to Greater Victoria today with a full day of touring notable features of the urbanscape.

Cafe Man Files Suit Against Air Pollution

A damage action against B.C. Forest Products Ltd. for air pollution was filed in Victoria Law Courts Friday by city restaurateur Paul Arsens.

Mr. Arsens is also asking a perpetual injunction against smoke and fly ash nuisance alleged to be caused by the company.

The writ was filed by Pearlman and Lindholm, solicitors for Mr. Arsens, who is proprietor of three city restaurants, including Paul's Crown House at 3075 Douglas.

Mr. Arsens is claiming unstated damages and costs for the diffusion of smoke, soot and fly ash. He said the suit was begun to alleviate the fly ash problem which "has plagued Paul's Crown House since it was started in 1959."

"There has been a constant outcry over the past 10 years against the fallout which leaves a daily layer of grime on businesses and residences in the northern part of the city," Mr. Arsens said.

"I decided to take some action in the matter."

He said the nuissance is an "impediment" to business and both customers and staff suffer from it.

In his suit, Mr. Arsens alleges loss of patronage and devaluation of his property.

'Majority Government A Necessity'

A strong plea for a majority government to be returned to Ottawa on Nov. 8 was made Friday by David Groos, MP for Victoria in the last Parliament.

Speaking at Henderson Hall in Oak Bay, he said at future federal-provincial conferences it is essential for the national government to be in a position of strength to bring about national unity and to pass essential legislation.

A majority government was necessary, he said, to pass such future legislation as a National Health Plan and the Canada assistance plan to aid those who are not covered by the pension plan.

He also warned there would be difficulty in the future in controlling some of the unpleasant inflationary aspects of the present business and industrial boom unless there is a strong government in Ottawa.

Champion Makes Bid For Saanich Seat

Gordon Champion, 3572 Cedar Hill Road, isn't wasting time when it comes to elections.

Friday he declared himself a candidate for the Dec. 11 Saanich municipal election and began turning the wheels in his campaign machinery.

He summed up the reason for his early start this way:

"I feel, as a taxpayer, I should declare my intention of running in the hope other young businessmen will come forward.

Main plank in his platform will be a demand for a man to coordinate movements of the fast-growing municipality along the lines of a city manager.

Five seats on council will be contested this year — three of which result from the proposed increase in council members from seven to nine.

Mr. Champion, 35, is an insurance broker and has lived in Saanich for 13 years.
